79 ARRESTED AFTER POT SMOKE-IN

Gastown Riot Probe Sought

HELPING FIGHT FIRE on west slope of Mount Douglas Sunday are young teen-age boys, who officials said contributed "tremendously" in extinguishing 10-acre blaze. All of Saanich's available crew worked on the fire for two hours. Indications are that it may have been started deliberately. See story Page 17. (John McKay photo.)

Police Action 'Excessive'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A marijuana smoke-in protesting recent police pressure on the illicit drug trade erupted into a bloody riot Saturday night as police arrested 79 and chased hundreds more for blocks through the old Gastown section.

Aldermen and eyewitnesses charged police Sunday with using excessive force in clearing the streets of several hundred demonstrators and more than 1,000 bystanders. They called for outside investigation of the incident by the attorney-general's department.

Obstruction, Assault Charged

Fifty-four persons were charged with offences ranging from obstruction of a police officer to assault and possession of a dangerous weapon. Bail ranged from $150 to $1,000, and eight persons were still in custody late Sunday on the dangerous weapon charges. Twenty-five of those arrested were released hours later without charge.

Thirty-eight of the adults charged were to appear in provincial court today. Three juveniles were to appear in juvenile court. Court appearances for 13 others were not set.

Ald. Ed Sweeney, who witnessed part of the riot after being telephoned at home, criticized the police for being too aggressive and said they were using special three-foot riot sticks "like you would use a stick to beat a dog."

More Restraint Necessary

He said both police and demonstrators appeared to provoke each other but said the police should have used more restraint and discrimination. Police Inspector Robert Abercrombie used a loud hailer and gave the crowd just two minutes to disperse, he said, then police "just charged into the group."

Photographers covering the disturbance were harassed by police.

Glenn Baglo, a photographer for The Sun, said a mounted policeman snatched a camera from him. Only the leather strap on the camera was broken, and no film was taken or destroyed.

Dave Looy, who was filming for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., said a sergeant told him to stop taking pictures and "get out of here." Mr. Looy said while filming earlier he had been hit several times by police from behind. Both photographers wore hard hats identifying their respective organizations.

Police Chief John Fisk was ordered by Mayor Tom Campbell to make a full report on the disturbance.

Chief Fisk said a number of allegations had been made suggesting abuse of police authority and improper police tactics in quelling the demonstration. Eyewitnesses were asked to give information to the four detectives and senior officer conducting the investigation.

Merchants Switch Sympathy

Meanwhile the Gastown Merchants Association, which had earlier given full support to the police in their efforts to clean the drug dealers out of the area, seemed to have swung 180 degrees in its attitude.

Larry Killam, president of Town Group Realty Ltd. and one of the largest property owners in Gastown, said Sunday at a meeting of the association that lawyers would be in his offices today to take affidavits from witnesses concerning the police action.

He and other merchants contributed $3,000 toward a bail fund for those arrested.

He said he saw police pull a girl in shorts by her hair and shoulders on her seat through broken glass toward a paddy wagon. Mr. Killam, who watched from his offices above Maple Tree Square where the riot began, said he saw a man taken to the door of a paddy wagon by four officers and beaten on the head with riot sticks.

Later Sunday, 18 eyewitnesses told an impromptu press conference in a Gastown coffee house about their experiences.

Stan Williams, who said he was a transient from St.

RUSSIANS LASH PEKING

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet news agency Tass accused Peking Sunday of pursuing a policy of "great-power chauvinism" towards its non-Chinese population and seeking to destroy its national traditions.

A Tass commentary, published in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya, says Peking treats scornfully the languages of non-Chinese peoples.

"Of the more than 50 non-chinese peoples and nationalities populating China, only 11 have their own representatives in government bodies of provinces and autonomous regions. But even these representatives occupy posts of little significance," it adds.

Driverless Car Eyed for Moon

HOUSTON (Reuter) — Engineers are studying the possibility of sending a moon-rover on a final driverless journey hundreds of miles across the moon's surface.

The scheme has not yet been formally proposed to NASA. But Boeing, RCA and Delco, who built the moon-buggy, see it as a way of squeezing the last ounce of benefit from the Apollo program before man ends this historic era of exploration.

A preliminary study has indicated that an automatic rover is technically feasible.

Boeing officials said this weekend that a remote-controlled rover could be produced for Apollo 17, scheduled to fly to the moon in December next year. But it would need major modifications on the model which made its debut on the moon with Apollo 15.

The major changes would include fitting it with controls that could be radio-commanded from earth; an earth-seeking antenna that would enable its color television camera to remain on as it travelled, surveying its path and taking in the surrounding moonscape; long-duration batteries or a small nuclear-power generator; and possibly heaters to protect the electronics from the intense cold of the lunar night.

Jail Without Trial As Irish Blood Flows

BELFAST (CP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland ordered internment without trial for guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today and banned the annual religious parades which for the last two years have inflamed the communal passions of Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Meanwhile, Ulster's worst wave of violence for two years continued unabated with at least five more people, one of them a young boy shot dead today.

Three other people were killed over the weekend and 300 suspected terrorists were arrested under the new emergency powers.

Police said the boy was believed to have been shot while trying to throw a gasoline bomb during a clash between rioters and British troops.

Another victim was a British soldier, but there were no details on his death, or the deaths of three civilian men killed during street gunbattles during the morning.

BURN STORES, OFFICES

Shootings, arson and rioting also were reported in Londonderry and the border town of Newry. Army reinforcements were flown to Newry by helicopter after rioters set fire to stores and offices.

The bitter fighting was an apparent backlash to the internment measure announced earlier in the day by Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. He said he would sign orders for the detention without trial of all those who were thought to pose a serious and continuing threat to public order and safety.

The action was clearly aimed at militant factions of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, who have claimed responsibility for many of the slayings, raids and acts of sabotage that have brought a total of 12,000 British peace-keeping soldiers to Ulster.

Faulkner also slapped a six-month ban on sectarian pro-

Rahman Faces In-Camera Trial

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Sheik Mujibur Rahman, whose Awami League followers led the rebellion against the Pakistan government, will go on trial Aug. 11 before a special military court for "waging war against Pakistan and other offences," it was announced today.

The announcement was issued by the headquarters of President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, in his capacity as chief martial law administrator.

Rahman, popular leader of the Awami League in East Pakistan, was arrested on the night of March 25-26 when West Pakistan troops moved into East Pakistan to put down a secessionist movement by the Awami League.

IT'S HOT—UP, DOWN, SIDEWAYS

Who is a man to believe when it comes to Victoria's temperature on a given day?

Take today at 11:30 a.m.

The weather station at Gonzales Heights came up with a figure of 77 degrees; Pat Bay airport registered 79 degrees; but the winner, heat-wise, was the sign atop a downtown brewery which showed 81 degrees.

Gonzales can be affected by cooling from the Strait of Juan de Fuca and may lose a degree or two — one spokesman said as many as 20 some days — while the airport weather station is also subject to winds, being on the tip of the Saanich peninsula.

* * *

So the brewery building may be the most accurate of all.

The weather forecaster at the airport said the heat wave will hold for the next few days.

On Sunday the highs were 82 at Pat Bay and 77 at Gonzales. No one recorded how hot it got downtown.

Dollar Again Jolted; This Time by Swiss

FRANKFURT (AP) — The Sagging U.S. dollar got a new jolt from Europe today when the Swiss national bank acted to stop a speculative rush of dollars into Switzerland and dollar prices were driven to record lows in this West German city.

Dollar trading throughout Europe was light to moderate and marked by falling prices for a currency considered overvalued by many experts.

Dollar Crisis Background—Page 31

The latest pressure on the dollar probably was touched off by a congressional study issued in Washington Friday night urging a realignment of the U.S. dollar rate among industrial nations and arguing that the dollar is overvalued.

The Swiss bank acted to stop a new speculative flow of dollars by putting the Swiss frank equivalent of all dollars sold into a special frozen account for the time being.

The move came after the Swiss franc buying-selling price of the dollar plunged to 4.0565-4.0595, slightly below the voluntary intervention point of 4.0600 at which the national bank has been buying dollars for the last few days.

MAKES MARKET NERVOUS

"The dollar was already very weak," said one Frankfurt dealer. "Then we had this congressional report and the Swiss bank action so we have a hectic, nervous market."

The dollar opened at a record low 3.43 marks in Frankfurt.

$180 ROUND TRIP FARE U.K. TO CANADA SOUGHT

LONDON (AP) — The state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation is campaigning for a $180 round-trip fare between Britain and the United States and Canada.

Commenting on aviation industry reports the BOAC would establish the tariff in defiance of international fare-fixing agreements, an airline spokesman said Sunday night it was "going too far to say we are offering" the new low fare, "but that's what we want and have proposed."

The proposed BOAC fare would apply on transatlantic flights originating at either en...

It is $21.60 lower than the rate suggested by three major North American airlines — Pan American, TWA and Air Canada. It is $81.20 lower than the cheapest existing fare available, the off-season excursion.

BOAC's campaign, if successful, is almost certain to cause a crisis inside the International Air Transport Association, which has been fighting to save its fare-fixing mechanism, the aviation industry sources said.

IATA is currently holding a fares conference in Montreal.

Liquor Prices Change

Price changes went into effect Aug. 1 on 16 Liquor Control Board items under a new policy of fixed mark-ups on different products.

LCB chairman William Bruce said the 14 price increases and two decreases were passed on to customers following changes in prices charged to the board by suppliers.

The two decreases were French Chablis, $4.60 to $3.85 and Walkers' Crystal Vodka, $5.15 to $5.

Increases were: Beefeater Gin, $5.35 to $5.50; House of Lords Gin, $5.40 to $5.55; Tanqueray Gin, $5.35 to $5.50; D.C.L. Old Scotch, $7.40 to 8.05; Sandeman Sherry, $2.95 to $3.15; Dry Don, $3.20 to $3.35; Seppelt Australian Claret, $1.85 to $2.00; Elka Beer, $4.10 to $4.65; Frydelunds Beer, 4.25 to $4.35; Mortlach Scotch, $6.30 to $6.60; Danish Mead, $2.35 to $2.45; Eden Rose, $2.70 to $2.95; Johannesburg Orsat, $2.85 to $3.10; Sandeman Port, 2.95 to $3.20.

. . . GASTOWN

Thomas, Ont., told the coffee house crowd of 125 that "generally there was just a mass beating-up on everybody for no reason."

A policeman "told three or four others to get me," he said. He said he suffered a broken arm either in the chase or the beating by police that followed. It was four or five hours before he got to see a nurse at the police station and not until 9 a.m. that he was taken to hospital for treatment.

Richard Roth of New York City said he was picked up by four police in the same area. "They took me into a back alley and beat me up . . . and I can't hear too well as a result. They also broke my glasses."

Record store owner Charles Traynor said he saw police club to the ground a woman who was pushing a paraplegic in a wheelchair.

"They beat her senseless, then pushed her into the paddy wagon."

"We must look at both sides," Mr. Fisk said.

He said he feels that the public has supported police action in previous confrontations between officers and large crowds.

"I am anxious to ensure that support continues."

Mayor Campbell said he wanted the report no later than Tuesday and would probably seek a preliminary report today.

The mayor also said he wanted witnesses with complaints or comments on the actions of police and demonstrators to write his office.

"All I've heard so far is rumor and hearsay. We are going to need more than that if we are going to begin an investigation. . .

"If we decide to go ahead with one it will probably be this Thursday and I hope it will be public," Mr. Campbell said.

"I would like to hear testimony from anyone who would like to appear, but I wouldn't want it to turn into a circus. The only question is: Did the police go too far in Gastown Saturday night?"

He said he was referring to actions of individual policemen and was not questioning the use of riot gear. "I'm sure the police didn't go down there just for exercise."

If rocks and bottles were being thrown at them they were justified in using return force, "but they are not entitled to go around beating innocent citizens."

"We would inquire into the amount of force used and if we found it excessive, there could be reprimands, suspensions or firings of police."

BRANCH FALLS ON WOMAN

When the temperature creeps into the 80s too much sun can be dangerous.

It can also be dangerous in the shady comfort of a tree . . . when a branch falls on you.

This happened to Mrs. Patricia Taylor, 915 Lodge, who was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday from Hamsterly Beach on Elk Lake at 4:30 p.m.

She was treated for a shoulder injury and released.

Coleman received head injuries and is in good condition is St. Joseph's Hospital.

Colwood RCMP said the truck, a loaded tanker, rolled when making the sharp turn from Sooke Road to Jacklin. Police said the vehicle was set back on its wheels by a fork lift machine.

A spokesman for the volunteer department said the truck was one of several going to a fire at 777 Goldstream.

He said the fire involved about half an acre.

cessions — frequently the cause of Roman Catholic-Protestant clashes.

A Belfast police spokesman confirmed that more than 300 persons had been picked up on internment orders.

The spokesman refused to disclose where the suspects were being held, but there have been reports of camps being readied to take detainees.

The weekend violence started with the slaying of the driver of a delivery truck, Harry Thornton, when his vehicle backfired outside an army post. Sentries apparently believed they were being attacked and fired a fusillade of shots which killed Thornton.

Patrick McAdorey, a 25-year-old IRA officer, was the latest to die. He was shot to death early today. His friends said a Protestant sniper did it, not the army.

IRA guerrillas hijacked the ambulance carrying McAdorey's body and placed the body in Holy Cross Catholic School. Hundreds of people filed by the coffin.

A British soldier on sentry duty in Belfast was shot dead by a sniper Sunday night—the 11th soldier to die in Northern Ireland in the last six months.

Later in the night a private security guard was killed by an exploding nail bomb planted by terrorists at a foundry in another part of the city.

SIX-MONTH BAN

Faulkner's ban on parades meant that the Protestant Apprentice Boys of Derry, scheduled to march Thursday in celebration of victory over Roman Catholics in 1689, would not be able to take to the streets.

Unofficial reports said those captured today included the entire executive council of the Civil Rights Association of Northern Ireland, all but one leader of the Leftist People's Democracy, the student group that launched Bernadette Devlin's successful campaign for Parliament, and members of republican clubs.

Arrested persons may be held 48 hours, and police may get extensions on this. Within 12 days an internment order has to be issued or the arrested person freed.

The internees are to be kept at Belfast prison on Crumlin Road.

AIMED AT IRA

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Republic of Ireland to the south opened army camps near the Northern Ireland border for the dependents of internees.

Although internment bore the approval of the British government, Lynch said it was "deplorable evidence of the political poverty of the policies pursued."

"The main target of the present operation," said Faulkner, "is the Irish Republican Army. They are the present threat."

Witnesses said today's renewed violence exploded mainly in Catholic areas as news of the army raids and internment measures spread like wildfire.

In Belfast, the worst trouble area during the morning, at least six double-decker buses were hijacked and later set on fire. Some streets were barricaded. Troops faced angry, stone-throwing crowds and some shots were heard. Several buildings were set on fire. Roaming gangs of youths attacked and overturned cars.

Public transportation services into the city were abandoned on many routes and long lines of people waited vainly to get into work.

In Londonderry a crowd attacked and set fire to a Protestant hall. Other rioters attacked a bus station and set some of the vehicles ablaze.

During the last internment period, from December, 1956, to February, 1962, a total of 335 people were held, although the highest figure detained at any one time was 187.

Rubber bullets and tear gas were used in the fighting today. The army was attacked with nail bombs and stones.

The soldier killed Sunday night, a private in the Green Howards Regiment, was the 29th person killed this year in the communal violence in Northern Ireland and the 11th British soldier. A total of 59 persons have been slain since Northern Ireland's ancient Catholic-Protestant feud erupted into new warfare during the annual parade of the Protestant Apprentice Boys in Londonderry on Aug. 12, 1969.

WON'T BAN PARADE

Despite the mounting violence, the Protestant government refused to ban the 1971 parade, scheduled for Thursday.

Snipers' bullets injured three soldiers slightly during rioting that followed Saturday night in protest against Thornton's death.

Mobs rampaged through Belfast again Sunday night, and "the city was in a hell of a state," an army spokesman said.

Shortly after dark a "brief but vicious" riot erupted in the Ardoyne Roman Catholic area, and it was during this clash between the army and stonethrowing demonstrators that a sniper killed the soldier. Snipers injured two other soldiers slightly.

Canoe Death To Be Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A formal inquiry will be made into the canoe capsizing at English Bay Saturday which left one man missing and presumed drowned.

A spokesman for city police said Sunday the investigation will be launched as soon as the body of Ralph Bettin, 23, of North Vancouver is found. Four others were rescued.

David Owen, 24, said the group was about 200 feet from a freighter in the bay when they switched positions and the canoe capsized.

"Then we saw a tug towing a barge of lumber coming toward us," he said.

"When the tug was about 500 feet away, we knew it wasn't going to stop so we swam off in different directions. The tug went right over top of us, but I couldn't see its name."

Rande Stevens, 20, managed to grab the tug's tow line and clamber on board. They later discovered Bettin was missing.

17 Hot and Thirsty Miles . . .

It was a hot, thirsty and triumphant cavalcade of about 100 cyclists which wheeled into Sidney at noon Sunday, completing a 17-mile jaunt from Victoria.

Leaving from University Stadium, the cyclists wound through Cordova Bay, were refreshed by the municipality of Central Saanich and met on the outskirts of Sidney by Mayor Stan Dear and Ald. Wilkie Gardner, both on bicycles. Central Saanich Aldermen Percy Lazarz, Ted Clayards and Ken Stanlake also pedalled the last lap.

Machines included 10-speeds, Mustangs, a number of old reliables and even an adult tricycle.

★ ★ ★

Riding the trike was Mrs. J. N. Thom, 3937 Cumberland, Victoria, who said she often shops for pleasure this way. "You get used to the fresh air!"

Many biking families were in veidence among them Fred and Hazel Bartlett, 4330 Gordon Head and son Barry. Their machines were equipped with saddle bags and were used on a recent three-week jaunt in Holland and Denmark. Each bike carried nine pounds of luggage and they travelled 400 miles along cycle paths like those common in E urope.

Two o fthe youngest participants in the Bike Week Tour were Peter and Colin Lichtenstieger, age 10 and 9 respectively, of 1836 Feltham, Victoria.

★ ★ ★

Their patents are members of Victoria Wheelers Cycling Club which promotes racing and touring in this area.

"Cycle paths have got to come" said D. W. Lichtensteiger who, like other pedallers, found the secondary highways scenic but too crowded by cars.

"Drivers often try to be smart by coming too close or else they insult us by driving on the other side of the road!"

Many cyclists paid tribute to the police of all three municipalities who patrolled the cavalcade, checking on stragglers and forming a protective vanguard.

WAITING in their own styles for start of the Victoria to Sidney cycle jaunt Sunday are various participants (above, top right, and below). They were all waiting for big moment (centre) when word was given to start pedalling. (Ian McKain Photos)

2 Composers to Join Uvic Staff

The University of Victoria music department has announced the appointment of two composers to its teaching staff.

They are Rudolf Komorous, internationally-known Czech composer, and Brian Cherney, a young Canadian earning his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto.

Komorous emigrated from Czechoslovakia in 1968 and has taught in the U.S. and Canada. He taught from 1959 to 1961 at the Central Conservatory in Peking and has had his works performed at festivals in Warsaw, Prague, Venice and Donaueschingen.

He was a visiting professor of music at Macalester College in Minnesota.

Cherney got his B.A. and M.A. in music at Toronto and has held two Canada Council Doctorial Fellowships.

He worked at the Bayerische State Library in Munich and at the New Music Centre in Darmstadt, Germany. He recently won the McMaster University Chamber Music Competition with his composition String Quartet.

The CBC has commissioned him to compose a work for chamber ensemble for the winter CBC festival in Toronto.

Cherney's doctorate is in musicology. He is a pianist as well.

Blue Yonder and Back

ONCE MORE UNITED STATES astronauts have scored a magnificent scientific and human triumph with the successful completion of their 12-day journey to the moon. The harvest of moon rocks and information is believed to be by far the most valuable yet brought home, matching the record dimensions of the whole project which eclipsed previous ventures in almost every department. The final moments of the splash-down added their tension when one parachute failed to open fully, and provided a reminder to earthlings that technical proficiency — impressive though it is — cannot eliminate all the hazards that attend so complicated an undertaking in so alien an environment.

That aspect emphasizes the endless courage of the men who participate in the space flights, so well demonstrated on each of the missions. Although ages to come no doubt will look back on the 1970-71 efforts as the ox-cart stage of extra-terrestrial travel, they will produce no better examples of human capacity and fortitude than we see today.

There is mounting pressure to curtail space exploration — and that is something which United States authorities and taxpayers will have to decide for themselves. But the arguments for continued projects on one scale or another are massive. There are the direct scientific results, many of which may be employed in bettering life on earth; there are the advantages of creating a large body of highly trained engineers, technicians and specialists whose combined abilities form an invaluable pool of workers in this age of burgeoning development on all fronts; there are the medical advances which have been derived from space study. But above all there is the inexhaustible human urge to explore — without which no human progress would have been made after man first stood erect.

The exploratory instinct which drives even one-celled creatures to move out for food is an inherent part of homo sapiens. It took him into the adjacent forest when he had nothing but his feet and hands to carry him; it drove him into farther valleys, over lakes and seas, across continents and finally beyond the planet. The urge is not only extensive but also intensive: it drove man to look inside his own body, into cancer cells, bacteria and the atom itself.

That exploratory, inventive drive must continue if man is to be himself, and it is pointless to call for perfection on the earth before anything outside it is attempted. It may be man's curse that he cannot stop. But it can also be his glory.

Co-operation at Chemainus

THE SILENT SHAPE OF things to come may be seen in last week's amicable settlement at Chemainus of a noise pollution problem. The incident should be noted by other centres on Vancouver Island and throughout the province, for it illustrates first, a problem of our times, and secondly, how the problem may be solved through communication, co-operation and good will on both sides.

Neighbors of the G. S. Doman Ltd. lumber yard at Chemainus complained of the noise generated by trucks, saws and other equipment, particularly when operations continued into the night. A survey by the firm held that the noise was not abnormal, especially in view of traffic noise from the highway.

Meetings between those involved, however, resulted in the firm's undertaking to make improvements, such as acoustically designed buildings and walls, better mufflers on forklifts, and a general lowering of the noise level by truck operators and other yard employees.

That is a fair enough approach to the problem, for it is one that has to be faced. It should provide a good example for other firms and individuals in other places, where the noise level creeps past the tolerable point for human comfort.

Greater Victoria could start with trucks and buses which because of their power generate a lot of noise; and with drivers of cars and motorcycles who have not got beyond the stage of children with toys that make a racket. There is a regulation calling for mufflers and it is time it was enforced.

Bicycle Licensing

IF VICTORIA CYCLISTS WANT an agency to register their bicycles, to facilitate indentification in case of theft, the city would be well advised to provide such a service. But registration for a fee should, at least initially, be on a voluntary basis. A nuisance charge, small though it may be, imposes one more bureaucratic control on the individual which many persons will resent.

Before a city policy is adopted on the issue, the earlier bike licensing system should be examined. Has the situation changed since the practice was dropped in 1958 after 13 years of unsatisfactory trial? If it has not, why institute it again when it did not work before?

Space at The Base

The Ottawa Citizen

Ottawa's downtown Place de Ville doesn't score with us as a particularly attractive building complex — yet to the extent that some effort has been made to open up a bit of space around the high-rise structures, it has something to teach city planners.

Too many high-rise structures have already risen cheek-by-jowl along the downtown thoroughfares to reassure any thoughtful citizen about the prospects of an attractive downtown core.

We would be wise, under the leadership of city planners and politicians, to bring this to a halt—and require that if a building goes high, space be set aside around its base to let in air and light. In other words, the space-height restriction applied in residential Ottawa should be invoked to prevent the central area becoming a solid sheet of nondescript high-rises.

With the lid virtually off building heights, this requirement has become feasible. Ottawa can only gain if it is invoked.

Paradoxes as China Opens Its Gates

THE routine of life for an American visitor in China these days is full of paradox. For example, you live in an atmosphere of vicious and persistent anti-American propaganda, but are treated with unfailing personal courtesy and are free to cable your impressions without censorship from the lobby of your hotel. There is not a word in the papers or on the radio here about the latest American moon landing, but you can call the desk at the Tsin Chiao Hotel for an excellent Chinese short wave radio and listen to the conversations of the astronauts on the moon via the Voice of America and the B.B.C.

Reston

Officials here are obviously pleased about President Nixon's coming visit to Peking, but his visit is not discussed in the press or on the radio, both of which relentlessly characterize the American Government as the "arch criminal" of the world. The United States, they insist, has been "beaten black and blue" in Vietnam, but still goes on backing a "Fascist clique" in Vietnam, and is reviving "Japanese militarism" and plotting new wars of aggression in Korea and the rest of Asia.

Requests 'Passed On"

When you ask who writes these editorials in the Peking People's Daily, the Peking Review (a weekly published in English, Russian and many other languages), and ask to talk to them, you are told that your request will be "passed on." You are never told that any request is impossible. You are merely given the next day's schedule, which sometimes includes your requests but usually doesn't.

Still, things are obviously changing here, tactically and on the surface, at least. The Kissinger mission and the forthcoming visit of President Nixon are only the most dramatic evidence that the Chinese Government has decided to end its isolation from the rest of the world.

It sees Washington withdrawing from Vietnam, London joining a new Europe, Moscow and Washington talking about the control of strategic nuclear weapons, Japan emerging as a major industrial power, Moscow expanding its power in the Middle East and along the southern shore of the Mediterranean and building a Navy for deployment in all the oceans of the world.

Peking obviously wants to be in on this new organization of the world beyond Vietnam, beyond the unification of Europe with Britain, beyond the present stalemate in the Middle East, and beyond the present talks on the control of nuclear strategic weapons.

So it is changing its attitudes and tactics. It is giving the diplomatic corps in Peking more leeway. It is allowing Western diplomats to travel more widely across China. It is inviting more journalists and scholars to come here. It is encouraging more nations to establish diplomatic relations with Peking, and for the moment, it is concentrating on getting into the United Nations.

Specifically, Peking is now negotiating with the British to establish embassies rather than lower-grade diplomatic missions in Peking and London. It has agreed to allow the Reuter News Agency of London to send a full-time correspondent here, and it is now puzzling over the avalanche of appeals from Americans to visit or establish permanent offices in Peking. In a way, Peking's diplomacy with Kissinger and Nixon has outrun its capacity to handle the practical problems of dealing with American scholars and the American press. The Foreign Office here now has over 300 requests from Americans and American institutions to come here.

Practical Problems

These range from appeals for visas from Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, which puzzle them, to requests from news agencies to establish permanent bureaus in Peking, or requests from the television networks to set up machinery for satellite broadcasts of the Nixon visit.

One has the impression that officials here don't quite know how they are to handle all these practical problems of their new diplomacy. They don't have enough Chinese-English translators on their staff to service so many visitors, and they seem a little vague about what the leaders of this Government want them to do with all these new requests.

So, for the time being, there is a dilemma between Peking's strategy and its tactics. Its policy remains the same — indeed Nixon's appeal to come here seems to have convinced Peking all the more that its policy has been right — and its more lenient attitudes and tactics seem designed merely to promote its policy of weakening American influence in this part of the world.

In short, Peking is ready for normalizing relations with Washington, but on its own terms: total American withdrawal from Vietnam and Taiwan, and what seems to interest officials here even more than anything else — a weakening rather than a strengthening of Japanese power in the Pacific.

Letters to the Editor

Expropriation

I wish to correct a statement made in your paper of July 28, 1971.

You said that worry over B.C. Hydro expropriation of our property contributed to my husband's death.

That is not true.

My husband and I had reached an amicable agreement with the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority over a right-of-way across our property. There was absolutely no connection between the two events. — (Mrs.) Sylvia Sandstrom, R.R. 7, Munn Rd.

(Editor's Note: The Times did not state that worry over expropriation had contributed to Mr. Sandstrom's death and regrets that the story was so interpreted. The Times did quote a neighbor of the Sandstroms to the effect that Mr. Sandstrom had been upset at the prospect of leaving his property.)

Outdated Morals?

A few days ago I heard a young high school girl speaking on the radio on the shopworn topic of sex again, who amongst other things said in effect, that it is not wrong for a girl to indulge in sexual activities as long as she feels in herself that she is not doing wrong, and she should be free to do as she likes without having anyone try to force "outdated morals" on her.

To begin with there is no such thing as "outdated morals." There is, and always will be the immutable law of right and wrong, and it still applies as much today as it did centuries ago. Man's morals may change, but that does not change facts. This girl may have reached the status of high school, but I am afraid that she, and many others like her, still have an awful lot to learn in the school of life, and if they do not listen to "outdated morals" they will have to learn the hard way by personal experience.

They should read Proverbs 12.15: "The way of a fool is right in his own eyes; but he that hearkeneth unto counsel is wise," or Proverbs 14.12: "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." I know young people do not like to be preached at, but these are plain facts written by Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived.

This "freedom" to do as one likes (no matter what age) may be thrilling and exciting to begin with, but when the "gilt is worn off the gingerbread," what have they? When I see evidence that lives are enriched or ennobled by loose living, or so-called freedom then I will acknowledge we do not need "outdated morals," but so far the evidence overwhelmingly points the other way. I only wish everyone concerned would think this thing through to the end, which end has to come according to the immutable laws of nature. One "cannot play with fire and not get burned." — Still Heartsick.

Attract Harassment

After reading your article reporting the comments of "Strike Boss Jack Phillips" made to the Victoria Labour Council, I am sure that many people — union members and others — are disgusted with the methods being used by the union leaders to impose their will on other members of our community.

Your report said Mr. Phillips referred to the Minister of Labor as "a cream puff" and strike breakers as being "on a level with the child molester and drug pusher."

Is this not proof that failure to agree with union demands and opinions is all that is required to attract harrassment by words and deeds.

The present owners, employees and patients of Sandringham Hospital deserve the full support of members of this community for their courage in carrying on their duties in the face of such difficulties.

If the minimum wage scale is too low the solution is in legislation secured through the proper channels, not by the use of insulting words and actions.

No laws are being broken by the victims of these senseless actions. Surely there are enough union members who are opposed to the continuance of this pointless demonstration to demand an end to it. — J. Barraclough, 1626 Rockland.

Problem for Russia: 'A New Game Is About to Start on a New and Larger Board'

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW, from London

MASTERLY inactivity in foreign affairs has never appealed to Russians. Moscow, like St. Petersburg in earlier days, enjoys thinking up things to do, the more the merrier.

So, on the face of it, the Russians have been having things very much their own way for many years past. They have been engaging in a wide range of strenuous activities in the not wholly misconceived belief that this will keep the enemy guessing and themselves a move or two ahead in the game.

It is permissible to wonder whether in all this bustle they have taken enough time off to think precisely what the game is supposed to be about.

Genuine Initiative

But now, with President Nixon ready to exchange cordial bows with Chairman Mao, Russia is for once faced with a genuine initiative, and one calculated to change quite radically the whole pattern inside which she has been operating for so long. A new game is about to start on a new and larger board, with the new rules still very far from clear.

Thus, to give one example, if China at last is to come into play, then so must Japan — no longer tucked away out of sight as the new workshop of the world, but a major piece of formidable power with its own role still undefined.

No wonder Moscow is keeping quiet. It is easy to imagine the extraordinary activity in the Kremlin since Mr. Nixon's announcement. Lights burn through the short summer night. Brief after brief comes in from Mr. Gromyko's office, from the Party's Committee for Foreign Affairs and from the Defence Ministries.

It is one thing to foresee a possibility, quite another to be ready for it when it arrives. No doubt the Russians foresaw that one day America might make a deal with China: certainly they have talked about it enough in the general line of propaganda. Had Khrushchev still been there he would have been on the hot line to Washington at the first mention of ping-pong. His successors are slower, and they are obviously divided.

Some will be sure that Mao is staging the whole operation to blackmail the Soviet Union into changing her China policy. More, probably, will see Nixon as the first blackmailer.

Some will insist that there is a genuine collusion born of the most barefaced opportunism and designed to put the Soviet Union on the ropes. Others, it may be, are saying in effect: "Look, we have been nagging at America for decades to 'normalize' her relations with China. Now, under extreme pressure of a kind we understand as Leninists, she is belatedly doing so. With wariness and with profound reservations, had we not better appear to welcome this, go easy, and try a little more normalization ourselves?"

The Russians are stretched. Although they are making a great splash in the Middle East and holding their own in Europe, although they are so brilliantly successful in space and can (presumably) burn us all up by pressing a button, things are very far from satisfactory at home and they have not a friend in the world, or a reliable ally (except, perhaps, Bulgaria).

It may not so far have been necessary for a major atomic Power to have a friend or an ally, but the Russians themselves seem to set a great deal of store on breaking the Western Alliance.

Bolder

Khrushchev thought it was dangerous for Russia to challenge America in Europe, the Middle East and Asia while confronting along her own borders a hostile and imponderable China. His successors have been bolder. They can hardly be called reckless (Khrushchev was reckless over Cuba, though circumspect when it came to the pinch). But they have not given an inch in Europe, or vis-a-vis China; they have created a nasty situation in the Middle East; and, at very great expense, they have set about the business of neutralizing American naval power in the Mediterranean, with an eye on the Indian Ocean.

Nevertheless, they have carefully avoided a head-on collision and, to all appearances, have been moving seriously towards a more sensible arrangement over Germany and the killingly expensive multiplication of devices for long-range destruction.

To Push or Not

Now they will have to move faster, one way or the other. The great argument will be whether to stop pushing and make concessions (to the Chinese? to West Germany? to Israel?), or whether to push all the harder. The only other choice is to turn in on themselves entirely.

Russia has to ask herself, and fairly quickly, whether she wants to dominate the world absolutely by a combination of guile and vicarious force extending over decades, perhaps generations (how would she set about this with only 250 million people and all those Chinese next door?) or whether what she above all wants is to make herself invulnerable to anything but atomic war.

Because if, for whatever reason, America proceeds to build up China with loans etc. if the Chinese market is open to the West, the Soviet Union will not have a hope of asserting herself effectively by going on as she has gone on for too long — making trouble, throwing away allies, as she threw away China and Yugoslavia by refusing to treat them as equals, alienating her closest neighbours and keeping them in chains, cutting herself off from the West for the sake of Berlin and an increasingly mythical leadership of a discredited Communist movement.

She will really need a friend. She can find more than one if she sets her heart on it.

60 Years Ago

From the Times of August 9, 1911:

Great excitement prevailed in the Epworth League Camp meeting which was held at Desplaines, Ill., when the secretary, Miss McKeon, requested that the board of the Methodist church set aside five thousand dollars as a fund with which to establish a matrimonial and social bureau. Pandemonium broke loose and the meeting was in an uproar. There were over ten thousand delegates present.

Words of Wisdom for 'Casual' Marijuana Smoker

By NORMAN PANZICA

(Consultant to the Ontario provincial probation service and a youth consultant on the Council on Drug Abuse, Panzica has worked with more than 200 drug abuse cases since 1959.)

So you're a 28-year-old young professional and you're playing around with marijuana and hashish; and it doesn't seem to be hurting you. This is just recreational use, you say. A lot of your friends are doing it. They are interns and lawyers and artists. You get high maybe two or three times a month in a setting of absolute safety and discretion and what's wrong with that? The situation, you say, is well in hand.

Lots of luck, Charlie.

You're fooling yourself when you say, "Everybody's doing it." We both know that's not true. You have to think so because you're doing it, since misery loves miserable company.

The Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario says that marijuana among high school kids is now estimated at a whopping 18 per cent or so; when I went to school that was not a majority.

You can't do it just anywhere, can you? You do have to be rather careful about who knows. You have to watch where you leave the stuff or evidence of it. In more ways than one, you may be heading for trouble.

Maybe you favor legal grass (and its unknown results) just to make your own habit legitimate.

One frequent complaint I get from young swingers like yourself is that the only thing wrong with grass is that it's illegal. You say that the biggest psychological effect of grass is how "paranoid" you are about getting arrested. On the other hand you say you don't need it; you can give it up anytime.

You can't play it both ways. If you're doing it as a simple pleasure-seeking act of free will and you find it making you uptight with nervous, anxious suspicions, then why not give it up?

In other words, if you're getting a mental effect you hate, then only two conclusions are possible: either you can't stop, in which case you're wired, or you would rather feel paranoid than not. And even if we play it your way —that the only pschological effect is feeling paranoid — that's still a pretty big price to pay.

But there are other costs.

By way of illustration, consider the case of a young writer I know. He's a lot like you — popular, intelligent, and pretty good at what he does. (Well, he has the odd secret anxiety or two.)

He's done a good job of convincing himself that hash is harmless but sometimes a brief flash in his mind makes him wonder — is he on a dangerous path? There have been a few studies about deformed offspring, but of course these only involved hamsters, rats and monkeys. And the National Institute on Mental Health says smoking grass distorts time and space perception even before the user feels high. The American Psychiatric Association says it deprives the person of realistic knowledge of the consequences of his acts. And so sometimes he worries.

But then, he says, look at his friends. They're okay and, really, it's only three or four times a month. Why should he worry? He should, because of rule number one with you who think it is harmless:

Watch for any change in your pattern of use or in you.

One of the changes in you that worries me is what it does to your attitudes — especially in making you forget that people vary in their stability. Do you really think every teen-ager is like you, and can handle everything you can handle? How conceited you are, to think that you are all people!

If you are a teacher, are you taking a softer line on grass with your 12-and-13-year-old students? I've seen that happen. Maybe you're a resident in a hospital and you find yourself refusing or forgetting to give advice to young inpatients about the psychotropic effects of grass. Maybe you're a nurse in a psychiatric facility who now looks the other way when dope is smuggled in.

In a word — are you still you? Are there subtle changes?

Consider my writer friend. At first, he smoked up only in his apartment and always with the same four friends. Then a few months ago, there came pot parties which grew to 18 or 20 people.

Then he decided that if it was safe behind the locked door of his apartment, it was probably safe behind the locked door of somebody else's apartment.

What's the next step? It seems that as his use of marijuana and hashish continues, he is getting progressively less cautious. This not only suggests something about the probability of detection but I think it also tells us something about what the use of grass may be doing to his discretion and self-concern.

Here are a few other things to watch out for:

- Have you dropped out of a club or two since you started smoking hash? A narrowing in the range of interests is a well-known result.
- Similarly, do you find your discussions with your friends more often involve dope? This would include drug laws, what kinds of hash are better than other kinds, etc.?
- Have you found yourself proselytizing — even a little? Do you remember saying to anyone "Come on, it's the greatest!"?
- Are you beginning to change your mind about never touching chemicals? Is LSD or MDA a little less frightening to you than it used to be?
- In conversations, are you a little slower on the uptake than before?
- Are there friends you used to like that you don't see any more, and are they people who are down on grass and hash? Are they people who have refused to smoke up with you?
- Are you beginning to experiment a little as to when you get the best high? Maybe you are trying it with liquor one night, beer another night?

Think about it. How many resolutions about drugs and firm convictions on other things have changed since you started playing with hash?

Isn't it really a case of "so far, so good?" If you're really in control of the habit, the established pattern of the first two months shouldn't change at all. The basic question is not how much change, but whether there is change.

Think about it, Mr. Swinger, and let's see where you're at one year from today.

A MESS, BUT IT HAS HEART

Bangkok: City of Paradox

By T. D. ALLMAN
Manchester Guardian

Bangkok, the largest city in South-east Asia, is a congested depressing conglomeration of more than two million people that has sprung up overnight on the banks of a polluted river in the middle of a featureless plain.

In its way, it is a summation of the obvious ills, and of some of the advantages, of Asia's headlong rush into urbanization.

On the surface, Bangkok is an ecological case study. It is dirty; the streets flood; the sewers have better things to do; the climate is impossible; the traffic makes London's seem sedate; the water is unsafe to drink.

The city's fledgling industrial complex diffuses a smokescreen the color of a cancerous lung; prices are high; the city smells.

Petty theft, high-level corruption and overweening hypocrisy are not merely rampant but triumphant.

Yet this urban pathology often finds expatriates as well as Thais with euphoria rather than disgust. And even its professional detractors concede that Bangkok falls into that elusive category of cities which manage to be great without having gargantuan populations, great cultural achievements or antiquity, or the excitement of Big Power politics.

●

Bangkok is a blood brother to New Orleans, pre-Castro Havana, and pre-war Saigon.

Structurally, Bangkok has no beginning, no middle and no end. Physically it resembles a miniature Los Angeles, with flying cockroaches instead of scorpions in the suburbs.

Where Los Angeles has a decaying centre core, Bangkok has a Chinatown that rests in the centre like an indigestible abscess.

Instead of the suburban valleys, Bangkok has Bangkapi, 90 blocks of Kentucky fried chicken concessions, Mexican chili parlours, petrol stations, and ersatz Continental restaurants.

Bangkok has its own strip, the new Petchburi Roah extension: miles of girlie bars, short time hotels and soul food snack bars.

Bangkok has no beaches, but it has a sleazy port section, Klong Toey, where the action begins and ends early — all the sailors are well bedded down and the bars are empty by 10 p.m.

But for all its ugly amorphousness, Bangkok has heart. It it loved because basically it is a happy place, and a wildly exciting one too, not only for the American soldiers out for a good time, but for the millions of Thais for whom it holds the same central position as Paris does for the French.

●

It is all summed up by a Bangkok girl of kind disposition and easy morals. Pretty, overpainted, 18, she is waiting for her English boy friend to send her a plane ticket.

"He say we will live in North 22 but I must go to school in Southwest One . . . It must be so cold there . . . But the thing I want to know is do the English people have good hearts?"

Heart, and good manners, are very important in Bangkok. If you are rich, your wallet will be stolen and the credit cards posted back to you. If you have run out of money, the taxi-driver will take you home free, but will show up the next day for a tip.

Bangkok's taxi-drivers personify the city's partial accommodation with the disciplines of modernity. Every taxi, by law, is equipped with a metre. But all are permanently "out of order."

Such impersonal devices are darkly threatening to the Thai way of life, and the drivers have cut the cables and bludgeoned the knobs. Prices are unaffected, but must be determined by an elaborate bargaining process.

"It's like establishing diplomatic relations with the whole city on a personal basis," was how a newcomer saw it.

●

One of Bangkok's mysteries is how such a supremely unattractive city manages to appear a cross between Tahiti and Bali in guide books and picture postcards.

The reason is two-fold. The hideous whole is constantly relieved by the flashes of color and corners of repose that the Thais love so much.

Orchids are on sale next to pig's intestines. Little boys sell flower wreaths, along with newspapers, to motorists.

And the Thais themselves are richly photogenic. Thailand is justly called the Land of Smiles, but like the national motto, roughly translated "Never Mind," the smile can mean anything: Yes; No; I like you; Please go away. If the foreigner does mind, he should take the next plane out.

The insane asylums of the East are filled with foreigners who tried to extend Bangkok's veneer of Westernisation beneath the surface. Unlike Hongkong or Singapore, Bangkok lacks both the blandness and efficiency that arrived with the Union Jack.

More than the city's glorious Buddhist temples, now often overshawdowed by skyscrapers, sex is probably the Bangkok attraction that draws the most return visitors.

It is abundant, cheap, and lacks the air of degradation characteristic of most "fun cities." The crucial thing is that Bangkok is neither Port Said nor Tijuana.

Tolerantly Buddhist, predisposed to a good time, Bangkok lacks post-Christ guilt and post-Freud self-consciousness. No Krafft-Ebing, and no formal introductions.

●

Of Bangkok's million wage earners, the majority do not derive their incomes from the primary sectors — transport, government service, light industry or small business.

The relative affluence of most rests on the multiplier effect of foreign money which has been drawn to the city by convenience rather than necessity — the Vietnam war and the instability of neighboring regimes have meant an influx of capital that has allowed Bangkok to live for years beyond its means.

But more menacing factors cloud Bangkok's future than a predictable period of economic transition. The city's engaging, if somewhat disreputable, amiability rests on two factors. Neither the degradation of overpopulation nor the exploitation of an industrial revolution has alienated Bangkok's millions from their humanity.

But the city's continuing inability to cope with its enormous growth and Thaiiland's soaring birth rate may do just that.

The Temples of Bangkok

Brandy Sneaker

Had he really poured unwanted brandy into the side of his shoe at Winston Churchill's dinner parties: and how?

"Yes," said Lord Butler, "I did, yes."

Wasn't it a bit uncomfortable?

"Well you see, you've no idea. You had the ordinary wine and sherry and champagne, and afterwards you had these great bowls of brandy, and the man was told to pour like that (here Lord Butler sloshed imaginary brandy into imaginary glass). Then after that, you were confidently expected to drink whisky and soda. And it's all very well, because I'm quite a tough guy, but I got fed up with it, so . . ."

But why not into a potted plant or something? And how do you tip brandy unobserved into your shoe?

Lord Butler, who was sitting in an armchair, demonstrated by crossing his legs at the knee, raising the right shoe a little, and then making as if to pour just below the level of the table. "If you put your shoe like this — I bring it to your attention. And when I was in my constituency and being given very bad sherry, I used to do the same. Just down there, you see. It feels a bit squelchy. You have to change when you get home."

GHOUL WATCHERS

By CRUX

Why is moon exploration such a bore? If it hadn't been for the homebound crisis of Apollo 14 and the subsequent death of the Russian astronauts, Apollo 15 would hardly rate front page coverage.

Now like other adult viewers I am mildly but ghoulishly alerted for the thrills that bad news may possibly bring. I say adult viewers because if my own family is anything to go by the younger generation are surprisingly uninterested.

My son is a fanatical spaceman. Yet the elaborate BBC coverage of the Apollo flights excites him far less than browsing in Patrick Moore's Space Atlas or seeing 2001 Space Odyssey yet again.

Partly no doubt this is because his reading and his imagination have taken him far beyond the moon to the planets and into interstellar space. But the main explanation I'm sure is that children don't make a sharp distinction between the imaginary and the real world.

In what they see on the telly and in the books they choose to read they mix fact and fiction and prefer the latter. The prospect of seeing real drivers crash at Le Mans or real astronauts frizzling to death keeps millions of adults sitting expectantly in front of their television sets.

It is a taste I am thoroughly ashamed of and which my children don't yet share. No doubt we shall successfully educate them into it.

In a year or two they will put away childish things, separate fact from fiction and acquire the ghoulishness of adult civilised man.

Off to the Inscrutable Occident

By RUSSELL BAKER

While President Nixon's dramatic announcement that he'll visit America some time next year is still reverberating happily through this tired old world of ours, the intricate staff work that must precede any such historic Presidential mission is already well advanced at the White House.

In undertaking his journey to America, the president was well aware that he would be severely hampered by the lack of a large corps of government experts deeply familiar with this immense and baffling country.

We once had such a group of men, known on the Washington cliche circuit as "old America hands," but they were forced into early retirement years ago because their information too frequently failed to be the information presidents wanted to hear.

Accordingly, with characteristic unpredictability, President Nixon has told Professor Kissinger to assemble a group of new old America hands.

Several hundred have already been rounded up, finger-printed and sent to Attorney-General John Mitchell for what is known on the police cliche circuit as "security checks," or, as we say in the mother tongue, to make sure they're not the kind of people apt to tell the president anything he doesn't already believe.

While waiting for this crop of experts, the White House staff planners are wrestling with a host of incredibly complex questions about Mr. Nixon's host country.

Is there, for example, really a Hoboken? Is New Jersey, in fact, real? Or, as seems more likely, is it merely another of those elaborate spoofs that so delight the American's devious occidental mind with its taste for grotesque humor?

Mr. Nixon danced a Rumanian folk dance in a public square in Bucharest with that country's premier. Logically, it would seem correct, upon visiting New York, for him to dance the boogaloo with Mayor Lindsay in Central Park. But is it?

While such questions are vital to preserving presidential "face," they have no great political import. The more difficult problem for the president will be to get behind the facades and showcases that will inevitabily be presented to him as "the real America" and to find out for himself what conditions are truly like on that sprawling North American mainland.

White House advisers are already turning down incoming proposals that they believe are designed to give President Nixon a misleading idea of life in America.

One plan, which they have vetoed, called for the president, while visiting Washington, to travel by bus during the rush hour from the White House to a suburb, with no special assistants or bodyguards to help him.

The idea was rejected on the ground that it would give the president a distorted idea of how people are moved to and from work in the American capital. White House staff with personal experience of Washington insist that workers there usually travel by chauffeured car.

Many "sensitive" sites the president has asked to see will probably not be available to the White House party. Generally the Americans have replied to such requests by stating that the activity the president wanted to see does not exist.

The attorney-general, for example, proposed that the president ask to attend one of the sessions of an American court at which criminals are coddled.

The White House sent along the request, but after long delay the Americans replied that due to the whimsical nature of juridical digestion in their country there was no way of telling in advance whether a given criminal might be coddled or sentenced to a 1953 haircut on the day the president happened to visit the court.

At Vice-President Agnew's suggestion, the White House has also asked the Americans if the president may tour one of their notorious Northeastern communications centres and observe the workers at their task of distorting the news.

No reply has yet been received to this request. If one is, White House aides say, the president will not base any sightseeing plans on it, because it is bound to be deliberately misleading.

White House aides are often asked, "Do these exotic presidential travels really do any good?" "Yes," they always say, since they are not paid large salaries to tell the public that the president is wasting his time.

The fact, however, is that no president these days can visit America successfully until he is out of office. This suggests a useful amendment to the Constitution.

In addition to the president who visits around the world, it might give us another governing gentleman, only slightly less exalted, who would be compelled by law to take the bus — on rainy days, a taxi — betwen his home and the White House.

Geography to Politics Chile's a Handful

By LEWIS H. DIUGUID

SANTIAGO (WP) — Chile has one of the world's more perverse geographies and South America's most radical politics. For many Chileans, the politics follow the geography as surely as tremors accompany an earthquake.

A conservative and well-schooled attorney stood among the law books scattered about his study by the June 8 quake. He cited the extremes from arid north to Water-soaked south, much of the land beautful but of little practical use and said:

"When we try Chileanization and nationalization and socialism, it is not because we are just restless. We are driven to seek something that works."

DIFFICULTIES

Costs of maintaining transport ond communication, let alone political dialogue betwen Santiago and the 25 strung-out provinces, have caused severe economic difficulties for all governments in this country that is 2,600 miles long but only 100 miles wide.

Each government has experimented with new gadgetry, if not with new theory, and the results have often been still higher costs.

Not far out of Santiago is a graveyard for old engines. It is a museum of all the locomotives built in Europe and the United States and imported to Chile, starting with four-wheel puff-bellies of narrow gauge.

They rust there in neat rows, abandoned reminders of the promises of successive presidents to revolutionize service with the latest equipment. Now deisel and electric trains lurch along the rough roadbed and the central planners increasingly ask if rail transit of any sort is needed.

The railroad and the only highway running beside it down through the populated central valley are still at the mercy of an often merciless weather pattern.

In 1939, when an earthquake struck the southern port of Concepcion it was isolated for a week, and the population finally was evacuated by the British ships Ajax and Exeter which were paying a courtesy call.

CUT IN TWO

In June, 1971, it took no more than an uncommon winter snowstorm to cut the country in two. A driver unaccustomed to slippery roads abandoned his auto on the trunk highway, and it took two days to dig out the pileup behind him.

The city of Rancagua, 50 miles south of the capital, is still cut off from normal communications as a result of the wind and snowstorm, which preceded the June earthquake by two weeks.

The highway and railroad links southward pass through a dozen provincial capitals between Santiago and Puerto Montt, which is at the end of the central valley formed by the Andes and the lower coastal mountain range.

Below Puerto Montt, the sea inundates the valley and there are no more through roads.

600-MILE TRIP

On the 600-mile journey to Puerto Montt, highway and train bridges cross the rivers that fall to the ocean from the Andes watershed. With each severe quake, these bridges tumble like the books in the lawyer's study and the provinces are cut off.

Heavy equipment for quick repairs is expensive for Chile to import and hence rare, and often immobilized by the freak weather that brings down the bridges and wires. Frequent plane service helps, but flights are often cancelled by the bad weather.

Ocean shipping is limited because Chile has only a few harbors for all of its irregular coastlines. Puerto Montt, one of the better ones, is a terror for sea ctptains because of its leaping tides.

FEW ALTERNATIVES

For all the disadvantages of being so tenuosly tied to Santiago, there are few alternatives for Chilean regions. None of them has ports and resources for autonomy.

From the outset the system has been centralized, if that term has meaning in a country that is 26 times as long as it is wide.

The amazing thing about Chile's bizarre shape is that it largely conforms to its natural boundaries, what with the Andes and the sea.

But in the lowest third, below Puerto Montt, there is strong attraction toward Argentina. There are spur roads through the Andes to Argentina's north-south road, but no Chilean land route.

Thus the population of under a quarter million in that part of Chile is isolated from the 9 million in the rest of it.

A shared road would seem to be a solution, but both Chile and Argentina see a threat to security in that. Now the Chilean government is determined to build a road south to Aysen.

It will be slow going and expensive.

President Salvador Allende represented this lowest zone as a senator. Indeed, the Marxists have always been strongest at the extremes of the country.

DETERMINED

Sen. Allende used to say that then president Eduardo Frei might rule the rest of Chile, but the south belonged to him.

With the Marxists now in power, a question is whether they will lessen the frustrations of Chileans at the far ends of the land, and where these people will turn if the isolation continues.

Allende's nationalization of copper —, which Frei had "Chileanized" by buying into the American companies — and his other takeovers — show him determined to create a radically new form of central government.

But at the provincial level, this dramatic change may well water down to more a matter of a new set of outs and new ins, and otherwise business as usual.

Before the Judge

Gordon Melvin Cummings, 30, of 345 Walter, was fined $300 Saturday when he pleaded guilty to assaulting an Esquimalt policeman.

Court was told that Cummings and another person were fighting when police arrived early Saturday at 880 Craigflower.

The accused wrestled with police officers and had to be forcible detained. Court was told that Cummings and the other person had been drinking.

Judge William Ostler said attacks on police officers should result in jail sentences but the accused's action could be explained partly by the previous fight and the liquor.

"If it had been otherwise, I wouldn't hesitate in sending him to jail," Ostler said.

Arthur Booth, 46, of no fixed address, was fined $400 when he pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm.

A Saanich policeman testified that Both gashed the right elbow and a finger of a Becher Bay man with a butcher knife during a dispute at an Adanac residence Friday night.

The policeman said Leo Lalond was treated for cuts at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released Friday.

Allan Donald Laatsch, 21, of 761 Esquimalt, was sentenced to six months in jail when he pleaded guilty to stealing a 10-speed bicycle.

Court was told the bicycle was taken from the Esquimalt and Head streets area earlier in the week and Laatsch was apprehended with it at his home Friday.

WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS

KIRBY, England (UPI) — Amanda Egan, 10, lost her rights as a pedestrian when she glided over a crosswalk on roller skates, a magistrate court ruled.

As far as the law was concerned, she was on wheels — eight of them — and had no more right to the pedestrian crossing than the truck that knocked her down, the court ruled.

WASHINGTON — Dr. Glenn Seaberg, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, said Sunday that a large-scale underground nuclear test scheduled for Alaska in October will not cause earthquakes, tidal waves, or release of radioactivity. Interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press, Dr. Seaborg said he is so confident about the safety of the test he would be willing to go to Amchitka himself.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy — Pope Paul told 41 Indians from the Blackfoot tribe in Canada Sunday that he hopes some of their children will become priests. The Indians, dressed in colorful tribal outfits, were recieved by the Pope in a special audience after the pontiff's Sunday noon blessing at his summer residence. The pontiff also expressed his "esteem for your Indian culture and for the values which make it up."

TEL AVIV — Premier Golda Meir has told a British interviewer she will not seek re-election in 1973 because of her age, an Israeli newspaper reported Sunday. Mrs. Meir, 73, told this to the British Broadcasting Corp., the daily Haaretz says. Mrs. Meir's reported statement is expected to cause political disquiet here because of the struggle likely to develop in finding a successor.

WASHINGTON — Extradition papers to have Dr. Timothy Leary returned to the United States have been forwarded to the U.S. ambassador in Bern, Switzerland, the U.S. state department said Sunday. The U.S. drug advocate was arrested by Swiss police June 30 in the resort of Villars-sur-Ollon. The Swiss government said Leary was released on bail on the ground that no official request for extradition had been recieved from the U.S.

WINDSOR, Ont. — Canadians who were prisoners of war for more than two years under harsh circumstances are going to ask the federal government for a pension of 50 per cen of their military pay. H. C. Chadderton, secretary of the War Amputations of Canada, said Saturday at the first annual meeting of the National Prisoners of War Association here that some PoWs got a "raw deal" from the government on disability pensions.

LIMA, Peru — Astronomer Donald Menzel of Harvard University said Sunday man could attempt to land on Halley's Comet when it next approaches earth in 1986. "The operation would be less complicated than a landing on Mars," he told delegates to the opening meeting of the fifth Latin American astronomy convention. Close-up study of the comet would probably teach man more about the development of the solar system than study of the planets, added Prof. Menzel, 70-year-old author of scientific works on the solar system and sunspots.

Hot, Cool, Sizzling Mark Violin Solos

By AUDREY JOHNSON

It was a fantastic experience for a hot August Sunday afternoon — sitting in the cool dark of the McPherson Playhouse listening to a sizzling performance on the violin by an international master of the instrument.

Ruggiero Ricci is in the front rank of virtuosos, renowned in practically every major city of the world.

It has been said of him that his playing reconstructs the fabled past for 20th century listeners — the past of such grand virtuosos as Paganini, Joachim and Ysaye.

Sunday, in performing a program of the finest virtuoso and artistic proportions, he confirmed that reputation beyond any doubt.

In two of the items — the Beethoven E-flat Major Sonata, Op. 12, No. 3 and Debussy's G minor Sonata — Ricci was partnered by a young American pianist, Rebecca Penneys.

WAS WORTHY

Miss Penneys proved entirely worthy of the master.

Her playing is musically adroit, sensitive and technically superb. She was assured in her sense of partnership, creating a balance and an interweaving in the ensemble that was little, if anything, short of perfection.

The Beethoven and the unaccompanied Bach C major Sonata breathed pure classicism, but a classicism which Ricci infused with a warm, pulsing vitality.

He may have played these works a hundred times in the course of his 40-year concert career, but on Sunday he performed them with the intensity and enjoyment of first discovery.

The Debussy was a clear evocation of poetic impressionism, exquisite in delicacy of bowing and subtle color.

Then followed a group of unaccompanied numbers that carried the recital to a breatakingly brilliant climax.

Unaccompanied performance is an acid test for a violinist, and it is clear that Ricci could have easily held the stage alone the entire afternoon.

Ysaye's D minor Sonata, Kreisler's Recitative and Scherzo Caprice and variations on God Save the Queen by Paganini, revealed the great technical scope of this master violinist.

BOWING ARM

The splendid bowing arm, light as air at one time, powerful and authoritative at other times, the incredible fingering, produced lustrous tone, shining harmonics, rich passages of double-stopping, scintillating bravura passages that finally brought the audience to its feet and kept the applause going for minutes.

Ricci's recital was part of the B.C. International Festival, a fringe benefit from the Shawnigan Lake Summer School of the Arts which has been sponsored by the B.C. Centennial Cultural Fund.

Next Sunday world famous cellist Janos Starker will be the recitalist at the McPherson Playhouse.

BUT THERE'S TOUCH OF SADNESS

Apollo Elates Scientists

HOUSTON (WP) — The most successful of the U.S. manned lunar landings ended Saturday with a feeling of high euphoria — tinged with a touch of sadness that there are only two more moon landings to go.

But the scientists and engineers responsible for Apollo 15 were elated over the success of the mission — as well as the great scientific riches that astronauts David Scott, James Irwin and Alfred Worden brought back with them.

They also felt that the spectacular television pictures of the lunar explorations had reawakened the American public's interest in manned space flights.

LONG TIME

"It will be a long time before the country sees anything like this," said Christopher Columbus Kraft Jr., deputy director of the manned space-flight centre here.

"It's the greatest engineering feat we've ever done. I think the next two Apollo missions are going to be hard to duplicate."

At the same time, Kraft admitted to reporters that he is beginning to feel the first twinges of nostalgia that the Apollo program is winding down.

If any one man epitomizes the U.S. space program it is Chris Kraft. It has been his life from its very first days on the beaches of Cape Canaveral, now Cape Kennedy.

He was the flight director when Alan Shepard became the first American to go into space more than 10 years ago.

"Having grown up in this business," Kraft said at a press conference after splashdown Saturday, "I felt a kind of nostalgia when we flew Mercury 9 (the last Mercury flight) and again on Gemini 12 (the last Gemini mission).

"I'm sure I'll feel extremely nostalgic about Apollo 17."

He said he looks forward to switching from moon landings to the skylab program when it starts flying in March, 1973, and beyond that, he looks forward to the space shuttle, space stations and even manned landings on mars.

But they are not the same as Appollo — the frantic race to land a man on the moon before 1970, and the continued improvement of man's capability to explore the moon that reached an exciting climax with Appollo 15.

ANTI-CLIMATIC

The problem here now is not to let the last two lunar flights — Apolla 16 in March 1972 and Apollo 17 in December 1972 — become anti-climactic.

"There are two more missions demanding our all," said Rocco Petrone, manager of the Apollo program for NASA.

"I feel they are also going to be great missions."

The change in the public attitude toward manned space flight could almost be felt as Apollo 15 piled one fantastic scientific achievement on top of another. Before liftoff on July 26 a jaded public hardly seemed to care.

INTEREST UP

Yet interest picked up as Scott and Irwin beamed live television pictures back from the moon showing the starkly beautiful and spectacular scenery of the Hadley-Apennine landing site — between the mile-wide Hadley Rille and the towering Apennine mountains.

The television networks felt this. They stepped up their coverage of the lunar explorations, so millions of people around the world could see Scott and Irwin find a crystalline rock last Sunday that they think dates back to the creation of the universe 4.6 billion years ago.

Moon 'Harvest' Starts

By HOWARD BENEDICT

HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, reunited with their families after a month's separation, today start the long series of debriefings that will give scientists, engineers and doctors the minute details of their historic moon journey.

In the Lunar Receiving Laboratory, geologists are preparing to open the first of the moon rock boxes the astronauts returned from Hadley Base.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden spend the morning undergoing extensive medical examination. In the afternoon they shift to technical sessions to answer questions about the 12-day voyage that took Scott and Irwin to the surface of the moon for 67 hours of exploration among the highest lunar mountains and along an ancient canyon.

A United States Air Force C141 transport flew the astronauts from Hawaii to nearby Ellington Air Force Base Sunday night, and the men rushed into the embrace of their families—a first for a moon-landing crew.

The three previous crews had to spend three weeks in quarantine, but experts concluded that moonmen bring back no harmful germs and eliminated the isolation for Apollo 15.

KILTED BAND PLAYS

A crowd of about 2,500 who braved a drizzling rain cheered and waved banners and flags while a band in Scottish kilts played Fly Me to the Moon.

Scott told the assemblage that he saw the full moon from the Okinawa Sunday before dawn.

"As I looked at it, I felt a little homesick," he said. "If you go some place as beautiful and as fascinating as that and you spend three very intense days, you really get attached to it."

Arriving with the astronauts were about 100 pounds of moon rocks, sealed in airtight containers. The first 75 pounds came here on an earlier plane.

Scientists plan to open the first of the boxes in a day or two to begin the years-long examination which might provide clues to the origin of the moon, earth and solar system.

Included in the collection is a so-called "Genesis rock" which Scott and Irwin picked up at Spur Crater. They described it as crystalline in composition and believe it may date back 4.6 billion years to the birth of the moon.

Many of the pictures the astronauts took during their mission are to be released early Tuesday.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

B.C. Tel

A 10.7 increase in gross revenues in the first half is reported by B.C. Telephone Co., which had $93.5 million in operating revenue vs. $84.4 million a year ago.

Net earnings dropped from $8.77 million to $7.4 million (or from $2.29 to $1.83 a share).

In the full year it is expected earnings will show a modest increase — perhaps from $5.10 last year to about $5.28 — through an increase in rates granted by the transport department last month.

Kaiser

Completion of financing requested last fall from Mitsubishi Canada Ltd. is represented by a $10 million agreement entered into by Kaiser Resources Ltd., bringing the total value since last year to $35 million.

The companies are considering the possible conversion of this amount to equity in Kaiser's coal operation in the East Kootenay.

Greyhound

Greyhound Lines of Canada Ltd. had net income of $2.39 million or 51 cents a share for the six months ended June 30, compared with $1.45 million (31 cents) in the previous period.

Revenues for the first half were $23.25 million, up from $21.8 million in 1970.

Francana

The earnings of Francana Oil and Gas Ltd. dropped slightly during the six months ended June 30 to $486,251 or 9.3 cents a share.

In the comparable period a year earlier the company earned $530,638 or 10 cents a share.

The decrease was due slightly to higher operating expenses and larger writeoffs for depreciation and depletion.

Gross revenue was $1.18 million compared with $1.13 million in the first half last year.

Evans

Third quarter revenues will exceed $200 million and net income will be more than $6 million, predicts Sheldon Kaplan, president of Evans Products Co., which had earnings of $3.6 million on $158 million gross a year ago.

First half performance this year has brought $7.9 million on $324 million sales, up 45 per cent from a net of $5.44 million a year ago.

Stronger lumber prices will account for much of the gain, while increased demand for construction products and new sources of income such as a new plywood mill at Lillooet would help boost income.

Sterling

Net profit of Sterling Trusts Corp. of $176,100 (31 cents a share) for the six months ended June 30, are up from $149,117 (26.5 cents) last year. Gross revenue was $2.55 million against $2.18 million.

Increased volume of business combined with the decline in interest rates in the first quarter contributed to the improvement in earnings.

Guaranteed account (trust certificates and savings deposits) totalled $57 million at June 30 compared with $50.2 million a year ago. First mortgages increased to $48.64 million from $41.5 million.

Dividends

Dividend payments by Canadian companies for the first eight months of this year, totalled a record $1.005 billion, a 1.5 per cent increase over the January-August 1970 total of $990 million.

Bongard, Leslie and Co., Toronto-based securities firm, said this year's total is up 8.3 per cent from $927.68 million paid out in the corresponding 1968 period.

August dividend payments were $68.9 million compared with $68.6 million last year and $64.6 million in 1969.

Payments by mines, utilities and institutions and trusts all showed increases this August but payments by miscellaneous industrials were down.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA — Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of Canadian dollar was quoted by Royal Bank at $1.01¼ for cheques; $1.01¼ for cash. $1.00¼ for silver. Selling rates were $1.02¼ for cheques and 1.0244 for cash.

NOON PRICES

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was down 5/32 to $1.01 23/32. Pound sterling down ⅛ to $2.46 1/16.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar up 9/64 at 98⅛ in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling up 5/64 at $2.41 61/64.

Gulf

Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. of Toronto reports six-month net earnings of $19.8 million or 44 cents a share, up about 17 per cent from $16.8 million (37 cents) last year.

President Jerry McAfee said the increase was due to higher revenues resulting from larger sales volumes, improved prices and lower exploration and dry hole costs.

Fewer Firms Failing, Volume Up

TORONTO (CP) — Dun and Bradstreet Canada Ltd. reports that dollar liabilities of businesses that failed during June were at a record level for the month but the number of failures was off sharply.

There were 193 failures in June, a five-month low, with liabilities of $29.5 million.

While the increase in total liabilities of business failures was accounted for in a gain in failures in companies with more than $100,000 in liabilities, the number of failures was down in most categories, with wholesale business the exception.

In the first half of the year a total of 1,440 businesses failed, compared with 1,194 in the first six months of 1970. However, liabilities totalled $226,773,000 up from $146,006,000 last year.

in 1970, and the greatest increase in failures took place in Alberta where there were 83 as opposed to 33 last year. Quebec had the highest number, 585, down from 635 in 1970, and the greatest liabilities, $70,382,000, compared with $70,964,000.

Antique Cars Found Buried

ROSSIE, Iowa (UPI) — A treasure of antique automobiles — including one of the rarest vehicles known — has been discovered on a farm near here.

The 23 autos were discovered by three men on the farm owned by the estate of the late Leopold Brown. The men purchased the vintage models, which range 1905 to 1951, from the Rossie Bank, acting executor of the estate.

Included in the find was a 1905 Winton touring car, which antique buffs claim is one of two known to exist.

The men said the cars were stored in boarded-up barns and sheds and seven were found in a grove of trees. Some cars were buried up to their axles in dirt and others were covered by underbrush.

IOS Could Fold

FREDERICTON (CP) — The appeals division of the New Brunswick Supreme Court was told Investors Overseas Services Ltd. would fold if an injunction against IOS management, obtained by dissident shareholders, is lifted.

The argument was raised by E. Neil McKelvey, a lawyer for the dissident group, during the third day of an appeal by management against the injunction. Proceedings adjourned until today.

"The purpose of the injunction is to keep the company in existence," Mr. McKelvey said. "If it is lifted, there won't be any company."

Marshall Plan In Reverse For Europe?

By HAROLD MORRISON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The current weakness of the United States dollar suggests that by an ironic twist Europe may one day be forced to mount a Marshall Plan in reverse in its own self-interest.

Initiated in 1947, the U.S. Marshall Plan ensured European economic recovery through a huge flow of American financial aid. In those days the U.S. dollar was as highly prized in Europe as gold bullion.

But at the U.S. pursued foreign policies over the years which led to a heavy outward movement of dollars without a countering balance of imported foreign currencies and gold, the dollar became increasingly suspect.

Holding surplus U.S. dollars in European central treasuries at one time symbolized international support for American defence of the free world.

DEMANDED GOLD

But as fear of a great world collision receded, and allies began questioning White House pihlosophy, central bankers started to unload heavy dollar holdings, demanding American gold in exchange.

Now leading European currencies are strong and the U.S. dollar is weak. The worry in Europe is that the weakness conveys not just a temporary fever soon to disappear but some deep and ominous ailment.

President Nixon probably could overcome the American problem through remedies that would prove politically unpopular. He could increase the official price of gold — if Congress approved and thereby effectively devalue the dollar.

He might invoke a tight-money policy and such high interest rates that money abroad would be rushed back to take advantage of the big interest profits.

Or he might clamp down on imports to create a favorable U.S. trade balance of such dimensions that the huge pools of American dollars abroad might eventually dry up.

HATED TWINS

It is this latter possibility that worries exporters not only in Europe but in most other regions. American isolationism and protectionism are the hated twins that could cause more problems for Europe than the current dollar weakness.

While some countries keep pushing the U.S. to rectify current distortions by devaluing the dollar, this pressure, which seems irreversible, nevertheless is likely to be moderated by fear that a desperate American administration may take action that would hurt European prosperity.

American economic activity is of such major proportions around the world that a sneeze in Washington could cause pneumoinia in Paris and Zurich.

The best "Marshall aid" that the U.S. could use at this time is restraint in Europe in converting surplus dollars into gold or other currencies. Prolonging the state of "freeze" in some dollar transactions is likely to involve transatlantic bargaining including European satisfaction that the U.S. government will take internal action to restore greater dollar confidence.

Recovery in Peril?

By FRANK C. PORTER

WASHINGTON (WP) — The steel industry has been hit by massive layoffs and plant closings across the United States that bode ill for the nation's economic recovery.

Part of the distress stems from general shutdowns in anticipation of the strike that was averted recently when the nine largest producers granted the United Steel Workers of America a 30 per cent pay increase over three years.

But even after most of these plants get back into operation as many as one third of the industry's 500,000 payroll employees may remain on holiday, according to a source. Some of the plants will stay closed indefinitely, he said.

HALF NORMAL

Another steel executive estimated that the industry's order books are only 45 per cent of normal volume for this time of year. This figure drops to 25 per cent for one of the nation's biggest steel-making facilities.

At Bethlehem's sprawling Sparrows Point plant in Baltimore — second largest in the world — only a third of the normal work force is on the job, and most of these are maintenance and service personnel.

There are two main reasons for the plunge in steel activity. As is usual before the triennial steel labor negotiations, customers stockpiled steel in anticipation of a possible strike. But buying peaked early this year — in May — and orders have been dropping ever since.

The other reason has to do with slack economic activity in general. Even without the stockpiling, the zest would have gone out of the market, some observers believe.

"It's the most preciptous fall-off I can remember that we've had," says one steel executive. Orders levelled out in May and dropped in June although production held up that month. Then in July "we started falling out of bed."

★ ★ ★

Layoffs In Steel Hit Hard

Industrial customers are believed to have enought steel on hand to last them an average of 90 days. One steel company official says that a 60-day supply has been normal in previous inventorying before labor talks.

Lower-priced foreign imports, running close to 15 per cent of domestic consumption, are also a factor. Although these imports are subject to voluntary quotas accepted by the exporting nations, the limitations would still permit imports of 5.5 million tons (more than a third of the annual total) in the remainder of this year.

Meanwhile, other producers lined up behind the 8 per cent price increase announced by U.S. Steel Corp. after the steelworkers settlement: Wheeling-Pittsburgh, Inland and Lukens Steel Co. Bethlehem, Republic, Armco, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube had done so the day before.

In the aftermath of another strike, train service was rapidly returning to normal Tuesday. Perishables, hardest hit by the 17-day walkout by the United Transportation Union which eventually spread to 10 railways, were given first priority.

Norfolk and Western said it would take 48 hours — or until some time today — to get back in operation. It was concentrating on getting cars into the Appalachian coal fields, where more than 20,000 coal miners have been idled.

Southern Railway estimated it lost about $33 million in revenues since it was shut down the first day of the strike.

John C. Kenefick, head of the Union Pacific, said the cost of the 42 per cent pay increase over as many months granted the UTU in the strike-ending agreement, recently will "almost certainly mean a general freight increase."

Seattle Guild Signs

SEATTLE (AP) — Members of the American Newspaper Guild have voted to accept a new three-year contract with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The voice vote followed by a hand count ratified a tentative settlement reached by negotiators that gives union members in top experience classifications pay increases of $24.50 a week retroactive to March 22. Increases of $24 a week are included for top classifications in 1972 and 1973.

Minimum pay for reporters and photographers with six years experience was $215 per week under the old pact.

The largest increase went to circulation department district advisers, who will be given increases totalling $80 in the three-year period.

Let's Talk Real Estate by Jack Mears

During the past year this office has handled the sale of well over 30 Condominium Apartments and in most cases this has meant a completely changing life style for the purchasers.

Practically without exception they have previously owned single family homes and have entered their new life style with some trepidations. It is therefore with some pride that we are able to state that we have not yet received any notification that these new owners are disappointed with the purchases they have made or that they find any less privacy in apartment ownership as compared with their previous residence.

This does not mean that single family homes have become less desirable, but it does mean that people are now realizing that there comes a time when it is more pleasant not to have ordinary ownership chores to do and that there are definite benefits in being able to lock the door, go away and travel, completely free of all cares, knowing that their home is being cared for in their absence.

We still have a selection of OAK BAY APARTMENT HOMES either waterfront or within easy distance. 1-bedrooms from $13,300 to complete luxury 3-bedrooms at $46,500. If you would like to see them just Ruins remain after fire destroys St. Michael's

Officials Suspect Arson In Fire at St. Michael's

NORTH COWICHAN — Fire department officials said today that either arson or misadventure caused a fire Saturday morning which completely destroyed St. Michael's Catholic Church on the Cowichan Indian Band reservation south of Duncan.

Northr Cowichan south end Fire Chief Pete Henry said it was the second blaze at the church that his department has attended in the past year.

"The first fire was in the rear of the building but we got it in time," he said.

"We strongly suspect arson with this one because buildings don't burn down that fast. It was gone before we even got the call, practically. Also, the alarm wasn't turned in immediately."

Investigations are being carried out by the local RCMP detachment.

The Rev. H. D. McIntee said the fire was the fourth attempt at vandalism on the 10-year-old $10,000 A-frame cedar shake building.

"The other two were people who broke into the church and smashed things around," he said.

OIL SLICKS, GARBAGE SPILLED

Ladysmith Harbor 'A Disaster'

LADYSMITH — Oil slicks and garbage believed from anchored freighters is turning the harbor here into a "disaster area" Mayor Kay Grouhel charged today.

Irate residents backed the mayor in believing irrepairable damage is being caused by the overflow of freighters and log booms as a result of the longshoremen's strike in the U.S.

NINE SHIPS

Where there used to be an average of one or two freighters every two months there are now nine daily either waiting or being loaded with American logs by Canadian longshoremen.

"When the strike is over, the ships will leave, and we will be left with a filthy mess. Thousands of dollars will have to be spent to clean it up," says Grouhel.

"Right now the harbor looks like a disaster area," the mayor charged.

Grouhel said the situation was brought to a head at the weekend when she found 10-foot oil slick puddles at Transfer Beach.

'LIVID'

"I was livid," she said. "Children were coming out of the water covered with oil and had to go home to wash.

"Many boatowners are irate because they have about a foot of this gooey substance stuck to the sides of their boats."

Grouhel said she suspects the oil came from one of the freighters. Today tide and blowing wind has washed most of the oil away.

She said the harbor generally is unpolluted "but I know these freighters are contributing to pollution of the harbor. They are really mucking up Transfer Beach, which took us five years to buy."

MORE INTO CHANNEL

Grouhel said she realizes that the log-loading operations are contributing to the livelihood of some residents "but I wonder if the pollution being caused by these ships is going to justify that."

Grouhel feels the freighters should move out into the channel to be loaded.

Harbor Master Brick Bradford said that the steamship inspector, who has been carrying out investigations since the oil slick was discovered, has not been able to find where the oil originated.

He did admit that the oil was bunker oil, the same type used on freighters, and "it had to come from some place."

"The inspector investigated every freighter and didn't find any clues," he said.

Bradford said "many Ladysmith residents are yelling pollution without checking it out. There is pollution but there isn't any proof yet that could definitely tie it to the tankers."

Bradford said the government fee averages about $500 per freighter anchored in Ladysmith harbor. If they were moved out into the channel there would be no revenue.

He noted that all of the deep-sea vessels are supposed to have holding tanks but it is up to the steamship inspector from Victoria to check it out.

Cowichan-Malahat MLA Bob Strachan said that MP Tommy Douglas has contacted Minister of Fisheries Jack Davis and Minister of Transport Donald Jameison about the freighters in Ladysmith, urging that the ships be moved.

'USE MUSCLES'

"It is time the federal government started displaying the muscles they keep bragging about," said Cowichan-Malahat SPEC president Kurt Horn.

"They should make these freighters stop dumping their bilges in the water."

Horn said the suggestion of moving the freighters back into the channel to stop immediate pollution is ridiculous because "it's just like trying to tell a mill to put a higher smoke stack on its chimney to cut down pollution. All it does is spread it over a bigger area. The government has just got to start exercising control.

"I am sure the situation has been the same at Cowichan Bay, which is filled with freighters loading American logs, as it is at Ladysmith," Horn noted.

Coxen has been at Lake Cowichan for five years, coming from Surrey.

OVERSUPPLY OF U.S. POTATOES

Farmers Facing $40,000 Loss

Vancouver Island potato farmers stand to lose at least $40,000 this year because of dumping by American growers.

Alan Barker, manager of the Island Vegetable Co-Operative Association, said Island growers have had to drop their prices to compete with the rock-bottom scale of the Washington and California product.

Barker said American growers are charging $55.50 a ton for their potatoes, compared to the $62 a ton Island growers have been forced down to.

That $55.50 price represents a drop of $5 from the price Americans were charging earlier last week. To counter the move, Barker said Island growers will be forced to drop their price again, this time to $58 a ton.

CAN'T MEET

Barker said the price for the American product cannot possibly meet the production costs, so that Island and lower mainland growers are suffering from U.S. over production.

He said the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board has asked federal agriculture minister H. A. Olson to raise the tariff on the American product, but that no action has been taken. Canadians are charged $15 a ton to take their product into the U.S. while Americans pay only $7.50 for their product to enter Canada.

"Olson says he's keeping an eye on the situation," Barker said. "Meanwhile $40,000 goes down the drain."

On the lower mainland, potato farmers have had to destroy over half of their crop because of the stiff competition.

A spokesman for the B.C. Federation of Agriculture said more than 3,000 tons of potatoes are being left to rot in the fields because they are not being sold.

Barker said this problem does not face Island growers since they shipped a considerable amount of potatoes to the lower mainland in late June and early July when the wet weather would not allow mainland growers to dig.

"We were lucky," Barker said, adding that B.C. potato growers as a whole will lose about $600,000 this year.

Indian Lore Courses Big Success

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian band traditions, Janaguage and contemporary Indian history will be taught here in weekly three-hour lectures by band members.

Chief Dennis Alphonse, one of the instructors, said the pilot program last year was so successful that this year the two-semester series of lectures will be a credit course.

The program is being co-sponsored by the Malaspina Regional College, the Adult Education Branch of the Cowichan School District, and the Cowichan Indian Band. Alphonse noted that expenses will be met by a $2,250 grant from the provincial First Citizen Fund.

Alphonse said instructors plan to concentrate more on the Indian language this year as well as taking field trips to acquaint students with the geographical regions which were important in his people's history. These regions include the five communities within the Cowichan Indian Band reserve: Comiaken, Somenos, Quamichan, Koksilah and Clem Clem Alutz.

Job Walks Off Their Pounds

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — "There's the odd time when I just feel like throwing something at someone," says Blazeen Oreskovich, "but for the most part it's a good job, and I'm happy."

Miss Oreskovich was the first woman in Canada to become a "postman," and along with five colleagues in Port Alberni has set a precedent for other post offices throughout the country. She has been delivering mail since December, 1965.

"The big cities back east . . . Toronto, for example, make such a big thing out of getting their first postwoman," says Port Alberni postmaster Les Hammer. "We've had them for the past 5½ years, for pete's sake."

Despite the hazards of long routes, the women are staying on the job. Four of them are married and raising families.

They walk an average of 12 miles a day, and deliver up to 30 pounds of mail.

Walker Tough on Motors

Larry Walker "blew it" at Western Speedway on Saturday night, but he still managed to come away with two firsts and a third.

Walker blew his third engine this season but managed to come back and win the super-stock main event before 3,229 fans. Walker also won the trophy dash and took a third in the fast heat.

Chris Van de Water, meanwhile, increased his points lead in the stock-car division with his sixth main event victory, a first in the fast heat and a third in the trophy dash.

Walker's crew expressed doubt that another engine could be afforded, but after the decision was made and another engine installed, the driver took over the lead from Mike Armstrong on the 13th lap of the 35-lap feature event. He then built up a big lead before crossing the finish line.

Van de Water managed to avoid a spinnng car on the 22nd lap of the 25-lap main stock-car event, gaining valuable ground on Earl Pollard who couldn't avoid the accident. Pollard finished in second, three lengths behind.

In the first super-stock heat, no one was injured when John Harris crashed into the grandstand wall.

Time trial records were set in both divisions. Ron Hancock's super-stock record of 18.248 was beaten when Bill Price took seven-thousandths off the mark. Then Rick O'Dell set a new record of 18.21 seconds.

Earl Pollard broke his own record in the stock-car division, knocking .27 seconds off his lap-time of 20.28 seconds.

Adanacs Psyche Rocks With Another Bombing

COQUITLAM — If Saturday's game here against the Adanacs is any indication, Victoria Shamrocks are going to need more than the luck of the Irish in the upcoming Western Lacrosse Association playoffs against Coquitlam.

Coquitlam bombed the Shamrocks, 22-7, and for the second time in less than a week gave a preview what might be in store for the Victoria squad when they face Adanacs in the semi-final round. The Adanacs downed Shamrocks, 17-8 last Wednesday.

The fourth-place Islanders will face the second-place Adanacs in the first round of the playoffs.

Coquitlam started strongly Saturday, grabbing a 5-1 lead after one period and 14-4 going into the third. Goaltender Doug Thompson in Victoria's nets was busy all night in a vain attempt to turn back 70 shots.

Wayne Shuttleworth led the barrage and moved seven points ahead of Wayne Goss for the individual point championship. He passed for four goals to tie Goss in assists, with 68, while scoring three times to pad his league-leading goals total to 56.

Bill Robinson counted five goals and two assists and Bill Bradley chipped in with one goal and six assists for the winners.

Ken Alexander, with two goals, was the only Shamrock to score more than once.

Shamrocks play their next game Friday in New Westminster, then close out their 1971 schedule by meeting the Salmonbellies in Memorial Arena next Saturday.

Pitchers Ray Andre and Andy Linn combined to stop Lady-Smith on just two hits in a 5-1 victory, while Derek Drinkwater and Glen Campbell duplicated the feat for a 5-1 second-game win.

Both Canadian Juvenile league teams will compete in the provincial playoffs, starting Aug. 18 in Vancouver.

Bell's on Inside Track In Softball Playdowns

Bell's Men's Wear have the inside track on a ride into the provincial senior "C" men's softball finals.

Bell's continued their undefeated ways in the Lower Island tournament Sunday by tripping Stuffy McGinnis League rivals Labatts 5-4 to emerge on top in the winner's bracket of the double knockout tournament.

But Labatts get another crack at Bell's tonight. They rebounded with a 6-2 victory over Century Inn to get a second chance at Bell's.

Should Labatt's win tonight's game, a sudden-death playoff will be played Tuesday, starting at 6:45 p.m.

Bell's lashed out 13 hits while Labatts managed only three off winner Steve Ross. But the Labs kept close because two of their three hits were two-run homers — by Bob Harris and Skip Porteous.

Porteous also cranked out a triple and single to spark Labatt's victory over Century in the losers' final.

Homer in Eighth Lifts Americans

NORTH VANCOUVER — Victoria Americans edged East Vancouver's Sunrise, 3-2, in two extra innings Sunday at Jaycee Park to remain in contention for the B.C. Little League baseball title.

In another game in the five-team, double-knockout sectional tournament, the title-holding team from Trail joined Victoria in the losers' bracket with a 5-4 loss to Forest Hill of North Vancouver.

Trail faces Americans at 7:30 tonight in a losers' bracket contest, which will eliminate one of the two teams. Trail defeated Victoria 2-1 Saturday.

Steve Ray blasted a solo home run with two out in the eighth inning for the winning Victoria run. Winning pitcher Stuart Pigot, who struck out 11 batters and walked five, contributed a run-scoring double in the second inning.

With the loss eliminating Sunrise from the tourney, Walley and Forest Hill are winners' bracket finalists.

Mark Holder's two-run homer Saturday led Whalley to a 5-1 victory over Sunrise while Trail pushed across the winning run in the last inning to beat Americans.

Pigot scored the tying run in the fifth inning, doubling and crossing home plate on Tim Crawford's single, but it was not enough as the loss ended an eight-game Victoria win streak in playoffs.

Joanne Fires Nine Birdies; Loses by One

ATLANTA (AP) — Defending champion Jane Blalock tapped in a three-foot putt on the final hole Sunday and won the $20,000 Atlanta Open, surviving a closing eight-under-par 65 by Joanne Carner.

She played Sunday for a 72 and a 54-hole score of 214, one strike better than Mrs. Carner, the United States women's open golf champion.

Mrs. Carner sank nine birdies to tie a Ladies' Professional Golf Association record for 18 holes, set by Mickey Wright in 1964.

Miss Blalock's victory over the 6,333-yard par 37-36—73 Indian Hills Country Club course earned her $3,000.

Donna Caponi finished third at 216 with a closing 70 that included a hole-in-one on the par-three, 165-yard 11th.

McLarens Coast To Peewee Title

BURNABY — Ian Bridge scored four goals Sunday to lead undefeated McLaren Construction of Saanich to an 11-5 victory over Norburn and the British Columbia peewee "A" lacrosse "A" championship.

Randy Keller had one goal and three assists for the winners while goalie Steve Hanna turned back 36 Norburn shots.

In the "B" event, Fred Dorman's goal at the eight minute mark of the first overtime period provided Esquimalt Teamsters with an exciting 9-8 title victory over Richmond Dairymen.

Rick Chamberlain was top scorer for the Islanders "B" team with four goals and three assists.

New Westminster finished third in he "A" event, thanks to a sudden-death goal by Robby Dalzell which broke an 8-8 tie. Richmond finished fourth.

Saanich and Norburns now prepare for competition in the Peewee National Invitational tournament in New Westminster from Aug. 11 to 15.

Fraserview Tops Victoria In Colt Final

Fraserview-Victoria Drive powered its way to the Zone 3 Colt League baseball championship Sunday by scoring shutout victories in three consecutive games at Topaz Park.

The Vancouver team bombed North Surrey, 17-0, in the tournament semi-final and then went on to take successive 3-0 and 2-0 decisions from the Victoria Colt All-Stars in the final of the double-knockout affair.

All Stars, who advanced to the tourney final with a 4-0 win over North Surrey Saturday, could not overcome some strong pitching by Fraserview's Terry Sawada and Pat Slapinski in the Sunday contests.

Life Suspensions In Israeli Soccer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Spurred by a sensational inquiry into corruption in Israeli league soccer, the country's football association has barred three players for life because they allegedly fixed a match.

Five other players of the Maccabi Ramat Amidar team were barred from games for three years on the same charges.

A special court of inquiry for the past month has been probing charges of match-fixing, and has uncovered widespread corruption in the country's leagues.

FAVORITE'S ROLL FALLS ON ONTARIO

HALIFAX (CP) — Ten provincial teams, representing the top amateur golfers in Canada, tee off at nearby Oakfield Country Club today in the Willingdon Cup golf championships.

The two-day, 36-hole competition over the demanding par-73 Oakfield layout, precedes the Canadian amateur championships, 72-hole test for some 164 golfers.

Ontario, the defending champion, is again expected to dominate play in the team trials while returning with three-quarters of last year's winning entry.

Cpl. Joe Hennick, from Sydney, N.S., but stationed with the regiment in London, Ont., ran up 681 of 755 possible points.

One point behind him was another RCR corporal, Henry (Hawk) McKay, 30, stationed at Gagetown, N.B.

AGGREGATE WINNER

Sgt. Romeo L'Heureux of the Royal 22nd Regiment, Valcartier, Que., topped Sunday's competition for the Helmer Service Conditions aggregate.

Other individual winners in weekend shooting were:

NOTRE DAME DISINTEGRATES . . . . . AT SEATTLE

Pride Wins It Twice

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Schumacher in the Pride of Pay'n Pak, forced by an accident to twice win a championship heat, blazed to a quarter lap victory in $30,000 Seafair Trophy unlimited hydroplane race Sunday.

Schumacher had crossed the finish line in the original championship heat seconds after the Norte Dame disintegrated in the final lap of the three-mile Lake Washington course.

Norte Dame driver Billy Sterrett was listed in satisfactory condition with facial cuts after a coast guard helicopter plucked him from the water.

He had been trying to catch defending champion Miss Budweiser, running second, when his hydroplane nosed into the water, was flipped into the air and disintegrated.

Unlimited hydroplane rules specify that the final heat must be rerun if marred by an accident.

Forced to again beat the Miss Budweiser, Schumacher came charging down the straightaway to leave the Miss Budweiser in his rooster tail after the first lap.

The Pride of Pay'n Pak ran the course with an average speed of 105.386 m.p.h. to collect 1,300 total points.

Miss Budweiser finished with 1,050 points and a 98.369 m.p.h. average. The Valu Mart, piloted by Bob Gilliam, finished a steady third with Terry Sterrett, Billy's brother, bringing The Smyth Smoother Mover home fourth.

Victory moved The Pride up to third place in the national standings with 4,817 points. Miss Budweiser kept first place with 6,121 ppints. Miss Madison has 5,413 points.

Heard Hears Well

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A tip from Lee Trevino six weeks ago was worth nearly $50,000 and a first tournament triumph for American Golf Classic champion Jerry Heard.

"Trevino taught me how to make the ball fade at the United States open. I used to play a hook," said the 24-year-old Visalia, Calif., professional who won the $30,000 Classic first prize Sunday with a 72-hole total of five-under-par 275.

Heard played the first 25 weeks of the 1971 tour. He won a little over $50,000.

Since Trevino's tip, Heard has pushed his earnings past the $100,000 mark this year.

WINS BY 3 SHOTS

Heard shot a final round of four-over-par 74 Sunday to beat Dale Douglass by three shots. Douglass had a 72 for a 278 total over the 7,180-yard Firestone South course.

Bob Murphy charged in with a 67 and took third place with 279, one shot ahead of current Professional Golfers Association champion Jack Nicklaus who shot 70 for 280.

Steve Reid was fifth with 71 for 281. Arnold Palmer, Mike Hill and Chi Chi Rodriguez were knotted at 282. Palmer, No. 3 on the money-winning list, fired his best round of the Classic, a 67. Hill and Rodriguez each shot 68.

KNUDSON AT 290

George Knudson of Toronto, the only Canadian in the final round, shot 71 for 290 and $1,000.

"I always wondered how Palmer and Nicklaus stood the pressure when they were leading. Now, I know," said Heard, who had won $70,048 without a tournament victory until Sunday.

Australian Overwhelms South African

BROOKLINE, Mass. (Reuter) — Ken Rosewall of Australia won the United States pro tennis championships Sunday, overwhelming Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0.

Rosewall's straight set triumph in one hour and 44 minutes boosted his 1971 earnings to $61,177. Sunday's victory was worth $10,000, Drysdale's purse was $5,000.

"What can I say . . . he murdered me," the 30-year-old Drysdale said after the match.

Rosewall's game was complete. The depth of his shots and his effective use of the lob kept Drysdale on the defensive throughout the match. The South African was able to break Rosewall's service only once, and Rosewall immediately broke back.

This is Rosewall's third U.S. pro title. The 36-year-old Aussie previously won it in 1963 and 1965.

Rod Laver joined with Roy Emmerson to give Australia the doubles title also. The Wimbledon champs beat top-seeded Tom Okker of The Netherlands and Marty Riessen of the U.S. 6-4, 6-4.

Victoria Stars Retain Provincial Ball Crown

NEW WESTMINSTER—Victoria Senior Amateur League All-Stars scored an unearned run in the first inning Sunday then hung on behind the strong pitching of Les Brice to retain the British Columbia senior baseball championship with a 1-0 victory over Burnaby Villa.

It was a crushing defeat for highly-touted Burnaby, which came out of the losers' bracket in the double-knockout tournament to hand Victoria its first loss, 4-0.

Brice had five strikeouts and was only in trouble in the seventh and final inning when he issued two successive walks.

Victoria scored when Barry Harvey was safe on a two-out error and Mike Embury doubled him home.

Rightfielder Russ Holmes cut off a possible tying run in the sixth when Jim Jardine of Burnaby was thrown out perfectly at home. Jardine had been a threat all night, hitting two singles and a double.

Victoria advanced to the final round behind the pitching of Gerry Lister by downing Okanagan 5-1 in a game that started Saturday night and was completed Sunday morning.

Brice, later named the tourney's most valuable player, blasted a home run for Victoria.

Right-hander Gordon White was the star of Burnaby's 4-0 win which gave the team a shot at the title. He faced only 23 batters in pitching the seven-inning no-hit win.

Teams from Quesnel, Kamloops, Trail-Nelson and Vancouver also competed in the weekend tournament.

The defending champions opened their successful defence by tripping Vancouver Industrial League All-Stars 4-1 Saturday. Bob Mabee held Vancouver hitless before giving way to Lon Miles because of wildness in the eighth inning.

Miles allowed a ninth-inning single.

Brice provided plate power with a home run for Victoria.

Last-Hole Eagle Helps Vollmer Capture Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 100-yard pressure shot with a sand wedge could change a career for Wayne Vollmer, a 26-year-old Vancouver professional who was ready to quit competitive golf before winning the $15,000 British Columbia open championship Sunday on the last hole.

Vollmer scored an eagle on the par-four, 393-yard 18th hole at the Marine Drive Golf and Country Club to clinch the title and $3,000 in prize money with a 54-hole total of 206, seven under par.

One stroke back were professionals Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., leading money winner on the Canadian tour; former Edmonton Eskimo footballer of San Diego, Calif.; Bill Wakeham of Cowichan, and amateur Scott Keenlyside of White Rock. The pros each won $1,433.

Vollmer, who moved from a second-place tie in the first round to a one-stroke lead after 36 holes, carded one birdie on the way to a 38 on the front nine and two birdies and a pair of eagles to come in at 33, two under par.

AVERTS PLAYOFF

More than 4,000 people watched the final round in sunny, hot weather and hundreds mobbed Vollmer after his 100-yard second shot from the middle of the 18th fairway dropped into the cup to avert a five-way playoff.

Wakeham, who fired a 66 Friday and followed it up with a 70, tied Vollmer's 71 of Sunday.

MOE MAKES MONEY

Norman's second-place money of $1,433 increased his total on the Canadian tour to $6,708. He had nines of 33-34 for his second straight 67 after going to a two-over 73 in the first round.

As Vollmer was carried on the shoulders of two supporters through the mob at the green, Wakeham considered his next shot.

When the noise finally died, he rolled a 20-foot putt and threw his sunglasses to the green in disappointment when the ball appeared to stop on the lip of the cup. But it dropped in for a birdie as the glasses hit the ground and the crowd roared again.

Hugh Renfrew Rink Takes Bowling Trophy

The Hugh Renfrew rink of Victoria West captured the Hudsons Bay trophy Saturday in the Greater Victoria District Lawn Bowling Association's annual "Holiday Tournament" at Oak Bay greens.

The Renfrew rink, with Bert Bennett, Doug Boyle and Paul Jenkins, edged Harry Tuck and his Nanaimo quartet of Tommy Dixon, Harold Broderick and Frank Lee, 15-14.

Dixon, Tuck and Lee also received runner-up honors in the Fort Garry Cup triples after dropping a 27-10 decision to the Hector Tapp rink of Victoria.

Percy Hawes of Burnside took individual laurels and the Dominion Hotel award by defeating Victoria's Fred Sallis, 21-14, in the "A" singles event.

John Green of Oak Bay captured the Urry Cup by posting a 21-15 win over George Coutu of New Westminster in the "B" division, while Danny Millar of Victoria was tops in the "C" division.

Harvey Richardson and Cliff Slade of Seattle were the only out-of-town winners as they breezed to a 28-10 victory over Jim Ritchie and Andy Gilsteen in the doubles championship for the F. S. Martin Cup. Ritchie and Gilsteen received the runner-up Walter Cross Rose Bowl.

Paul McCahen of Victoria topped the round-robin novice singles competition, followed by Bud Sandland of Nanaimo.

HOPE, VEECK . . . . . BID FOR SENATORS

The Old Squeeze Play?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The capital is in danger of losing Washington Senators' franchise to Dallas because owner Bob Short has caught the other American League owners in a power play, The Post reported Sunday.

Making public additional details of the recent American League owners' meeting in Chicago last week, The Post quotes one owner as saying: "Bob Short is making it hard for us to deny him permission to move the team. He has caught us in a power play."

In Sunday's story, Short is said to have told the owners he has no prospect of paying the $3.5 million that will be due on his baseball loans Oct. 31. The league's three alternatives were outlined as follows:

● Permit Short to go into bankruptcy.

● Find him a buyer for the Senators at his price.

● Grant him permission to move the franchise.

On the basis that he has lost nearly $3 million in operating the team for which he paid $9.4 million three years ago, Short wants to sell the club for $12 million.

The Post says a Washington attorney representing former baseball club owner Bill Veeck and comedian Bob Hope made Short a firm offer of $7.5 million for the Senators three weeks ago.

Canuck Girls Continue To Reap Medal Harvest

Leslie Takes Third Gold; Toronto Cyclist Triumphs

CALI, Colombia (CP-AP) — Blonde Canadian tomboy Leslie Cliff has drowned her U.S. opposition in the Pan-American Games, but the triple gold medallist thinks the Yanks have a poolful of excuses.

"They're sick. . . . Their team morale isn't too good. . . I peaked myself for the Pan-Am Games and the Americans are tapering toward a peak for the U.S. Nationals in two weeks at Houston," she said Sunday night.

The 16-year-old Vancouver swimmer conquered Susie Atwood of Long Beach, Calif., to win gold medals in the 200- and 400-metre individual medleys and also swam the third leg—the butterfly—in winning a team gold in the 400 medley relay.

In her individual 400 medley victory Sunday night, Miss Cliff knocked off Miss Atwood and Alice Jones, the American world-record holder in the 100 butterfly.

"Susie was very sick after the 400 metres," Miss Cliff said. "And Alice Jones was so sick she hardly managed fourth."

Canada's girl swimmers came to Columbia two weeks before the competition began. "That was too early," said Leslie, "but the U.S. squad showed up 48 hours before its first event and now they're all getting the 'touriste' stomach trouble."

Miss Cliff and Jocelyn Lovell of Toronto, who won a cycling gold medal Sunday night, boosted the team total to 14 gold after nine days of competition.

With five days of the two-week Games remaining, the 1971 team already has surpassed its Winnipeg performance in 1967 by two gold.

Cuban Hopes Slim in Swimming

While the second-place Cubans were winning only silver and bronze during the weekend, the third-place Canadian squad won four gold in their 18-medal spree Saturday and Sunday.

The Cubans, with 19 gold, have little going for them in swimming. And with 33 swimming and diving gold medals at stake, the Canadian squad already has logged six gold—all by the women—of 17 awarded in the pool.

Donna-Marie Gurr and Sylvia Dockerill of Vancouver won a pair of gold Saturday night in the 100 backstroke and 100 breaststroke respectively. Liz Carruthers of Edmonton won a diving gold last week in the springboard event.

Their golds, combined with the three Miss Cliff and the relay team won, gave the Canadian girls six of eight women's events. In Winnipeg, only Elaine Tanner of Vancouver was able to crack the U.S. swimming stranglehold, winning two individual gold.

Tiny Deanne Deardruff, a 14-year-old Cincinnati whiz, halted Miss Cliff's string of victories in Sunday night's 100 butterfly, taking only the second U.S. gold in the women's competition. Miss Cliff got the silver in a dead-close finish.

Leslie, her medals of gold and silver in hand, will return to Vancouver to prepare for several other goals, including the 1972 Olympics, at Munich and the 1974 Commonwealth Games at Christchurch, N.Z.

The Canadian team's medal total reached 61 with the completion of Sunday's 12 finals. Saturday the team won two gold, four silver and two bronze. Sunday, the total bag was slightly better—two gold, one silver and seven bronze.

Lovell Sprints to New Games Record

Lovell, only the third Canadian among the men to win a gold medal here, sprinted to victory in the 1,000-metre time trial, clocking a Games record one minute 7.6 seconds.

The 21-year-old Toronto cyclist broke the record of 1:09.0, set by Carlos Vasquez of Argentisa in 1963. He outsped Leslie King of Trinidad-Tobago, who collected silver, and Harold Halsey of the U.S., the bronze winner. All first four finishers were under the Games mark.

Lovell thus joins Marcel Roy of Lac Megantic, Que., as the only two Canadians to win Pan-Am cycling gold medals. Roy was the first, winning his in Winnipeg in the 150-kilometre individual road race.

Lovell, fourth in the time trial in 1967, won gold, silver and bronze medals in the 1970 Commonwealth Games at Edinburgh.

In swimming, Ralph Hutton of Campbell River, B.C., in the men's 400 freestyle, and John Hawes of Montreal in the 200 backstroke were bronze winners Sunday night.

Saturday night, there was a silver medal for Canada in the men's 400-metre freestyle relay, won in Games record time by the U.S.

Miss Gurr Upsets Record-Holder

Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., took silver in 200 freestyle, losing to 14-year-old Kim Peyton. Both girls cracked the Games record, Miss Peyton clocking 2:09.6 and Miss Coughlan 2:10.6.

Steve Furniss won gold Saturday for the U.S. in the 400-metre individual medley in 4:42.7, another Games record, with the lone Canadian finalist, Dave Brumwell of Calgary, seventh.

Miss Gurr, a member of the winning 400 medley relay squad, won her gold in the 100 backstroke with a clocking of 1:07.2, her best time and also a Games record. She upset Miss Atwood, world record-holder at the disttnce, who came in second in 1:07.5. Miss Cliff placed fourth.

Miss Dockerill, unranked in world breaststroke ratings for 1970, upset American Linda Kurtz, rated No. 6 in the 100 breaststroke, winning the event in a comparatively slow 1:18.6. Carol Kruger of Edmonton placed fourth.

In Sunday competition, Jim McConica and Steve Genter of the U.S. won the gold and silver medals in the 400 freestyle. McConica's 4:09.0 clocking was a Games record. Hutton was a well-beaten third in 4:15.8.

The 23-year-old Ocean Falls native did not defend his 200 backstroke title, won here by American Charles Campbell in 2:07.1. That clocking wiped off the books Hutton's own Games mark of 2:12.2.

Rick Colella made it seven straight victories for the American men swimmers by winning the 200-metre breaststroke gold in 2:27.1, also a Games record. Colella defeated Olympic champion Felipe Munoz of Mexico, the silver winner, and Brian Job, the American world record holder at the distance with a time of 2:23.5 Job was third, edging Bill Mahony of New Westminster, B.C., for the bronze. Job clocked 2:28.1 and Mahony 2:29.6.

Jorge Delgado of Ecuador won his country's first Pan-Am gold ever in the men's 200-metre butterfly, equalling the Games record of 2:06.4. Ron Jacks of Vancouver placed seventh.

Another silver for Canada was won in shooting as the centrefire pistol team came up against a world-record performance by the U.S.

In all, the U.S. won 19 of the 25 weekend final events and has 79 gold medals with 137 events completed.

Sandown Searching For Own Character

By BILL WALKER

"Sandown will have to develop its own character if it is to succeed in summer racing."

This is the opinion of Gerry Milburn, Director of Racing and Presiding Stewart of the mixed Quarter Horse and Thoroughbred race meeting currently being held at the suburban Sidney track.

"We can't relay on Vancouver fans any more," said Millburn of the first mid-summer meeting in many years and the first ever run concurrently with the Exhibition Park meeting in Vancouver.

VISITORS MISSED

"We didn't have the people here from the mainland on Saturday," he said of the fifth day of the 12-day event," and it was evident in the mutuel play.

"That's one reason why the handle isn't as big as when the thoroughbreds ran here.

"Sure there are other factors as well," he added, "because I have to admit that we have had our problems. But each day has been an improvement, and if things continue to improve, I think we can make it — if not completely this year, then in the future.

"But it will be up to Victorians, racing fans and owners, to put it across. That's what I mean by 'character'."

Meanwhile, Saturday's "handle" was up from the preceding week, $56,832 from $42,497, and the week-day play also has shown small but significant improvement, in the eyes of Millburn, and the Vancouver Island Quarter Horse Racing Association, which is operating the meeting.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Saturday's nine-race card also was noteworthy, split as it was between the quarter-horses and thoroughbreds, particularly in three areas.

First, and foremost perhaps, Danny Hajnal, general manager of the VIQHRA, got a fitting reward;

Secondly, George Harknett finally had to accept defeat;

And thirdly, an old favorite became a hero all over again.

A prime figure behind the move in getting the meet here, Hajnal saw his efforts partly rewarded with a victory in one the day's co-features, the Canadian Quarter Horse Futurity for two-year-olds.

His dark brown filly Miss Montana Moon made every yard a winning one in the 350-yard sprint and returned Hajnal $2,660.92, winner's share of the $5,217.50 purse.

Miss Montana Moon was ridden by Jack Palmer and paid $4.10 and $3.40.

Victory also made the filly a prime Favorite for future major events, the Capital City Futurity next Saturday and the Vancouver Island Futurity, Aug. 21.

FANCY PAYOFF

Besides, it was Hajnal's birthday, Sunday, the day after the victory.

For Harknett, a local breeder and owner, the string ran out in the co-featured Colonist Handicap. After four straight wins, his stable went down to defeat with Sea of Devon only third best to favored Jakshot and Miss Jay Note over seven and one-half furlongs.

Jakshot, ridden by Palmer, paid $4.90 and $3.80. Palmer took the three-year old bay gelding to the front early and won handily. Jakshot combined with Miss Jay Note for a healthy quinella of $77.90.

But it remained for the ninth race for the public to show it's true regard.

Cowardly Lion, a nine-year old bay gelding, who had won making his second start here five in a row here last fall, was this year, having failed the first, and he didn't disappoint his backers.

He charged from far back in the one-mile finale, and won easily, combining with Calenanore for a modest $7.00 quinella.

Actually, it was a milestone for Cowardly Lion. It was his 20th victory, which is pretty fair for a thoroughbred, who incidentally, was once owned by the wife of the racing secretary, Claude Berry.

"I bought him and another horse, a better one for $500," Berry recalled, "and gave Cowardly Lion to my wife. He was always a gentle horse and my wife often used to ride him in the desert, before we finally lost him on a claim. There were 14 shakes."

Cowardly Lion paid $3.60, shortest price of the day.

Racing resumes on Tuesday with eight races starting at 5 p.m., and with a new leader in the jockey department.

Ted Sampson toook over first place with three victories, Apple Lad ($8.00) in the fourth, Raz Bond ($6.90) in the fifth, and Birdie Jay ($7.00) in the sixth. Howard Gray and Palmer each had two wins. Sampson now has nine victories, Gray eight, and Kevin Furlong, the former leader, seven. Handicap is on page 2.

INJURY-PRONE Joe Namath underwent surgery Sunday for torn ligaments in left knee, and doctor in charge said New York Jets' 28-year-old quarterback may be able to play football again, possibly as early as November. Namath was injured Saturday night during exhibition against Detroit Lions at Tampa, Fla.

FIVE TEAMS . . . . . FOR SUMMER SOCCER

New Circuit Planned

The death knell of the Western Canada Soccer League has been sounded and British Columbia teams plan to find a substitute in a five-team semi-professional circuit next summer.

The handwrting showed on the wall at the weekend when Edmonton Eagles cancelled a WCSL visit to the west coast. Affected were a Saturday game at Royal Athletic Park against Victoria Royals and a Sunday match against Vancouver Spartans.

Saskatoon, Winnipeg Blues and Regina made up the rest of the WCSL, although Saskatoon did not participate in inter-division play.

Victoria owner Jim Irvine disclosed at the weekend that the proposed all-B.C. summer league will be composed of Victoria, Spartans, Richmond, Columbus, Croatia and Eintracht.

Richmond will be a new team while Columbus, Croatia and Eintracht have broken away from the Pacific Coast League.

Peter Mainardi, manager of Columbus, will serve as president of the summer circuit. Each team will be required to carry six amateurs before filling out the rest of the roster with professionals.

The term "professional" applies to former pros now living in B.C., professionals borrowed from Old Country teams, or local players who have signed pro contracts.

Although WCSL play was rated highly, it had been obvious teams could not continue to meet extensive travelling costs because of the lack of fan support.

Victoria, for example, averaged less than 1,000 fans a game despite crowd-pleasing performances that carried Royals to the top of the Coast Division.

Alcos' Poor Start Sets Up Incog Win

With Cowichan, Incogs and Albion all jockeying for position in a fight for first place in the Victoria and District Cricket Association, Incogs improved their position Sunday with an important win.

In a Windsor Park match against Alcos, Incogs were winners by 14 runs. When Alcos batted they had a disastrous start, with six men retired after scoring only 17 runs. However a great last wicket stand by Tony Armstrong (29 not out) and Les Clark (11 not out) brought the losers' score to 101.

Incogs scored 115 of which Tim Bale made 35, Jim Wenman, 34, and Scott Taylor, 14 not out.

Bowling for Alcos, Mike Dodd toppled five for 21 and Mike Nationl took two wickets for 11 runs. For Incogs, Tom Walton captured five wickets for 34 runs and Jim Wenman took four for 35.

League officials were not able to provide the results of a game between Cowichan and Oak Bay at Shawnigan Lake.

CASTAWAYS DRAW

At Beacon Hill Park on Saturday, Albion drew with Castaways, who defended desperately to earn a draw soon after realizing not enough runs could be scored in the two hours and ten minutes remaining. Albion had smashed 190 runs before declaring but didn't allow enough time to get Castaways out.

Castaways' Nick Walton took four wickets for 58 and Dave Clarke hit 82 runs but, with five wickets fallen, Dave Shaw (18 not out) and Walton (13 not out) played the time out. Mal Shanks and Dick Beale opened with 125 runs for Albion before Shanks' wicket fell with his total at 68 runs. Beale went out after scoring 67.

Hard-Working Tiger Lefty Can't Escape Blue Shadow

By The Associated Press

Vida Blue, Oakland Athletics' pitching whiz, has been getting all the attention this season but the American League's dark horse is Detroit Tigers' Mickey Lolich, who can't escape the shadow cast by the spotlight-basking Blue.

The Detroit left-hander is the hardest worker in the League with 270 innings hurled and has compiled 226 strikeouts, a 2.93 earned run average and an 18-8 won-lost record, including Sunday's 8-2 victory over Boston Red Sox.

In the other American League games, Kansas City Royals clouted Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; Cleveland Indians trimmed Washington Senators 6-2; Minnesota Twins nipped California Angels 2-1; Chicago White Sox spilled Oakland 9-7 in the first game of a doubleheader and beat the Athletics in the nightcap 3-1.

But Lolich has had little chance to scene-steal from Blue, who nailed down No. 20 Saturday with a 1-0 conquest of Chicago White Sox.

Lolich's victory over Boston kept the Red Sox from gaining ground on pace setting Baltimore in the East Division. The Orioles were beaten 2-1 by New York Yankees Sunday.

Five times this year, Lolich has lost leads in the last frame and also lost the victories.

Lolich, who was nicked for a first-inning run on Carl Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly, ran into familiar ninth-inning trouble when he gave up three hits, including Phil Gagliano's run scoring double.

But Lolich had more than enough working margin to wriggle out this time and moved closer to the prized 20-victory plateau, something consistently denied him in eight previous major league seasons.

'Goo-Goo' and Knuckler Chill Braves

Phil Niekro, whose elusive knuckleball has been baffling National League batters for the last few years, added the tantalizing "goo-goo" pitch to his repertoire this season.

Sunday, he used both to their full effectiveness, hurling Atlanta Braves to a 5-0 victory over New York Mets, the team that had bombarded Atlanta pitching for 20 runs and 21 hits Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco and Chicago split a doubleheader, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 and the Cubs taking the nightcap 8-0; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh also divided a twinbill, the Phils capturing the first game 3-2 and losing the second 4-0; Cincinnati Reds downed Montreal Expos 6-3; Los Angeles Dodgers defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-2, and San Diego Padres edged Houston Astros 3-2.

The veteran right-hander allowed only four hits—all singles, struck out seven, including Tommie Agee four times, and walked three in raising his record to 12-8.

The only Met to solve his mystifying "goo-goo" pitch was Duffy Dyer, who tapped a single into left centrefield in the third inning.

Niekro's delivery was given its name by his team-mate, pitcher Bob Priddy. It floats toward the plate, then breaks away from right-handed batters and in to left-handed swingers.

The Braves nicked Charlie Williams for a run in the first inning on Felix Millan's triple and Ralph Garr's sacrifice fly, and added four runs in the second, with Millan and Hank Aaron each rapping two-run singles. Aaron now has hit safely in 16 consecutive games.

Chicago's Billy Williams smashed three two-run homers, including two in the nightcap, and Glenn Beckert had seven hits in nine at-bats raising his batting average to a league-leading .357 in the Cubs' split with the Giants.

Berner, Burwash Are Best

WINNIPEG (CP)—Top-seeded Peter Burwash of Toronto stroked his way to victory in the men's singles and doubles events Sunday at the Canadian national tennis championships.

Burwash, a 25-year-old touring professional, defeated unseeded Jim Boyce of Toronto, a former junior star who was the surprise of the six-day tournament, 6-1, 6-4 to take the men's singles title.

Teamed with seventh-seeded Ken Bins of Toronto, Burwash won the doubles title with a 6-3, 6-0 decision over Tony Bardsley and Don McCormick, both of Vancouver.

Burwash was seriously challenged only once in his five singles matches and that was by fifth-seeded Bardsley in their 1-6, 6-2, 7-5 semifinal. The Toronto team swept to the doubles title winning three of four matches in consecutive sets.

Burwash's success came as no surprise. When the tournament began, he said he was confident he could take the singles title, and he was determined to show the Davis Cup selection committee it made a mistake to bypass him this year.

"They can't ignore me now," he said after his singles victory.

CHAMP LOSES

In the women's single final, seventh-seeded Vicki Berner of Vancouver disposed of defending champion Andree Martin of Montreal 1-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Berner, an Arizona teaching professional who lost to Miss Martin in the finals of the Quebec open in July, had earlier defeated Canada's No. 2-ranked player, Jan O'Hara of Toronto, in the quarter-finals and third-seeded Susan Stone of Vancouver in the semi-finals.

In the women's doubles final, Miss Berner and Susan Butt of Vancouver, lost 6-3, 6-0 to Miss Martin and Miss O'Hara.

In the singles final 23-year-old Miss Martin trounced Miss Berner in the first set and appeared on her way to an easy easy repeat title. But Miss Berner used her strong service and excellent net play for the unset victory.

The top four finishers in the men's and women's singles were given berths in the Canadian open, which started today in Toronto.

RACING ROUNDUP

Honarium Posts Third Stakes Win

(Times News Services)

Allan Jack's and Bill Howden's five-year-old Honarium led all the way Saturday to win the $5,875 Vancouver Handicap by two lengths at Exhibition Park in Vancouver.

The B.C.-bred chestnut gelding covered the 1 1-16 miles in 1:43 2-5, the fastest time of the season so far, and just three-fifths of a second off the track record.

River Buoy nosed out Grand Bolero for second while Alandian was another 2½ lengths back in fourth place.

It was the third stakes victory this season for Honarium, confidently ridden by Mike Chabara.

At Edmonton, Against The Wind, a four-year-old bay colt, scored his sixth straight victory this season at Northlands Park in the 26th running of the $15,000 Speed to Spare championship.

His $10,962 winner's share of the purse increased his season's earnings to $27,783, the highest of all thoroughbreds in Alberta.

Against The Wind broke alertly and crossed the wire 1½ lengths ahead of hard-charging Love Your Host. His time in the 1⅛-mile race was 1:51 4-5.

McDonald's Go One Up In Junior Set

BURNABY — Burnaby Norburns came closer than anyone else, but they still couldn't stop Victoria McDonald's Bread in the opening game of their best-of-five junior "B" lacrosse final.

McDonald's won, 13-11. The two-goal margin is the smallest yet by the undefeated Victorians.

Second game in the series will be played Thursday at Victoria's Memorial Arena.

Dave Thomson led the attack with four goals as Victoria unleashed a 56-shot display on the Burnaby net. Bob Crook, Bob Turkington, Glen Neuman and Jim Lynch each scored twice for McDonald's while Mike Walsh added the single.

John Edgar scored four for Burnaby with Mike Holden and Mike Burns each adding a pair. Singles went to Phil Thomas, Gord McNeill and Peter Mutch.

The score was 4-4 after the first period but Victoria pulled ahead 10-9 after two sessions.

Booth, Ogden Take Singles

One of the losers stood out as brightly as the winners Saturday when the annual Greater Victoria parks tennis program wound up with finals at Beacon Hill Park.

Wendy Barlow, 12, turned in a sparkling performance although losing 6-2, 6-3, to 17-year-old Liz Anne Ogden in the open girls' singles final.

Greg Booth had an easier time in grabbing the boys' open crown, defeating Glen Tickner 6-1, 6-1.

More than 300 boys and girls started in the tournament.

Sportsmanship awards were presented to Anne Hvid and Jamie Bowes.

Randy Cox won the intermediate boys' section by defeating Bob Spanier 6-3 while the girls' intermediate champion is Andrea Hilliard, who downed Karen Wilson 6-3.

NOVICE CHAMPS

Novice winners were Bowes and Della Pollard. Bowes defeated Don Bunnell 6-0 while Miss Pollard downed Chris Holding 6-1 in the girls' final.

One of the best matches of the tournament came in the senior boys' doubles final when Tickner and Norm Curtis defeated Booth and Scott Bradley 7-5, 4-6, 6-0.

Karen Blackey and Cindy Bray took the senior girls' doubles after scoring a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Debbie Hayne and Corry Dee.

The Andrea Hilliard-Kim Sorenson and Clayton Booth-Doug Leary pairings claimed the junior doubles' finals. The Hilliard-Sorenson combination scored a 6-2 victory over Kathy and Karen Wilson while Booth and Leary downed Bowles and Dean Tickner 6-4.

Invaders Sweep Away With B.C. Net Honors

It was the "British Columbia Open," but the honors from Saturday's tennis finals at the Victoria Racquet Club went scattering to Texas, California, Oregon, Washington and "points South."

Classy invaders swept all honors from the combined Pacific Northwest Seniors-B.C. Open tournament that attracted one of the strongest fields ever to campaign in Victoria.

Avery Rush, a modest Texan, and Hedy Jackson, perrenial threat from Portland, powered their way to open singles victories.

No. 1 player at the University of Texas, the unseeded Rush retained great poise while under pressure and defeated Manuel Castenada, the highly-rated 18-year-old Mexican, 6-4, 7-5, in the men's final.

STOPPED MULLEN

Rush had barged into the spotlight earlier in the week by upsetting top-seeded Mike Mullen of Philadelphia in the quarter-finals.

Miss Jackson scored her first singles success in the B.C. open, after several appearances, by scoring a hard-fought 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 decision over Mary Hill of Sacramento.

Mullen gained some measure of revenge for his singles defeat by joining Miss Jackson and Merwin Miller as double winners.

Mullen shared silverware in both mixed and men's doubles. He teamed up with Miss Jackson to take the mixed crown from Miller and Ev Houseman of Los Angeles, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, then joined Hank Moon of San Francisco for a 6-4, 7-6 triumph over Rush and Ed Innerarity in the men's doubles finale.

Mrs. Hill and Joyce Laughton of Monterey won the women's doubles, defeating the mother daughter combination of Dorothy and Chris Cheney 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Mrs. Cheney, who as "Dodo" Bundy was a leading U.S. player 25 years ago, won the seniors women's title by crushing Ode Rutzebeck of Los Angeles 6-0, 6-0.

Miller won the veteran's final with a 7-5, 6-0 victory over Will Lotter of Davis, Calif., then shared in the doubles by partnering Bill Klein of Vancouver, Wash., to 6-3, 6-1 win over Les Cribbey and Cliff Hedger of Seattle.

Mrs. Rutzebeck and Doris Popple of Portland defeated Vivien Davies of Victoria and Liz Rapoport of Los Angeles 6-1, 6-4 in the senior women's doubles final.

The only other Victorian to reach a final, apart from Mrs. Davies, was John Nicol of Oak Bay. He bowed to Dean Brinkman of Hawaii, 6-2, 6-1, in the junior veterans' final.

Pony Crown To Carnarvon

Carnarvon downed Layritz, 7-3, Sunday at Luxton Park to win the Pony League Zone 6 baseball tournament in three straight games.

Carnarvon, 8-1 winner, Friday night over Layritz and 6-5 winner Saturday against Triangle, now advances to the provincial championship in Vancouver, starting Aug. 18.

In the losers' bracket Saturday, Layritz downed Triangle 5-2 and gained the right to meet Carnarvon in the final round of the three-team, double-knockout tourney.

ARE YOU PLAGUED BY WORRY AND FEAR BECAUSE YOU CAN'T QUIT CIGARETTES?

Kick the habit... Smoke the Safer Smoke.

By E. A. Carey

This new kind of pipe makes it easy! Smoke it for 30 days at our risk! You have nothing to lose.

Here's what's different about this pipe. It's the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadultered pleasure to smokers. It's so different in smoking quality that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT under patent number 3267941.

It's different than any pipe ever invented. It smokes COOLER—MELLOWER—SWEETER—and DRIER. Even dyed in the wool cigarette smokers find it easier to smoke and enjoy than any pipe, or any cigar they've ever tried. Some say it's as easy as switching from one brand of cigarettes to another.

GIVE IT 30 DAYS—you'll never go back to cigarettes again. No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

Here is the way of it. The hazards of cigarette smoking are not new. Long before the Surgeon General issued his nerve shattering report on SMOKING AND HEALTH, evidence that cigarette smoking was associated with Cancer, coronary artery disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema, was mounting rapidly. It was then that I decided to switch to a pipe. That was over 30 years ago.

Like most other cigarette smokers I just couldn't tolerate the goo, the bitterness, the tongue bite, and that stale, foul, after-taste that results from smoking an ordinary pipe. As a result I dedicated hundreds of hours searching for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite or sludge. In, disgust I gave up and went back to cigarettes—and of course back to COUGHING, WHEEZING, CHOKING.

It was then I decided to try to work something out on my own, something that would not leave my mouth tasting like the proverbial blacksmith's glove. Thousands of experiments and five long disappointing years later, almost by accident, I hit upon a solution. A solution so simple but so effective that it made smoking a pipe an entirely new and exciting smoking experience. By harnessing four great natural laws this invention gives you everything you want in a satisfying smoke. It doesn't require any breaking in, from the first puff it smokes cool—it smokes mild—it smokes right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be rested, and it it never has to be cleaned; yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because this invention does not allow the goo to form.

In appearance and in quality, the Carey Pipe is like any of the two or three leading World brands. The bowl is made of the finest selected premium briar, imported especially for this use. The bit is conventional in appearance—made of molded nylon—the newest and finest material for pipe bits. The color and finish are what you would expect in any of the best pipes on the market. It is, in every respect, a pipe you will be proud to smoke. It is entirely free of the outlandish contraptions that have been seen on so many so-called "improved" pipes in the past.

Discover the thrill of this new kind of smoking. Accept our offer to LEND YOU a Carey Pipe for 30 days' trial use. At the end of the trial period, if you say the Carey Pipe has given you the greatest smoking pleasure of your life, you may keep it. But if you are willing to go back to your old smoking habit, break the Carey into bits, return the pieces and the trial will have cost you nothing.

Before we send you your pipe we would like to know the style you prefer so send us your name, TODAY and we'll send you absolutely free, our complete trial offer including descriptive literature and pipe styles so you can decide for yourself whether or not thousands of Carey smokers are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

Remember you have nothing to lose. One hundred thousand doctors have kicked the cigarette habit. YOU CAN TOO, THE EASY WAY.

Write today! E. A. Carey, Dept. M-31, 5117 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario.

Bit of Enchantment As Trudeaus End Trip

By CARL MOLLINS

OTTAWA (CP) — Like thousands of Upper-Canadian tourists before him, Prime Minister Trudeau flew home from Atlantic Canada early today with a sense of enchantment about the area and its people.

Only the general election expected next year will tell for sure whether the feeling is mutual. In the 1968 federal election, the region voted largely against him and the Liberal party.

Throughout the 10-day tour touching 15 communities in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, the prime minister referred several times in brief speeches to the attractiveness of the quiet, gentle way of life and fine scenery.

That romantic attitude toward the region did little to smooth over some of the difficulties of slow economic development and, in some places, labor-management disputes.

Last Friday, following Mr. Trudeau into Newfoundland, New Democratic Party leader David Lewis criticized the prime minister on the ground that he dallied on the tour instead of dealing with real problems.

STAFF REPLIES

The response from the prime minister's staff to that charge was that the tour was never intended to be primarily political, either in answering problems or in electioneering.

The aim, aides said, was to make a relaxed excursion on which the prime minister could meet the people, they could see him and his presence would help make the rest of Canada more aware of life in the Atlantic region.

But that approach led to a description of the tour by Mr. Lewis as a sort of royal progress through the domain, more suited to a head of state than a leader of government.

The manner of the touring, however, was a far cry in appearance and organization from a visit by a monarch.

DRESS FOR SHOW

Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau on all occasions except the final evening were dressed casually—he usually in jeans, shirt and sneakers. Margaret in slacks or midi-length peasant outfits and sandals.

The exception was Sunday night at a variety show in the theatre of Charlottetown's Confederation centre, where the prime minister wore a sports jacket and Margaret was dressed in a lime-green gown and sash.

Local politicians, who arranged the main outlines of his stops in each province, seemed pleased with the results of his appearances.

The pressure of crowds in some places was typical of true Trudeaumania but the reaction of spectators otherwise was reserved—perhaps in keeping with the character of the region.

Although the chatty speeches delivered by the prime minister seldom touched on partisan matters, local party officials seemed to think that an appearance by the prime minister by itself was building up voting capital for the future.

TRAVEL BY SEA

Margaret, making her first substantial tour in Canada since their marriage last March, was given a taste of political expeditions. She was uncomfortable in crowds, but nevertheless was exposed to the curious at close quarters, particularly in western Newfoundland Friday.

Mixing pleasure with business, the Trudeaus travelled most of the way on the coast guard ship Sir William Alexender and made frequent private side trips to see personal friends.

Between leaving Newfoundland Friday evening and arriving in Charlottetown Saturday night, they made a private visit to the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, where Mr. Trudeau did some skin diving.

The prime minister took more time out for fun Sunday in Prince Edward Island. He and Premier Alex Campbell went swimming and water-skiing off the north shore while 2,200 Islanders waited with growing impatience at a Government House garden party and hundreds of the uninvited wilted outside the grounds in hot weather.

OZ EDITORS RELEASED ON BAIL

LONDON (AP) — Three editors of the underground magazine Oz were released on bail today pending appeal of their controversial obscenity case — one of the longest and most sensational in British history.

London television producer John Birt and film producer Anthony Palmer put up $240 bail for each of the editors.

Richard Neville, James Anderson and Felix Dennis face prison terms from nine to 15 months.

Justice Hugh Griffiths said the appeal may not be heard until January and it would be unfair to keep the editors in jail for so long.

The trial stemmed from an Oz issue which contained schoolchildren's writings on sexual deviations and drugs.

FIRM ALLIES AGAINST PAKISTAN

Russia, India Sign Peace Pact

NEW DELHI (AP) — India and the Soviet Union signed a 20-year treaty of "peace, friendship and co-operation" today which in effect put the Russians firmly on the side of the Indians in their potentially explosive dispute with Pakistan.

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh said the treaty should provide a "stabilizing factor in favor of peace" in Asia.

"It is also a treaty of non-aggression," he told cheering members of Parliament when he informed them of the pact signed two hours earlier by him and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The 12-article treaty does not commit either country to give military aid automatically to the other in the event of an attack by a third nation. Instead, the key ninth article says:

"Each high contracting party undertakes to abstain from providing any assistance to any third party that engages in armed conflict with the other party.

"In the event of either party being subjected to an attack or a threat thereof, the high contracting parties shall immediately enter into mutual consultations in order to remove such threat and to take appropriate effective measures to ensure peace and the security of their countries."

With tensions between India and Pakistan mounting steadily over the Pakistani army's repression of the independence movement in East Pakistan and the flight of seven million East Pakistani refuges to India, the treaty could set the stage for a new confrontation in which Russia would side with India and Communist China with Pakistan.

The new Soviet-Indian treaty apparently was worked out in highly-secret negotiations concluded before Gromyko's arrival Sunday on what had appeared to be a hastily-arranged visit occasioned by the threat of war between India and Pakistan.

In the eighth article of the 1,500-word pact, both countries undertake not to "enter into or participate in any military alliance directed against the other party." They also agree "to abstain from any aggression against the other party and to prevent the use of its territory for the commission of any act which might inflict military damage on the other."

The treaty will come into force within one month, "subject to ratification," presumably by the parliamentary organizations of each country.

In presenting the treaty to Parliament, Singh sought to remove any impression that it altered India's traditional policy of non-alignment.

SMOKE WATCH

On Giving 'Em Up The Group Route

The very first thing you do is to write the letter — or, rather, you copy it out of the book since they have written it for you as part of the service — and you mail it or give it to your family members and friends.

"Dear Family Members and Friends:" it tells them. "I am about to embark on a campaign to free myself from the cigarette habit. The campaign is important to me, though I realize it may not seem so to you. My success or failure will depend in large part on the co-operation I get from those around me. To put it simply, directly and perhaps bluntly, I need only one thing from you: to be left alone . . ."

The writer of this recommended, ready-made break with society is on the staff of Smoke Watchers International, Inc., and if you think that's a drastic action, just wait until you hear the rest of it.

As for Smoke Watchers, you'll doubtless be hearing from them any day now since an advance party is in our town preparing to launch the venture commercially.

Like Alcoholics Anonymous or Weight Watchers, Smoke Watchers is a group, psycho-social membership deal calculated to have you shaking the filthy habit through the pressure and encouragement of togetherness. Or, as they put it, "Since social pressures made you start smoking, you must use social pressures to help you quit."

An advance look at the manual that's used in the exercise, The Smoke Watchers' How-to-Quit Book, makes it clear that they've little or no faith in the Cold Turkey Method which I had always thought to be the only possible way to kick the habit. Instead, they advocate a gradual, three-stage withdrawal program that could take up to 26 weeks before realizing the goal of being a non-smoker, saying a final farewell to your last cigarette and, of course, all your family members and friends. (Just joking, fellows.)

Being an essentially inspiration organization, Smoke Watchers sets a high moral, even fighting tone right from the beginning, especially in documenting the saga of Smoke Watchers who have made good.

Consider, for example, the 35-year-old woman member who had reached three packs a day, had tried and failed no less than 10 times to give them up. Then along came Smoke Watchers. And now? "She is tobacco's slave no longer. Her complexion has lost its yellowish pallor. Her day's-end fatigue is gone. Her chronic cough is gone. Her teeth are white. Her sex life has become an experience worth having. She has blossomed. She has abruptly come out into the sunshine like a big, beautiful butterfly that has spent two decades wrapped in a dingy cocoon. 'I'm living!' she keeps saying in tones of wonder. 'I'm living!'"

Now that you're all fired up, let's consider some of Smoke Watchers' methods and you'll notice right away that there's a considerable amount of paper work. For starters, you're urged to make a list of all the reasons why you want to quit smoking. "All right," the manual then advises. "Now read over your list. Have a cigarette. Go ahead. Enjoy it. Feel no guilt. You have taken your first step toward becoming a non-smoker."

Later on, as you get deeper into the program, you'll be keeping another list in which you "rate" the enjoyment of smokers under certain conditions. It must be noted, sadly, that this list may run every bit as long as the list you've made of reasons to hate them. Indeed the reasons for hating them — health fears, smell, clutter and mess, fire hazard, expense — may seem disconcertingly few when Smoke Watchers' manual gets around to listing those situational smokes that taste ever so good.

Well, never mind. You have this sort of form chart, you see. Now, every time you light a cigarette you write down the time you lit up, the activity in which you were engaged and the degree of desire ranging from one point to five. If it was a desperate need (i.e., the cigarette with the first coffee in the morning) you might give it five points; "very much" is four points; "moderate" is three; "very little" is two and "no real desire" gets a single point.

Smoke Watchers make the startling claim that fully half the cigarettes consumed by the average smoker would be classed as 1s or 2s — robot cigarettes, so to speak, that were barely wanted, not really enjoyed, that were lit only as part of a habit pattern. By simply giving up those, most smokers are automatically half way to their goal.

That turns our attention to the cigarettes which would rate anywhere from "moderate desire" to "desperate need," the threesies, the foursies and the fivesies.

★ ★ ★

Smoke Watchers' people will tell you that when a two-pack-a-day member has got himself down to — say — 20 cigarettes a day they will almost certainly include the cigarettes that can be categorized as the Wake-Up, After Breakfast, Drivers, Waiting, Mid-Morning, Pause-to-Think, Telephone, Bathroom, Before Lunch, After Lunch, Cocktail, Nightcap, After Sex and the Insomnia Cigarette. Each of these whether they rate as 3, 4 or 5, is then tackled one by one.

"Go at your own pace," the How-to-Quit-Book warns. "Don't pressure yourself too hard. Don't attack the Telephone Cigarette habit until you feel perfectly at ease without your former Pause-to-Think cigarette. As you attack and defeat each habit, simply cross it off the list and turn your attention to the habits that still remain."

If here's one thing that Smoke Watchers want you to get into your thick head it is that you are losing nothing and gaining everything.

"Fix in your mind that you aren't about to 'quit' something pleasant and good," the manual warns. "You aren't about to test your will power or display stoicism or be a martyr. You are about to reach for a grand, new success. Don't be ashamed if you feel self-righteous and arrogant. You deserve to swagger a little. After all, you are a success."

As a many-time loser at the game of giving them up, trying once more the Cold Turkey Method, I find them stirring words — but, of course, any words are appreciated when family members and friends have left you.

Ask the Times

Q. Can you tell me the message or meaning of the signal flags that were hoisted by the royal yacht Britannia when she docked on May 3, and again on May 11?—D.J.M.

A. The Britannia did what is commonly known as "dress ship." To do this, signal flags are used in a rotation set down by international protocol. They do not spell out any specific message but are flown in this manner on gala occasions. Of particular interest to Canadians was the special Canadian standard of the Queen that was flown on one of the yacht's *masthead*s.

Q. Recently I found a Bank of Canada $2 bill dated January 1937. How much is it worth now?—H.C.

A. Although it is one of the last issue it is still worth only $2 because there are so many notes still in circulation.

Mount Douglas fire casts pall of smoke over skyline Sunday afternoon

Arson Suspected in Mount Doug Blaze

By BRIAN BUTTERS

Arson is suspected in a Sunday afternoon forest fire which blazed through 10 acres of the west slope of Mount Douglas.

"It certainly wasn't a natural phenomenon," Chief Joseph Sutherland said today.

He said that although the cause of the fire has not yet been pinpointed, there have been several occasions earlier this summer when the fire department extinguished small fires in the same general area.

He said that on one occasion, four separate blazes had apparently been lit. Because the woods were damper at that time of the year, the fires did not spread to a dangerous extent.

'IT TOOK OFF'

"This time it took off," Sutherland said.

Fire crews today are standing guard after every available firemen Sunday worked on the blaze. They had it under control in about an hour.

Sutherland said the fire could have been caused by carelessness — perhaps a dropped cigarette — and that with the woods so dry — it wouldn't have taken much to get a fire going.

Assistant Five Chief Harold Gaines said there was "fairly heavy" foot traffic on the mountain's hiking trails and paths.

Two five-man crews and three pumper trucks had been left on the mountain overnight, he said, to ensure that the fire did not break out again.

Inspector John Post of Saanich said police questioned area residents trying to find a cause.

The investigation had yielded "nothing concrete."

Fire department spokesmen said homes in the area were never in great danger, and that the closest building to the flames was the Sevenoaks Children's Treatment Centre, 4573 Blenkinsop Road.

Sutherland said that if there had been no available water supply on the top of the mountain, "it could have been a lot worse."

IN BACKYARDS

A 10,000-gallon water reservoir was built at the top of the mountain after a fire in September 1966 consumed 10 acres of forest, and came close to destroying some nearby houses.

"If we'd had the same problems with the water supply as we did in the 1966 fire, it would have been a different situation," Sutherland said.

The 1966 fire caused considerable concern to residents in the area. At one point flames were in the backyards of some of the homes.

Sutherland said, however, that although it appears dramatic when flames approach residential areas, there is no real problem.

"When it gets close to where we have a hydrant, we don't have any problem at all."

Spokesmen said that with the water reservoir on the top of the mountain, the fire was much easier to control.

"We were able to get one line from the top of the mountain as well as lines from trucks at the bottom and halfway up," one fireman said. "With the three lines, we were able to surround it."

The department's pumper trucks are capable of bringing in only about 1,500 gallons of water at a time, so the extra 10,000 gallons in the reservoir "saved the day," Gaines said.

Saanich firefighters earlier Sunday extinguished a half-acre blaze on Prospect Lake Road and West Burnside Road.

$133 IN THREE STAGES

Police Raise Really 18.2%

The monthly salary of a first-class constable in Victoria and Saanich will be raised by 18.2 per cent in the 15-month contract approved by policemen last Friday.

Earlier reports of the settlement, expected to be approved by Victoria and Saanich police commissions this week, put the percentage increase at 12.2 and 11.2.

The police will receive a total increase of $133 a month in three stages on the old rate of $728 a month. The stages: $782 Jan. 1, 1971; $830, July 1, 1971; $861 Jan. 1, 1972.

SOUGHT PARITY

They had been seeking parity with Vancouver and lower mainland police forces who earn $887 a month in a contract which runs to the end of this year. This was an increase of 16.4 per cent in a one-year contract.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt are expected to follow the Victoria-Saanich pattern.

E. E. Pearlman, spokesman for the city's negotiating committee, said "we look at the cost on payroll" and this was 10.5 per cent for this year.

PAYROLL COST

Saanich administrator John Tribe said the payroll cost for this year is the lower figure reported earlier.

"The end result, the increase to the men themselves, looks about 18 per cent all right," he said.

The payroll increase for this year is less because the second stage comes into effect in mid-year and the third stage is Jan. 1 of next year, he added.

The presidents of the police unions, Ken Horsman of Victoria and Ted Owens of Saanich, could not be reached for comment.

'WORKED LIKE TROJANS HELPING WITH FIRE'

Citizens who helped fight Sunday's Mount Douglas fire were praised today by Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland.

"The department is most appreciative of the volunteers who helped out," the chief said. "They worked like Trojans."

He said a large part of fighting the fire involved "laying in" the hoses from the bottom of the mountain and that the volunteers, especially groups of young teenagers, had contributed "tremendously."

Another department spokesman, who had worked on one side of the fire, said about 25 young boys had helped his crew drag the heavy hoses up the mountainside.

"Many people don't realize it, but that is a rugged mountain," he said. "The youngsters helped a great deal."

Sutherland also said the Victoria Citizen's Band Radio Club deserved praise for the way they were able to keep communication lines open between the various parts of the mountain.

Hospital Strike Story To Be Told in Alberta

The story of the Sandringham Private Hospital strike will be told to trade unionists in Alberta.

Jack Phillips, co-ordinator for Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said a tour by one of the strikers was requested by the provincial executive of CUPE in Alberta.

The idea proposed by Alberta CUPE executive is to have one striker speak at a number of union meetings and raise funds at the same time. The tour will include Edmonton, Red Deer, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. The striker making the tour will be named later this week.

PNE DISPLAY FEATURES ARCTIC ROLE

Forces to Operate 'Hot Line'

A "hot line" to Canadian armed forces headquarters in Ottawa will be a feature of the forces' display at the Pacific National Exhibition, which runs from Aug. 21 to Sept. 6 in Vancouver.

Using the line, visitors will be able to receive immediate answers to queries about the forces.

Located near the PNE grandstand, the display will feature the forces' role in the Arctic. The highlight will be a "cool room", where parka-clad personnel will erect tents, cook and do other chores in a specially air-cooled enclosure. They will be able to be observed through glass panels.

There will also be a theatre where the film Arctic Frontier wil be shown.

AIR-DROP

Another feature will be the air-drop, where two parachute harnesses will be suspended in front of an aerial-scene backdrop. Complimentary photographs will be taken of visitors getting the feel of dropping from the sky.

Briefing officers will report on the status of Canadian forces around the world in a realistic operations room.

Major George Lilley of Ottawa heads the 42-strong exhibition team, drawn from units across Canada.

Decision on College Site Expected by End of Month

The site for an $8 million international college, expected to open near Victoria in two years, may be decided at the end of August.

Bertram Butler, 613 Transit, chairman of the United World Colleges' site committee, said today a great many sites had been studied and the choice now lay "between three or four."

The college will be the third in a series established by the UCW. The first was formed in 1962 at St. Donat's in Wales and a second is being established in Singapore.

It has been speculated the college will be built on 150 acres west of Sooke at French Beach.

Pat Sinnott, solicitor for the French family, owners of the property, has received queries from UWC officials, as well as a federal government department that appeared interested in the beach area for under water research.

It has also been suggested that one of the Gulf Islands might be chosen as a college site.

Rear-Admiral Desmond Hoare, personal representative of Earl Mountbatten, a UCW founder, said that sea rescue training would be part of the college's curriculum.

When he visited Victoria this spring, Hoare said the college would include 100 North American students, 150 students from Pacific Rim countries and 50 male from Europe.

Entry will be open to both boys and girls and fees will be about $3,000 annually.

SCHOLARSHIPS

If the pattern of St. Donat's is followed, many of these will be on scholarships for the two years of tuition, which will be equivalent to Canadian grade 11 and 12 standards.

Canada currently provides six scholarships for the college in Wales, known as the Atlantic College.

To be called the Pacific College, the one being proposed for this area will be headed by Jack Matthews, headmaster of Lakefield College, a boys' boarding school near Peterborough, Ont.

Sooke Sports Fishing Reserve to Be Retained

The sports fishing reserve from Sheringham Point to William Head will be retained at least for a year, it was reported today.

Area fisheries director Rod Hourston said today that Minister of the Environment Jack Davis has examined survey findings and briefs presented to the department by commercial and sports fishermen and saw no reason for change at this time.

"But," Hourston added, "he said he would be prepared to look at the problems of the commercial and sports fishermen next year."

At a recent Vancouver meeting with department officials representatives of the sports fishermen opposed a department proposal to cut the fishery reserve in half.

This proposal has now been shelved.

It would have reduced the reserve from an area eight miles offshore to a four-mile limit, allowing commercial fishermen to fish in the outer half.

At the meeting, commercial fishermen asked that the entire reserve be made available to them.

Howard English, southern Vancouver Island representative to the sport fishery advisory committee of the fisheries department drew attention to the declining stocks of summer coho in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

He warned that abandoning the reserve, set up in July 1967, would worsen an already critical situation.

FROM TORONTO TO ATLIN

Minute Motel, Mule and Mountains

ATLIN, B.C. (CP) — When the Harvey family left Toronto a year ago to see the West Coast Mountains they didn't expect to end up owning the smallest motel in North America and a two-month-old donkey named Hard Luck.

Nor did they plan to make a new home in an old nurses' residence, without running water.

John Harvey, 37, worked for the sales and production department of a Toronto radio station when he decided to see the West with his wife Jan, a media director for an advertising agency, and their two children, Suzanne, 13, and Christopher, 9.

Now they live in this village of 300 in the northwest corner of British Columbia, where there is only one telephone line outside. Atlin is 55 miles from the Yukon border.

"It all happened because we decided one day to take a trip to see the mountains," says Mr. Harvey. "We made up our minds faster than we sometimes decide what to have for dinner."

The Harveys sold their comfortable Toronto home and on July 6, 1970, headed out of the city in their camper, with their truck and boat in tow.

"We came here because John likes to explore out-of-the-way places," says Jan.

The only way to reach Atlin is by a 60-mile detour from the Alaska Highway along a gravel road that ends up as a trail. It sits on an 85-mile-long lake dotted with islands, across the water from the always snow-capped Atlin Mountain.

The family lived in their camper until November, but 50 below is not unusual here in winter and "when my pyjamas froze to the wall, I said that was it," says Mrs. Harvey.

So she and her husband bought a 60-year-old house — the hospital's nurses' residence when this was a booming gold-mining town at the beginning of the century.

There is no running water. It's delivered twice a week and stored in plastic containers. The plumbing is outside.

On the coldest days the couple blocked off the front room and lived mainly in the kitchen.

"The hot air rose so fast that butter on the top shelf melted while ice cream in the lowest cupboard stayed frozen," Mrs. Harvey says.

While their children did their school work by correspondence, the Harveys staked an 80-acre gold-mining claim and bought "the smallest motel in North America."

The Chimo Motel, which looks out over Atlin Lake, has only two units, but a small addition is planned.

When Mr. Harvey decided tourists would probably like to try gold panning, he bought the donkey, Hard Luck, with mining gear strapped to her back, is a walking promotion around Atlin for the gold-mining attraction.

"I miss the exciting things I used to do at the radio station and I miss the people back in Toronto," he says.

"But I sure don't miss all those lanes of traffic and the smog monitor readings. Even if we do end up back in Toronto, we'll never forget Atlin."

Legislation Needed for Equal Pay

elizabeth forbes

Report of the Status of Women Commission, tabled at the tail end of last year showed that in Canada some two and one-half million women are working for pay. They represent roughly one-third of the labor force and one-third of the female population old enough to work.

The report also points up the fact that women generally work in a few occupations labelled "female", earn less money than men and rarely reach the top.

In connection with the "earn less money" bit, commission findings show that "in spite of the fact that most employees in Canada are covered by legislation (federal or provincial) prohibiting different rates of pay on the basis of sex, different pay scales for women and men do exist."

It also makes it clear that some employers and some unions are evading, if not the letter of the law, at least its intent.

A number of factors combine to make such evasion possible and "unquestionably the greatest obstacle" is proving that works is 'identical or substantially identical" or in some cases "the same work in the same establishment."

The Commission says it is obvious that jobs rarely ever are the "same", "identical" or "substantially identical," then adds that "no doubt it was never intended that proof in the narrowest sense would be required."

Nonetheless, the burden placed on the employee of proving that, under the law, she is entitled to equal pay is almost overwhelming.

Therefore it is also obvious that to ensure universal observance of equal pay for equal work in Canada, legislation is needed that will be realistic enough not to demand unreasonable proof.

British Columbia's Human Rights Act (Section 4 (1) uses the words ". . . for the same work or substantially the same work done in the same establishment."

Concerned women's organizations in the province have urged the government to change that word "substantially" to "comparable," believing it to be more positive and less likely to be watered down or circumvented.

It should be remembered however that in searching out inequalities concerning women, we not only look at the statutes but also at the range of human attitudes and their effect on equitable employment practices.

Speaking at a Women's Canadian Club meeting in Toronto awhile back, J. J. Carson, then chairman of the Public Service Commission said there are still people today who feel that a woman's natural and biological function is to stay at home to become housewife and child-rearer.

There are people today who admire a woman for her looks but reject her as a capable administrator or intellectual.

There are individuals today who resent what they may prefer to call the intrusion of women into previous masculine roles. Therefore, he suggests that society programs women to act out preconceived, stereotyped roles.

On the status of women within the public service, Mr. Carson said yes, there are forces that prevent women from enjoying complete equality of opportunity.

These forces are not a result of legislative shortcomings, but stem instead from "our elusive friend," human attitudes and prejudices. These have a habit of changing very slowly and while it is the accepted norm in contemporary Canadian thought that women are regarded as equal partners, there are still sectors that have failed to keep up with the attitudes of the majority.

Carson also believed that the work of concerned women's organizations in the past decade coupled with the more recent advent of vocal women's rights groups, has created a slow but sure move amongst working women to be informed and to engage in activities that only a short time ago were considered in the male realm. This he said will eventually contribute to a change in attitudes.

At the same time he warned that if the public service and the private sector (both their men and their women) are to be rid of the vestigial "hang-ups" that stand in the way of those who seek genuine equality, it will not be through lone individuals or isolated groups.

The support of every informed, intelligent female citizen and taxpayer will be needed.

DEAR ABBY...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some neighbors of ours have a swimming pool behind their house. They also have a pair of 11-year-old twin boys and two daughters, 9 and 13. These neighbors allow their boys to swim in the raw at the same time their daughters use the pool, but the girls wear swim suits. That's their business, but it presents a problem to us because the twin boys have invited our son to swim in their pool.

Or son says swimming in the raw doesn't bother him, girls or no girls (Can this be?) He also says that the neighbor boys were raised to believe that it is proper for girls to see what boys look like, but it is not proper for boys to see what girls look like. How do you feel about this, Abby? And should we let our boy swim at the neighbors?—Colorado Readers

DEAR READERS: Since your son already knows what boys look like, why not? And I don't know why it is any more "proper" for girls to know what boys look like than for boys to know what girls look like.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a good person. That's the trouble. She's TOO good. She offers to baby-sit, and while we are gone she cleans my house, does the laundry and rearranges cupboards and closets.

My husband and I have asked her to please just leave things as they are, but she doesn't listen. It is not only impossible for us to find things after she has rearranged everything, but she gripes to our children about how disorganized the place is.

One time she washed red with white and we all had pink underwear and socks. Last night she WASHED my best wool knit slacks and today my 8-year-old daughter can wear them.

She has a key to our house. (Big mistake.) Whenever we are gone and she has nothing to do, she comes over and gets busy.

I don't want to hurt her feelings, but I have had it. Any suggestions?—No Help Needed

DEAR NO HELP: First, manage to get the key back. Then have your husband tell her that you can't allow her to help you by baby-sitting unless she promises to stop helping you to keep house. Tell him to be firm, but gentle — But let her know he means business.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

A Cooler Summer for Students

Some students will do anything to get a job — even if it means going behind bars.

Although keys and bars are a part of the Regional Correctional Centre for Vancouver Island on Wilkinson Road, Victoria, George Fuller, 25, is not locked up.

He is one of 22 University of British Columbia law students hired for the summer by the provincial correctional institutes in B.C. Jim Piers, 24 works with Fuller as the first student staff members at the centre. They work with 54 permanent staff members, counselling and supervising 150 inmates.

"You don't know what to expect when you walk into a prison," Fuller said, explaining he had many preconceived ideas of prison life.

"All these ideas from the movies — James Cagney being rubber-hosed by the guards and especially the newspaper stories — they're not true. The public only hears about the things that are blown up out of proportion."

"Prison image is poor," he said. It isn't a pleasant place to be and it's not supposed to be."

Fuller says he is among the inmates constantly and has a good rapport with them.

"The first thing people have to realize about people in correctional institutions is that they're human beings just like everybody else and they have the same problems."

Fuller outside jail

Often these problems are magnified in an institution, he said, but with a little counselling, they can be worked out. The staff uses what they term "reality therapy", which focuses on the future, Fuller said.

"You can give them ideas in here, but outside it's up to them."

Fuller, finds the inmates approachable and interesting.

"You have to give them new goals and a different way of looking at life," he said.

The inmates vary in age and are sent to the Vancouver Island centre for committing a criminal offence "of a lesser level."

Provincial institutions receive prisoners serving no more than two years less one day.

Some inmates are difficult to work with, said Fuller.

"But it's a reassuring experience to know that some are willing to be helped. I'm not a qualified counsellor, but they accept me and talking it out helps.

Con Artists

Fuller went through a two-week training program before going to the centre He finds the staff helpful, giving him "the same type of responsibility they give the inmates."

He said he didn't broadcast the fact he was a student at first and approached his job with some apprehension. He later found his age didn't matter.

"Some people are con artists They've been here a long time and you have to watch it," he said.

"Working here gives you a terrific insight. You have empathy for what they're going through

"I suppose after working here, criminal law would be the logical follow up, but I'm open-minded now. I'll start looking for a place to article next year."

Fuller is going into his final year at law school and will travel after graduation

"This has been the best summer job I've had," he said "I've got the feeling I've helped somebody."

Former Fatties Discover Joys of a Thin Majority

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — The world is made for thin people.

When weight losers of 100 pounds or more talk about what they've gained as they've lost, they talk about things most people take for granted.

They can wear panty hose and belts, choose clothes because they like them, not just because they'll go around them.

They can sit in theatre seats, fit comfortably behind the wheel of a car, climb into a boat as anyone else.

Anne Lorefice and Rose Dodge have lost 128 and 109 pounds respectively and both say it's a new world, free of constant embarassments and worries. They've lost their pounds working with Weight Watchers, a commercial dieters group.

Clothes have become a pleasure for them both.

Mrs. Joseph Lorefice says: "When you're heavy, your dresses are so plain, just two pieces of material with two darts in it and a hem.

"I had a fur coat and never wanted to wear it. If we went to a theatre, I could hardly get into the seat, and with the fur coat, it was impossible."

WANTS TO SWIM

She has given away the fur coat and thrown away a lot of shoes. She had her old dresses taken in over and over until she could begin to buy more interesting clothes.

She says she has a bathing suit now and is thinking of learning to swim.

Both women say their biggest problem now is that they still like to cook for the family and still like food, but their cooking habits have improved.

Mrs. Lorefice says: "When I used to put the chicken in the oven, I used to get the gallon of oil and go over it like it was going to go swimming. Now I put it on the rack."

Mrs. Charles Dodge says she has bought three pantsuits and now wears panty hose.

"I used to have to wear stockings and roll them at the knee because I couldn't get them big enough to pull up.

"The director at my office says I'm not the same girl. He said I do my work much quicker.

Mrs. Dodge took part in a recent walk for charity, a thing she would never have considered before. She walked the whole 20 miles, and at the half-way mark, her husband took her lunch to her. It was a salad.

Safer, Better Contraceptives

● Worry about the long-term safety of the pill has spurred scientists in their search for a risk-free contraceptive. On the horizon—minipills, morning-after pills, and operations to reverse sterilization. This report, the second of two articles details these new developments.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) Population pressure is igniting an explosion of reasearch-fuelled by imagination and dollars — to develop new and completely safe and effective methods of birth control.

It promises new pills beyond the present pill, and improved devices, and it is prompting a volunteer army of men to undergo sterilization, with future promise of sterilization techniques, for men and women, that could be reversed.

Totally unexpected discoveries may turn up.

"The research people are quite imaginative these days," says Dr. Philip A. Cofrman, director of the Centre for Population Research of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development here.

The centre spent $28.1 million this fiscal year to support population research. . .

SPUR FOR RESEARCH

Some spur to expanded research stems from worry about long-term safety of the pill, with authorities disagreeing whether the increased risk associated, for example, with blood clotting warrants giving it up.

Last year, funds were doubled for research in evaluating the effect of oral contraceptives, to $3.5 million, in a program directed by Dr. John Schrogie, a clinical pharmacologist.

This year, the program will spend about $4.3 million mostly for research on the pill.

The three main avenues of research into new methods of birth control involve drugs, sterilization and devices.

On new drugs: One is the minipill, containing only a small amount of the female hormone, progesterone, and free of the estrogen which is blamed for causing the clotting tendency in the current pill.

The experiements include putting a year's supply of progesterone in a Silastic capsule, which is implanted under the skin, there to release a tiny amount of hormone daily.

Another is the morning-after pill, a large dose of estrogen, or progestin which apparently acts to prevent a fertilized egg from becoming implanted in the wall of the uterus or womb.

It's been called effective even if taken a few days after insemination has occurred Undesired side effects are a hurdle to its general use.

Other researchers report high promise from injections of hormones once every three or six months

Sterilization Last year, 750,000 men voluntarily underwent sterilization by vasectomy, the severing of tubes through which sperm travel, and about 75 per cent of people volunteering for surgical sterilization now are men, says the Association for Voluntary Sterilization.

A simplified operation for women, with instruments inserted through two tiny incisions in the abdomen, severs the fallopian tubes — pathways of eggs coming from the overies — and involves only a few hours time in a hospital.

Intrauterine devices: IUDs have found some increasing popularity, and improvements in design, with one major development, the discovery by Dr. Jaime Zipper of the University of Chile that the element copper exerts an anti-fertility efect.

Not a Very Popular Choice

MALDON, England (UPI) — No one was annoyed at 15-month-old Nicholas Cooper for winning "the bonniest baby in town" prize. A number of women were upset with his mother.

Jennifer Cooper is unmarried and several mothers of runners-up asked her to hand back the cup and baby clothes Nicholas won for beating 112 other contestants.

One mother, Mrs. Joan Rhodes, said, "she should give the cup back. Allowing her to keep it condones that sort of thing."

Miss Cooper, 22, will have none of it. "I'm not handing it back and that's it," she said. "I'm proud of my baby and plan to enter him again next year."

The organizers let the decision stand. "We were running a baby show, not judging people's morals," one said.

Victoria Woman Wins CNE Prize

Mrs. Doris E. Watton, 2242 Sooke Road, has won second prize in the hobby crafts section of the women's division annual handicraft competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Amateur painters, sculptors, wood carvers, knitters, metal workers and for the first time this year, dressmakers competed for prizes totalling close to $6,000.

FIDDLING FARMER is James Quinlin, the organizer of the Rock Acres Peace Festival which took place over the weekend on his farm in Madoc, Ont. Quinlin plays his fiddle for well-wishers who gathered to congratulate him and his wife on their 40th wedding anniversary Saturday. (CP wirephoto).

Motorcycle 'Toughs' End Rock Festival Early

MADOC, Ont. (CP) — The Rock Acres Peace Festival was shut down by its organizers Sunday afternoon, about seven hours earlier than scheduled, as the crowd of about 7,000 began leaving the site after incidents involving two motorcycle clubs.

James Quinlan, Jr., who, with other members of his family organized the three-day rock-music event, said the crowd overall was "exceptional," and it was the "motorcycle toughs" who caused the festival to break up early.

Provincial police sent a riot squad of more than 100 specially-trained men to the 200-acre farm, about 40 miles north of Belleville, Sunday morning after reports of trouble.

Police were called in after several incidents were reported, including arrival of the two motorcycle clubs, assaults, and fighting.

Police estimate the crowd peaked at 7,000 on the Quinlin family farm in this area 40 miles north of Belleville. Early Sunday, roads leading away from the 200-acre farm were plugged with cars, trucks and hikers.

Lack of big-name bands was the chief complaint of the disenchanted and many complained the site was too dusty and dirty.

However, promoter Leo Quinlin said the event was "a definite, 100-per-cent success, financially and socially."

Fischer Beats 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Chess genius Bobby Fischer drubbed 11 grandmasters and masters in a rapid-fire tournament as he helped dedicate the Manhattan Chess Club's new quarters.

Fischer, 28, who started playing at the club when he was 10, won 21 matches and drew one in four hours of play Sunday. Under rapid-fire rules, each player has a total of five minutes to make all his moves.

"It's just going through the motions," said Louis Levy, one of Fischer's earliest victims. "His mind is the closest thing to a machine you'll ever see."

Fischer has won 19 straight games in top international competition and faces Tigran Petrosian of the Soviet Union in the semi-finals of the world chess tournament challenging round next month.

NOW OPEN AT OUR NEW LOCATION,

Tonight's Top Television Shows

DIANNE HEATHERINGTON. 7:30 p.m., Channel 2. Tonight's variety includes a rock trio from Winnipeg that calls itself North, the regular rock group Merry-Go-Round and backup Dave Shaw orchestra. Dianne sings Today and Leftover Wine. She teams up with Merry-Go-Round to offer Half Moon and New Day.

BEWITCHED. 7:30 p.m., Channel 6. The Return of Darrin the Bold. Serena, Samantha's troublesome sister, slips back to the 14th century with a treacherous mission . . . she plans to cast the spell that will make 20th century Darrin a warlock.

GUNSMOKE. 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. (Rerun). "The Wrong Man." Carroll O'Connor, who reached stardom last season as Archie Bunker in "All in the Family," plays a farmer down on his luck. He borrows money from Marshal Dillon and Festus, then loses it to a professional gambler. When the gambler is robbed and murdered, O'Connor becomes the prime suspect.

FROM A BIRD'S EYE VIEW. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun). "Russian Roulette — Millie Style." A Russian athlete fills his cups with too much vodka and follows Millie home. Uncle Bert decides it would be a gratuitous offering to the Free World if he kept pumping the athlete with vodka and prevented him from competing in the shotput. It almost creates an international incident, especially when Mrs. Cake, the nosey neighbor, keeps poking around.

NBC COMEDY THEATRE. 8 p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun). "The Seven Little Foys" What makes this unique is that Eddie Foy, Jr., plays his father in this TV version (Bob Hope played Foy Sr in a 1955 movie). In real life, Eddie Jr. was part of his father's act as the kid who stumbled through the routines. The story is about the entertainer and his seven kids who became part of the act. Mickey Rooney plays George M. Cohan and the Osmond brothers play five of the brothers. Writer-director Mel Shavelson wrote this version.

THE LUCY SHOW. 8:30 p.m., Channel 7. (Re-run). Love flirts with Lucy, and why not, especially if the guy is tall, and handsome Clint Walker? Clint shows up as superintendent on a construction job, spots Lucy and his heart begins to pound.

NBC WORLD PREMIERE MOVIE 9 p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun). "The Neon Ceiling." Lee Grant is superb in a performance which won her an Emmy for last season's "Outstanding Single Performance by an Actress." Miss Grant, who was nominated twice for roles portrayed during the last season, plays an unhappily married woman in Neon Ceiling who runs off with her difficult 13-year-old daughter (an outstanding performance, too, by young Denise Nickerson) and comes across Gig Young as a roadside cafe and gas station operator when their car breaks down. The emotional conflicts between mother and daughter, and with Young forms an interesting drama.

MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 4. "Sergeant Deadhead" A cast of seasoned pros including Cesar Romero, Fred Clark, Gale Gordon, Reginald Gardiner and Eve Arden turn this below-average film into an entertaining comedy. Frankie Avalon, hero of many Bikini Beach films, turns from a bungling GI into a hero astronaut, all by accident. Deborah Walley plays his leading lady.

THE NEWCOMERS. 10 p.m., Channel 7. Dave Garroway's opening monologue is enough to embarrass that fanatical breed of mankind known as the Weekend Duffers. Dave shows how they pursue the outdoor life, toning their muscles to keep physically fit, by wheeling around the course on a caddie cart. Raul Perez sings "More," the Good Humor Company offers a set of pantomimes including a man ordering in a restaurant, and a panhandler with a changemaker. Joey Garza does a comic and timely routine on camping.

YOUR HEALTH Dr. Walter Alvarez

Recently in the journal of the AMA, there was a report that Dan H. Moore, and associates, found evidence that human breast cancer may be due to a virus. A number of research workers have suspected this for a long time but have not been able to prove it. Now the scientists state that there are similarities between the cancer of the breast in mice and that in women, and these coincidences are too extensive to be accidental. They found that serums from the breast cancer patients have a neutralizing effect on the virus that produces cancer in mice, while other serums do not have such a neutralizing effect. Also, some human milk was found to contain particles physically identical to the virus of mouse breast tumors.

Hence, it is thought that a virus causing human breast cancer may be similar, if not identical, with the mouse virus.

Similar studies have been made with leukemia, a cancer-like disease of the blood-forming organs. A virus for leukemia has been found in animals, and what looks like a virus can be seen with the extremely powerful electronic microscope, in the blood of children with leukemia, but as yet the doctors have been unable to prove that these viruses are definitely alike.

Dr. Moore and associates reported on work performed at the Institute for Medical Research in Camden, N.J., in co-operation with the Michigan Cancer Foundation in Detroit and the Tata Memorial Centre in Bombay, India.

More encouraging news about the fight against cancer comes from Michigan State University where a team of researchers say they have developed the first vaccine to work against a type of cancer in animals. Drs. Burmester, Purchase and Witter, and a microbiologist, Dr. Okazaki, succeeded in making a vaccine which protects chickens from Marek's disease, a cancer-like disease of the lymph system of chickens, which is a major killer, costing our U.S. farmers about $200 million a year.

The virus of Marek's disease has not been known to infect humans, and as yet no virus has been identified that causes human cancer, but the search goes on, and it is to be hoped that one of these leads will prove to be a good one.

I was interested to receive a release from the University of Wisconsin in which Dr. James A. Miller said what for long I have felt to be true—that cancer in rats and in man can behave differently. He said that the present technique of assaying laboratory animals is somewhat inadequate, partly because of the small sample groups. As he said, "Getting no tumors in 200 rat samples doesn't insure that there will be no tumors in the 200 million human beings that might use a given chemical, even though large doses of the test substances are given to the rats to compensate for this inadequacy."

It is also important to remember that a certain drug which seems harmless when given to men and women in small doses, for only a relatively short period of their lives, can produce cancers in some rats when given in huge doses for their entire lifetime.

Dr. Miller goes on to say, "Moreover, animals differ in their ability to handle certain carcinogens (cancer-producing substances). The rat may have an enzyme (a ferment) that will render a potentially potent human carcinogen harmless, and vice versa, so these tests do not always reflect the true situation.

The doctor added that at this time, the use of laboratory animals for testing is still the only practical method, and progress is being made. As he said, "We hope that it won't be long before we will better understand how chemicals cause cancer. Then, we might be able to greatly improve the means to detect and control them."

THIEF'S DIVE ENDS TOO SOON

HTERES, France)UPI) — Jacques Chaussin, 27, took a dive when a police patrol surprised him trying to steal a car parked on the deck of this Mediterranean port near Toulon, police said.

Police watched the still harbor waters for two hours, suspecting their man had got away, or drowned.

But no, he had just pulled a straw out of his bag of tricks and had remained in the murky water breathing through the thin tube, until surfacing, thinking the inquisitive police had moved on. He was wrong.

Holmes, Ripper To Haunt Yard

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard reopened one of its oldest police stations today, bringing back a touch of Sherlock Holmes and Jack the Ripper.

Thirty-one years after it closed, Vince Street Station, Piccadilly, came back to life with its original 1869 facade, including gas lamps.

But the antique air did not extend to the interior with its modern and efficient layout. The gas lamps are deceptive, too, because they are powered by electricity.

"We had to reopen the station because of the overcrowding at the West End Central Headquarters," said a spokesman for the yard.

Vine Street Station will serve the posh Mayfair district in the West End bounded by Park Palen on the west, Mount Street on the north, Charing Cross Road on the east and Pall Mall to the south.

STARTED IN 1829

The precinct house came into existence in 1829 when the Parish Watch, the primitive police force of those days, was abolished and the more formidable Metropolitan Police Force took over.

The station grew and took over neighboring buildings as central London's criminal trade grew brisker. In 1868 the huddle of buildings was demolished and a new station built. By 1931, the shoe was pinching again and the neighboring Man in the Moon tavern was added to the premises.

During the 1930s, it became fashionable at Oxford and Cambridge universities to be arrested during the drunken revels around the statue of Eros in Piccadilly Circus. This meant a night in the white porcelain brick cells of the Vine Street Station and entitled one to membersip in the Vine Street Club.

Non-drinkers qualified by stealing a bobby's helmet or purloining glasses from a pub.

Vine Street Station went out of existence in 1940 and the building was subsequently used as a registration office for aliens, a police training centre, a firearms office and occasionally as a homocide investigation centre.

5,000 Pray For Peace In Nagasaki

NAGASAKI (AP) — Five thousand persons prayed for peace today at ceremonies marking the 26th anniversary of the atomic bombing of this Japanese city.

The observance was held in Peace Memorial Park, the spot where the United States dropped its second atom bomb on Aug. 9, 1945. The first hit Hiroshima three days earlier.

The list of those who died in the Nagasaki attack rose to 43,737 today with the addition of 2,035 newly-identified dead.

The ceremonies were solemnly quiet, contrasting with those held at Hiroshima last week. Student radicals there said the Japanese government is militaristic and attempted to prevent Premier Eisaku Sato from participating.

Two Japanese leftist organizations said France's nuclear test Sunday in the Muroroa Lagoon in the South Pacific constitutes "the grossest insult" to the people of Nagasaki.

They are the Socialist Gensuikin, the Association Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs, and the Communist Gensuikyo, the Association for the prohibition of Nuclear Weapons. The Japanese government also demanded an immediate halt to the French tests.

Man, House 'Ruined'

WINNIPEG (CP) — John Nicholson, a city landlord who says a family on welfare wrecked a house he owns, says he faces financial ruin because the city welfare department refuses to compensate him for property damage.

Nicholson told a city health and welfare committee meeting damage to the house totals more than $5,000 and ill health prevents him from renovating or demolishing the building.

He said the house, rented by a couple and their four children, was systematically stripped of fixtures and plumbing and left with "filth and corruption" throughout.

Four Chile Ministers Quit Cabinet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The resignation of four Cabinet ministers from Chile's left-wing government confronted Marxist President Salvador Allende on Saturday with his first Cabinet crisis since he took office last November.

The resignations climaxed two weeks of internal dissension over pro-Marxist policies in two of the six parties that make up Allende's Popular-Unity coalition government.

Those resigning were Mining Minister Orlando Cantuarias, Education Minister Mario Astorga, Defence Minister Alejandro Rios Valdivia, all of the Radical party; and Agriculture Minister Jacques Chonchol of the United Popular Action Movement, or MAPU.

They handed in their resignations late Friday night.

The resignation of the three Radical ministers followed the party's stormy convention last weekend.

The major non-Marxist party in the Popular-United coalition, proved a pro-Marxist stance which rejected "bourgeois democracy" and supported a "class struggle" in Chile.

Allende noted at a news conference Thursday for foreign newsmen: "It is a little difficult to understand Chilean politics."

PORT ELGIN, N.B. (CP) — Stanley James Brander, 21, of Toronto, and Patrick Joseph Murphy, 22, of Nanaimo were killed early Sunday when their car left the road and overturned at nearby Kimber River.

Both were former Port Elgin residents home on vacation.

Police said the car was driven by Peter Karpuchin, 2406 Cedar Hill Road.

Dollar Overvalued —Congress Group

By JAMES L. ROWE, Jr.

WASHINGTON (WP) — An influential congressional subcommittee says the U.S. dollar is overvalued in relation to many of the world's currencies. Unless steps are taken to adjust international exchange rates, the subcommittee said, a money crisis could ensue.

In its report issued at the weekend, a majority of the subcommittee on international exchange and payments of the joint economic committee said that if the exchange rate adjustments are not made under the auspices of the International Monetary Fund, the United States might unilaterally have to sever the tie between the dollar and gold.

PEGGED

Today the dollar is at the centre of the international monetary system. The United States has pledged to keep the dollar pegged to gold — at $35 to the ounce — and other countries peg their currencies to the dollar.

The so-called parity pegs are watched over by the IMF. For example, until West Germany temporarily removed its tie to the dollar in the wake of the last spring's currency crisis, the deutschemark was pegged at 3.66 marks to the dollar.

The report recommended that the IMF "should explicitly assume the responsibility for recommending to member countries exchange rates needed to correct any fundamental disequilibrium, particularly between the United States, as the country at the centre of the system, and the remainder of the industrial world."

The report said that because it is unlikely that nations would revalue currencies on their own, the IMF should tell each country what its parity peg should be.

Since the IMF has no explicit authority to force a country to change its parity, the report said the fund could back up its recommendations "if they go unheeded."

DEFICITS

For countries consistently running payments deficits, the IMF could refuse to make loans. The IMF's scarce "currency" clause could be invoked for countries running surpluses, the report said, which would "permit other fund countries to discriminate against exports" of the country that refused to revalue.

The dollar overvaluation, the report said, "leads to the perpetuation of U.S. deficits and thus increases the risk of an international monetary crisis that would break the system apart."

If the fund does not offer recommendations to industrial al countries on realigning exchange rates, the report said, "the United States may have no choice but to take unilateral action to go off gold and establish new dollar parities."

However, subcommittee chairman Rep. Henry Reuss (D — Wis.), called unilateral action by the United States "a very poor second best — only if we must."

Three of the four Republican members of the subcommittee "disassociated" themselves with the report. The three — Rep. William B. Widnall (R — N.J.), Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. (R — N.Y.) and Sen. Charles H. Percy (R — Ill.) — said the June hearings on which the report was based were "limited" and the recommendations not fully discussed among subcommittee members.

Students Visit City

Two groups, each with high school students from all parts of Ontario, will visit Victoria Aug. 15 and 18 as part of a program designed to let them know Canada better.

During the trip, organized by the Society for the Study of the HeritaE OF Canada, the students are visiting major areas of interest between here and Toronto.

Part of the cost for each student is beisg subsidized by a federal grant.

The SSHC is a non-profit organization, formed by a group of high school teachers, and designed to increase students' awareness of the cultural backgroun.

Resist Temptation to Cut Perennials

By HILDA BEASTALL

As summer perennials go out of flower, gardeners have the urge to "cut them down." Earlier in the summer I wrote about the work peony leaves do after the flowers are over, comparing it to the importance of tulip and narcissus leaves, when the spring bulb flowers fade.

So long as leaves are green, they are working at converting food for the roots. Since the summer perennial roots are expected to live over winter and grow up again next spring, they need all the food possible to put into storage.

Hilda

Perennials with fleshy roots, like peonies liatris, henchera, lily-of-the-valley, kniphofia (redhot-poker), actually do store food in their roots.

Some other perennials like delphiniums, dianthus, erigeron, sidalcea have fibrous root systems which extend their growth during the post blooming period.

During this time the insipient growing points are formed, lie dormant or nearly so in winter, ready to elongate upwards in spring.

The result is that in place of one stem next year we may have three, five, or more.

This healthy extension of a root's potential is only possible when the old flower stalk is cut off to prevent the plant attempting to form and ripen seed, and, just as important, all green leaves are allowed to remain on the plant.

To maintain the leaves of perennials as long as possible, the plants need an adequate supply of moisture at their roots.

Watering will not be so frequent. Perhaps only one more soaking about mid-August if the soil is damp now below the surface.

Test by digging between plants with a shovel and bring up some soil from six to eight inches down — this is the only way for the gardener to find out if additional water is necessary.

Later in the season, about mid-September to mid-October, is time enough to think about cutting leaves from perennials, and then only if they are brown and useless to the plants.

Some perennials maintain basal leaves green all winter. Notice the heucheras (Coral-bells), many of the dianthuses, and a great number of true alpines which are grown in rock gardens.

These must be left on as protection for the crowns of the plants.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal, a defender committed an error that a more experienced player would not have made. The consequence of his defensive lapse was that our South declarer fulfilled a game contract that should have been defeated. What was the defensive mistake?

◇ 9 6 4
♣ 8 7 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♡
Pass	4 ♡	Pass	Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

After cashing the king and ace of clubs, West shifted to the eight of spades, hoping that partner had the spade queen. South won this trick with his ten-spot, after which he played the ace and another trump. West, upon winning the latter lead with his king, returned his remaining spade, South taking the trick with his queen.

Declarer then led a trump to dummy's queen, picking up West's last trump en route. On the ace and king of spades South discarded the four and six of diamonds. The rest of the tricks belonged to declarer. What was the defensive faux pas that permitted South to fulfill his contract?

After West had cashed the king and ace of clubs at tricks one and two, he should have recognized that the defenders' best hope of defeating South's contract rested in getting a diamond trick. At trick three West should have led a low diamond, indulging in the wishful thinking that East possessed the queen. Had he led a diamond, the defenders would have made a trick in this suit, and declarer would have gone down.

There is no question but that one does not like to lead away from a king, especially when the ace of that suit is staring the leader in the face. But, in this deal, the lead of a low diamond at trick three stood to gain everything and to lose nothing.

As West should have viewed the set-up, if East had the diamond queen, then a trick would be developed for the defenders. And coming to the crux of the matter — if South possessed the queen of diamonds, then the diamond lead would cost nothing. Let us see why.

If South had, let us say, the Q-x of diamonds, South would always avoid the loss of a diamond trick by simply leading a low diamond and finessing the board's jack successfully. In short, if South possessed the diamond queen, West's king would be hopelessly trapped, whether he led away from it or didn't.

BLOODY EAR CONTEST

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — Fred Titus, an Indian, went 860 feet with 17 pounds hanging from his ear.

He thus set a new world record in the "bloody ear weight contest" at the Eskimo Olympics last weekend.

The unique games, which drew 7,000 spectators, were devised hundreds of years ago to test man's endurance in the harsh Arctic environment.

"I've been looking at old income tax papers," said Sam. "Things have changed."

Mike smiled. "I guess so, but you still had to pay tax."

"Sure, just $165 the year you were born," replied Sam. "And it was a coincidence. My net average weekly pay, allowing for that tax, was exactly the square root of my gross salary that year."

Those were the days! What was his gross salary?

Moose Chase In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — "I'm not crazy," the man told police on the telephone. "There really is a moose on my lawn."

There was and the moose led police from Ottawa and suburban Vanier City on a chase that covered about 12 miles through the back yards, streets and lawns.

The animal finally leaped into the Rideau Canal and was unable to climb the high cement banks. When it began to founder because of exhaustion city police shot it.

Student Leaders Berate Uvic College System

By BRIAN BUTTERS

Ever since the college system was instituted at the University of Victoria in 1969, it has been the subject of strong criticism, especially from student leaders.

Alma Mater Society president Ian McKinnon still doesn't support the idea, but Craigdarroch College master Grant McOrmond insists there is a place for colleges on the campus.

What is meant by a college system? McOrmond calls it "an attempt to meet the problems of a growing institution and the impersonality students feel about an institution as it becomes larger than 5,000 or so."

Actually, the colleges, Craigdarroch and Lansdowne, are facilities for students for social activities, recreation and study. Uvic built the colleges in 1969 and added a commons block — dining room, seminar lounges, game rooms and cafeterias — in 1970.

Not Separate

The colleges consist of men's and women's residences, offices, some library facilities and classrooms. They are not separate teaching institutions from the university as a whole, but were intended to supplement the university experience for as many students as possible, according to McOrmond.

Membership is open to any student at the university.

McKinnon says the number of students involved is not enough to justify the expense incurred by the colleges.

"I don't think the college system as it is justified the amount of money being spent," he said. "Maybe they're trying to build something but I think they are paying more money for people to run it, to the administrators of the program, than they are spending on the students, and I don't think that's necessary."

★ ★ ★

Master Maintains It Is Essential

★ ★ ★

Craigdarroch has about 1,200 active members and Lansdowne slightly fewer. Of those, about 30 per cent are residence students, the rest are non-residents, or day students.

McKinnon feels the money spent on the colleges should be going to the residence students for their own use.

"I can see supporting the residences but I can't see supporting something they call the colleges until we get to a size where we've got five colleges and everybody can belong and they organize them," he said.

"I would like to see them justified. I'd like to see them justify their expenditure. It is something the AMS has never endorsed; in fact, we've denounced it any number of times."

Admits Friction

McOrmond an English professor, admits there has been friction between the colleges and the AMS since introduction of the system, but thinks things are getting better.

"It's difficult to introduce something where things are already established. Occasionally the people in the AMS get their backs up over something.

"I guess they feel the colleges are encroaching upon their prerogatives, that their way of doing things is being challenged. If they do, there is no intention of undermining them on our part. There's still a lot of suspicion and uncertaintly but I think they're gaining a better understanding of what the colleges are trying to do," McOrmond said.

English Idea

He said the college scheme as it was originally formulated had a number of weaknesses.

"I think it was based on the English idea of a college system tied in with teaching or tutoring. As it was created here there was no provision made for teaching in the colleges."

The English colleges, he said, were strictly residential and had no problems in motivating non-residents.

"We have a captive audience here in the residence students. It's easy to get them involved because they make their wants and needs known much more clearly than the non residents do."

The colleges hold dances quite regularly during the school year, he said, and use the money to finance purchasing athletic equipment and other activities, he said. All the facilities they use for sports are off-campus because "we have a great deal of difficulty booking the university gymnasium."

Just One

Student leader McKinnon says athletics is just one of several overlaps between the AMS and the colleges which should have been avoided.

"We've got most of their services provided elsewhere," he said.

"We've got a fantastic intramural system which the colleges subvert. If they run their own thing, then our intramural program, which we're trying to develop for kids in residence, is going right up the pipe."

McKinnon also suggested that the college system at Uvic may have been set up to offset the influence of the AMS.

Closer Knit

"We've got one solid body, the AMS," he said, "and so by setting up these other offshoots maybe they hope to divide the power of the students so that there are several groups and they can never get together."

"I don't think it was a purely alturistic thing, setting up the college system.

"I think that by getting allegiance to a smaller organization it may make a closer-knit college system, but for the university as a whole I think it's not an impressive idea. I've never really been impressed with it."

McKinnon said the money the colleges use comes from a "pie" which the president of the university, his deans and advisers have to divide.

"The money that goes to the colleges comes from the same pie, so the more they get, the less goes to other parts of the university," he said.

"If they want to put the money into keeping another professor, that's fine by me."

He referred to the master and fellows at the colleges as "glorified counsellors."

McOrmond describes the master's and fellows' jobs as basically co-ordinating the needs of the students and keeping an eye on their activities.

"The master and fellows are the responsible group; we take the rap for whatever goes on here," he said, but added that it is the students who do most of the actual work.

Co-Ordinating

"We make suggestions and are occasionally asked to step in and take a hand in things when the students have exams and assignments, but generally we throw out ideas and see if the students like them," he said.

McOrmond said all the colleges are given to operate for the year is about $1,000, with extra stipends going to the masters and fellows.

"Students, both residents and non-residents, get a tremendous amount out of that $1,000," he said. "I think it's one of the best bargains they have up here. It's keeping money on campus that would otherwise be dissipated downtown."

McOrmond said he feels the colleges are reaching the ideals set up for them, but that "we've had to modify the means."

"The original ideal had to be modified too, and will still have to be," he said. "Once a thing's rigid, it's in danger."

He said he is not aware of any specific plans for expanding the college system farther than the present two.

79 ARRESTED AFTER POT SMOKE-IN

Gastown Riot Probe Sought

HELPING FIGHT FIRE on west slope of Mount Douglas Sunday are young teen-age boys, who officials said contributed "tremendously" in extinguishing 10-acre blaze. All of Saanich's available crew worked on the fire for two hours. Indications are that it may have been started deliberately. See story Page 17. (John McKay photo.)

Police Action 'Excessive'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A marijuana smoke-in protesting recent police pressure on the illicit drug trade erupted into a bloody riot Saturday night as police arrested 79 and chased hundreds more for blocks through the old Gastown section.

Aldermen and eyewitnesses charged police Sunday with using excesive force in clearing the streets of several hundred demonstrators and more than 1,000 bystanders. They called for outside investigation of the incident by the attorney-general's department.

Obstruction, Assault Charged

Fifty-four persons were charged with offences ranging from obstruction of a police officer to assault and possession of a dangerous weapon. Bail ranged from $150 to $1,000, and eight persons were still in custody late Sunday on the dangerous weapon charges. Twenty-five of those arrested were released hours later without charge.

Thirty-eight of the adults charged were to appear in provincial court today. Three juveniles were to appear in juvenile court. Court appearances for 13 others were not set.

Ald. Ed Sweeney, who witnessed part of the riot after being telephoned at home, criticized the police for being too aggressive and said they were using special three-foot riot sticks "like you would use a stick to beat a dog."

More Restraint Necessary

He said both police and demonstrators appeared to provoke each other but said the police should have used more restraint and discrimination. Police Inspector Robert Abercrombie used a loud hailer and gave the crowd just two minutes to disperse, he said, then police "just charged into the group."

Photographers covering the disturbance were harassed by police.

Glenn Baglo, a photographer for The Sun, said a mounted policeman snatched a camera from him. Only the leather strap on the camera was broken, and no film was taken or destroyed.

Dave Looy, who was filming for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., said a sergeant told him to stop taking pictures and "get out of here." Mr. Looy said while filming earlier he had been hit several times by police from behind. Both photographiers were hard hats identifying their respective organizations.

Police Chief John Fisk was ordered to make a full report on the disturbance by Mayor Tom Campbell.

Chief Fisk said a number of allegations had been made suggesting abuse of police authority and improper police tactics in quelling the demonstration. Eyewitnesses were asked to give information to the four detectives and senior officer conducting the investigation.

Merchants Switch Sympathy

Meanwhile the Gastown Merchants Association, which had earlier given full support to the police in their efforts to clean the drug dealers out of the area, seemed to have swung 180 degrees in its attitude.

Larry Killam, president of Town Group Realty Ltd. and one of the largest property owners in Gastown, said Sunday at a meeting of the association that lawyers would be in his offices today to take affidavits from witnesses concerning the police action.

He and other merchants contributed $3,000 toward a bail fund for those arrested.

He said he saw police pull a girl in shorts by her hair and shoulders on her seat through broken glass toward a paddy wagon. Mr. Killam, who watched from his offices above Maple Tree Square where the riot began, said he saw a man taken to the door of a paddy wagon by four officers and beaten on the head with riot sticks.

Later Sunday, 18 eyewitnesses told an impromptu press conference in a Gastown coffee house about their experiences.

Stan Williams, who said he was a transient from St.

RUSSIANS LASH PEKING

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet news agency Tass accused Peking Sunday of pursuing a policy of "great-power chauvinism" towards its non-Chinese population and seeking to destroy its national traditions.

A Tass commentary, published in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya, says Peking treats scornfully the languages of non-Chinese peoples.

"Of the more than 50 non-chinese peoples and nationalities populating China, only 11 have their own representatives in government bodies of provinces and autonomous regions. But even these representatives occupy posts of little significance," it adds.

Driverless Car Eyed for Moon

HOUSTON (Reuter) — Engineers are studying the possibility of sending a moon-rover on a final driverless journey hundreds of miles across the moon's surface.

The scheme has not yet been formally proposed to NASA. But Boeing, RCA and Delco, who built the moon-buggy, see it as a way of squeezing the last ounce of benefit from the Apollo program before man ends this historic era of exploration.

Apollo Crew Resting Stories on Page 7

A preliminary study has indicated that an automotic rover is technically feasible.

Boeing officials said this weekend that a remote-controlled rover could be produced for Apollo 17, scheduled to fly to the moon in December next year. But it would need major modifications on the model which made its debut on the moon with Apollo 15.

The major changes would include fitting it with controls that could be radio-commanded from earth; an earth-seeking antenna that would enable its color television camera to remain on as it travelled, surveying its path and taking in the surrounding moonscape; long-duration batteries or a small nuclear-power generator; and possibly heaters to protect the electronics from the intense cold of the lunar night.

Jail Without Trial As Irish Blood Flows

BELFAST (CP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland ordered internment without trial for guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today and banned the annual religious parades which for the last two years have inflamed the communal passions of Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Meanwhile, Ulster's worst wave of violence for two years continued unabated with at least five more people, one of them a young boy shot dead today.

Three other people were killed over the weekend and 300 suspected terrorists were arrested under the new emergency powers.

Police said the boy was believed to have been shot while trying to throw a gasoline bomb during a clash between rioters and British troops.

Another victim was a British soldier, but there were no details on his death, or the deaths of three civilian men killed during street gunbattles during the morning.

BURN STORES, OFFICES

Shootings, arson and rioting also were reported in Londonderry and the border town of Newry. Army reinforcements were flown to Newry by helicopter after rioters set fire to stores and offices.

The bitter fighting was an apparent backlash to the internment measure announced earlier in the day by Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. He said he would sign orders for the detention without trial of all those who were thought to pose a serious and continuing threat to public order and safety.

The action was clearly aimed at militant factions of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, who have claimed responsibility for many of the slayings, raids and acts of sabotage that have brought a total of 42,000 British peacekeeping soldiers to Ulster.

Faulkner also slapped a six-month ban on sectarian pro-

IT'S HOT—UP, DOWN, SIDEWAYS

Who is a man to believe when it comes to Victoria's temperature on a given day?

Take today at 11:30 a.m.

The weather station at Gonzales Heights came up with a figure of 77 degrees; Pat Bay airport registered 79 degrees; but the winner, heat-wise, was the sign atop a downtown brewery which showed 81 degrees.

Gonzales can be affected by cooling from the Strait of Juan de Fuca and may lose a degree or two — one spokesman said as many as 20 some days — while the airport weather station is also subject to winds, being on the tip of the Saanich peninsula.

* * *

So the brewery building may be the most accurate of all.

The weather forecaster at the airport said the heat wave will hold for the next few days.

On Sunday the highs were 82 at Pat Bay and 77 at Gonzales. No one recorded how hot it got downtown.

Rahman Faces In-Camera Trial

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Sheik Mujibur Rahman, whose Awami League followers led the rebellion against the Pakistan government, will go on trial Aug. 11 before a special military court for "waging war against Pakistan and other offences," it was announced today.

The announcement was issued by the headquarters of President Agha Mohammad Yahia Khan, in his capacity as chief martial law administrator.

Rahman, popular leader of the Awami League in East Pakistan, was arrested on the night of March 25-26 when West Pakistan troops moved into East Pakistan to put down a secessionist movement by the Awami League.

Dollar Again Jolted; This Time by Swiss

FRANKFURT (AP) — The Sagging U.S. dollar got a new jolt from Europe today when the Swiss national bank acted to stop a speculative rush of dollars into Switzerland and dollar prices were driven to record lows in this West German city.

Dollar trading throughout Europe was light to moderate and marked by falling prices for a currency considered overvalued by many experts.

Dollar Crisis Background—Page 31

The latest pressure on the dollar probably was touched off by a congressional study issued in Washington Friday night urging a realignment of the U.S. dollar rate among industrial nations and arguing that the dollar is overvalued.

The Swiss bank acted to stop a new speculative flow of dollars by putting the Swiss frank equivalent of all dollars sold into a special frozen account for the time being.

The move came after the Swiss franc buying-selling price of the dollar plunged to 4.0565-4.0595, slightly below the voluntary intervention point of 4.0600 at which the national bank has been buying dollars for the last few days.

MAKES MARKET NERVOUS

"The dollar was already very weak," said one Frankfurt dealer. "Then we had this congressional report and the Swiss bank action so we have a hectic, nervous market."

The dollar opened at a record low 3.43 marks in Frankfurt.

$180 ROUND TRIP FARE U.K. TO CANADA SOUGHT

LONDON (AP) — The state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation is campaigning for a $180 round-trip fare between Britain and the United States and Canada.

Commenting on aviation industry reports the BOAC would establish the tariff in defiance of international fare-fixing agreements, an airline spokesman said Sunday night it was "going too far to say we are offering" the new low fare. "But that's what we want and have proposed."

The proposed BOAC fare would apply on transatlantic flights originating at either end.

It is $21.60 lower than the rate suggested by three major North American airlines — Pan American, TWA and Air Canada. It is $91.20 lower than the cheapest existing fare available, the off-season excursion.

BOAC's campaign, if successful is almost certain to cause a crisis inside the International Air Transport Association, which has been fighting to save its fare-fixing mechanism, the aviation industry sources said.

IATA is currently holding a fares conference in Montreal.

Geography to Politics Chile's a Handful

By LEWIS H. DIUGUID

SANTIAGO (WP) — Chile has one of the world's more perverse geographies and South America's most radical politics. For many Chileans, the politics follow the geography as surely as tremors accompany an earthquake.

A conservative and well-schooled attorney stood among the law books scattered about his study by the June 8 quake. He cited the extremes from arid north to Water-soaked south, much of the land beautful but of little practical use and said:

"When we try Chileanization and nationalization and socialism, it is not because we are just restless. We are driven to seek something that works."

DIFFICULTIES

Costs of maintaining transport ond communication, let alone political dialogue betwen Santiago and the 25 strung-out provinces, have caused severe economic difficulties for all governments in this country that is 2,600 miles long but only 100 miles wide.

Each government has experimented with new gadgetry, if not with new theory, and the results have often been still higher costs.

Not far out of Santiago is a graveyard for old engines. It is a museum of all the locomotives built in Europe and the United States and imported to Chile, starting with four-wheel puff-bellies of narrow gauge.

They rust there in neat rows, abandoned reminders of the promises of successive presidents to revolutionize service with the latest equipment. Now deisel and electric trains lurch along the rough roadbed and the central planners increasingly ask if rail transit of any sort is needed.

The railroad and the only highway running beside it down through the populated central valley are still at the mercy of an often merciless weather pattern.

In 1939, when an earthquake struck the southern port of Concepcion it was isolated for a week, and the population finally was evacuated by the British ships Ajax and Exeter which were paying a courtesy call.

CUT IN TWO

In June, 1971, it took no more than an uncommon winter snowstorm to cut the country in two. A driver unaccustomed to slippery roads abandoned his auto on the trunk highway, and it took two days to dig out the pileup behind him.

The city of Rancagua, 50 miles south of the capital, is still cut off from normal communications as a result of the wind and snowstorm, which preceded the June earthquake by two weeks.

The highway and railroad links southward pass through a dozen provincial capitals between Santiago and Puerto Montt, which is at the end of the central valley formed by the Andes and the lower coastal mountain range.

Below Puerto Montt, the sea inundates the valley and there are no more through roads.

600-MILE TRIP

On the 600-mile journey to Puerto Montt, highway and train bridges cross the rivers that fall to the ocean from the Andes watershed. With each severe quake, these bridges tumble like the books in the lawyer's study and the provinces are cut off.

Heavy equipment for quick repairs is expensive for Chile to import and hence rare, and often immobilized by the freak weather that brings down the bridges and wires. Frequent plane service helps, but flights are often cancelled by the bad weather.

Ocean shipping is limited because Chile has only a few harbors for all of its irregular coastlines. Puerto Montt, one of the better ones, is a terror for sea ctptains because of its leaping tides.

FEW ALTERNATIVES

For all the disadvantages of being so tenuosly tied to Santiago, there are few alternatives for Chilean regions. None of them has ports and resources for autonomy.

From the outset the system has been centralized, if that term has meaning in a country that is 26 times as long as it is wide.

The amazing thing about Chile's bizarre shape is that it largely conforms to its natural boundaries, what with the Andes and the sea.

But in the lowest third, below Puerto Montt, there is strong attraction toward Argentina. There are spur roads through the Andes to Argentina's north-south road, but no Chilean land route.

Thus the population of under a quarter million in that part of Chile is isolated from the 9 million in the rest of it.

A shared road would seem to be a solution, but both Chile and Argentina see a threat to security in that. Now the Chilean government is determined to build a road south to Aysen.

It will be slow going and expensive.

President Salvador Allende represented this lowest zone as a senator. Indeed, the Marxists have always been strongest at the extremes of the country.

DETERMINED

Sen. Allende used to say that then president Eduardo Frei might rule the rest of Chile, but the south belonged to him.

With the Marxists now in power, a question is whether they will lessen the frustrations of Chileans at the far ends of the land, and where these people will turn if the isolation continues.

Allende's nationalization of copper — which Frei had "Chileanized" by buying into the American companies — and his other takeovers — show him determined to create a radically new form of central government.

But at the provincial level, this dramatic change may well water down to more a matter of a new set of outs and new ins, and otherwise business as usual.

Thais Change Vote

BANGKOK (Reuter) — Thailand for the first time will not vote against the admission of Peking to the United Nations, infogned sources said. But it will oppose any move to unseat Nationalist China, they added.

Before the Judge

Gordon Melvin Cummings, 30, of 345 Walter, was fined $300 Saturday when he pleaded guilty to assaulting an Esquimalt policeman.

Court was told that Cummings and another person were fighting when police arrived early Saturday at 880 Craigflower.

The accused wrestled with police officers and had to be forcible detained. Court was told that Cummings and the other person had been drinking.

Judge William Ostler said attacks on police officers should result in jail sentences but the accused's action could be explained partly by the previous fight and the liquor.

"If it had been otherwise, I wouldn't hesitate in sending him to jail," Ostler said.

Allan Donald Laatsch, 21, of 761 Esquimalt, was sentenced to six months in jail when he pleaded guilty to stealing a 10-speed bicycle.

Court was told the bicycle was taken from the Esquimalt and Head streets area earlier in the week and Laatsch was apprehended with it at his home Friday.

KIRBY, England (UPI) — Amanda Egan, 10, lost her rights as a pedestrian when she glided over a crosswalk on roller skates, a magistrate court ruled.

As far as the law was concerned, she was on wheels — eight of them — and had no more right to the pedestrian crossing than the truck that knocked her down, the court ruled.

WASHINGTON — Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, said Sunday that a large-scale underground nuclear test scheduled for Alaska in October will not cause earthquakes, tidal waves, or release of radioactivity. Interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press, Dr. Seaborg said he is so confident about the safety of the test he would be willing to go to Amchitka himself.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy — Pope Paul told 41 Indians from the Blackfoot tribe in Canada Sunday that he hopes some of their children will become priests. The Indians, dressed in colorful tribal outfits, were recieved by the Pope in a special audience after the pontiff's Sunday noon blessing at his summer residence. The pontiff also expressed his "esteem for your Indian culture and for the values which make it up."

TEL AVIV — Premier Golda Meir has told a British interviewer she will not seek re-election in 1973 because of her age, an Israeli newspaper reported Sunday. Mrs. Meir, 73, told this to the British Broadcasting Corp., the daily Haaretz says. Mrs. Meir's reported statement is expected to cause political disquiet here because of the struggle likely to develop in finding a successor.

WASHINGTON — Extradition papers to have Dr. Timothy Leary returned to the United States have been forwarded to the U.S. ambassador in Bern, Switzerland, the U.S. state department said Sunday. The U.S. drug advocate was arrested by Swiss police June 30 in the resort of Villars-sur-Ollon. The Swiss government said Leary was released on bail on the ground that no official request for extradition had been recieved from the U.S.

WINDSOR, Ont. — Canadians who were prisoners of war for more than two years under harsh circumstances are going to ask the federal government for a pension of 50 per cen of their military pay. H. LIMA, Peru — Astronomer Donald Menzel of Harvard University said Sunday man could attempt to land on Halley's Comet when it next approaches earth in 1986. "The operation would be less complicated than a landing on Mars," he told delegates to the opening meeting of the fifth Latin American astronomy convention. Close-up study of the comet would probably teach man more about the development of the solar system than study of the planets, added Prof. Menzel, 70-year-old author of scientific works on the solar system and sunspots.

Hot, Cool, Sizzling Mark Violin Solos

By AUDREY JOHNSON

It was a fantastic experience for a hot August Sunday afternoon — sitting in the cool dark of the McPherson Playhouse listening to a sizzling performance on the violin by an international master of the instrument.

Ruggiero Ricci is in the front rank of virtuosos, renowned in practically every major city of the world.

It has been said of him that his playing reconstructs the fabled past for 20th century listeners — the past of such grand virtuosos as Paganini, Joachim and Ysaye.

Sunday, in performing a program of the finest virtuoso and artistic proportions, he confirmed that reputation beyond any doubt.

In two of the items — the Beethoven E-flat Major Sonata, Op. 12, No. 3 and Debussy's G minor Sonata — Ricci was partnered by a young American pianist, Rebecca Penneys.

WAS WORTHY

Miss Penneys proved entirely worthy of the master.

Her playing is musically adroit, sensitive and technically superb. She was assured in her sense of partnership, creating a balance and an interweaving in the ensemble that was little, if anything, short of perfection.

The Beethoven and the unaccompanied Bach C major Sonata breathed pure classicism, but a classicism which Ricci infused with a warm, pulsing vitality.

He may have played these works a hundred times in the course of his 40-year concert career, but on Sunday he performed them with the intensity and enjoyment of first discovery.

The Debussy was a clear evocation of poetic impressionism, exquisite in delicacy of bowing and subtle color.

Then followed a group of unaccompanied numbers that carried the recital to a breatakingly brilliant climax.

Unaccompanied performance is an acid test for a violinist, and it is clear that Ricci could have easily held the stage alone the entire afternoon.

Ysaye's D minor Sonata, Kreisler's Recitative and Scherzo Caprice and variations on God Save the Queen by Paganini, revealed the great technical scope of this master violinist.

BOWING ARM

The splendid bowing arm, light as air at one time, powerful and authoritative at other times, the incredible fingering, produced lustrous tone, shining harmonics, rich passages of double-stopping, scintillating bravura passages that finally brought the audience to its feet and kept the applause going for minutes.

Ricci's recital was part of the B.C. International Festival, a fringe benefit from the Shawnigan Lake Summer School of the Arts which has been sponsored by the B.C. Centennial Cultural Fund.

Next Sunday world famous cellist Janos Starker will be the recitalist at the McPherson Playhouse.

Screams Save Alberni Girl

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Police are searching for a knife-wielding man who attacked a 17-year-old Port Alberni girl in her bed.

The girl told police she woke up shortly before midnight to see a man crouching on her floor. The man lunged, but fled when she screamed.

The girl was treated for a minor knife cut on her hand, police said.

VAN DE WATER SCORES . . . . . . AT SPEEDWAY

Walker Tough on Motors

Larry Walker "blew it" at Western Speedway on Saturday night, but he still managed to come away with two firsts and a third.

Walker blew his third engine this season but managed to come back and win the super-stock main event before 3,229 fans. Walker also won the trophy dash and took a third in the fast heat.

Chris Van de Water, meanwhile, increased his points lead in the stock-car division with his sixth main event victory, a first in the fast heat and a third in the trophy dash.

Walker's crew expressed doubt that another engine could be afforded, but after the decision was made and another engine installed, the driver took over the lead from Mike Armstrong on the 13th lap of the 35-lap feature event. He then built up a big lead before crossing the finish line.

Van de Water managed to avoid a spinnng car on the 22nd lap of the 25-lap main stock-car event, gaining valuable ground on Earl Pollard who couldn't avoid the accident. Pollard finished in second, three lengths behind.

In the first super-stock heat, no one was injured when John Harris crashed into the grandstand wall.

Time trial records were set in both divisions. Ron Hancock's super-stock record of 18.248 was beaten when Bill Price took seven-thousandths off the mark. Then Rick O'Dell set a new record of 18.21 seconds.

Earl Pollard broke his own record in the stock-car division, knocking .27 seconds off his lap-time of 20.28 seconds.

Bell's on Inside Track In Softball Playdowns

Bell's Men's Wear have the inside track on a ride into the provincial senior "C" men's softball finals.

Bell's continued their undefeated ways in the Lower Island tournament Sunday by tripping Stuffy McGinnis League rivals Labatts 5-4 to emerge on top in the winner's bracket of the double knockout tournament.

But Labatts get another crack at Bell's tonight. They rebounded with a 6-2 victory over Century Inn to get a second chance at Bell's.

Should Labatt's win tonight's game, a sudden-death playoff will be played Tuesday, starting at 6:45 p.m.

Bell's lashed out 13 hits while Labatts managed only three off winner Steve Ross. But the Labs kept close because two of their three hits were two-run homers — by Bob Harris and Skip Porteous.

Porteous also cranked out a triple and single to spark Labatt's victory over Century in the losers' final.

Homer in Eighth Lifts Americans

NORTH VANCOUVER — Victoria Americans edged East Vancouver's Sunrise, 3-2, in two extra innings Sunday at Jaycee Park to remain in contention for the B.C. Little League baseball title.

In another game in the five-team, double-knockout sectional tournament, the title-holding team from Trail joined Victoria in the losers' bracket with a 5-4 loss to Forest Hill of North Vancouver.

Trail faces Americans at 7:30 tonight in a losers' bracket contest, which will eliminate one of the two teams. Trail defeated Victoria 2-1 Saturday.

Steve Ray blasted a solo home run with two out in the eighth inning for the winning Victoria run. Winning pitcher Stuart Pigot, who struck out 11 batters and walked five, contributed a run-scoring double in the second inning.

With the loss eliminating Sunrise from the tourney, Walley and Forest Hill are winners' bracket finalists.

Mark Holder's two-run homer Saturday led Whalley to a 5-1 victory over Sunrise while Trail pushed across the winning run in the last inning to beat Americans.

Pigot scored the tying run in the fifth inning, doubling and crossing home plate on Tim Crawford's single, but it was not enough as the loss ended an eight-game Victoria win streak in playoffs.

Trail 001 001— 2 7 0

Joanne Fires Nine Birdies; Loses by One

ATLANTA (AP) — Defending champion Jane Blalock tapped in a three-foot putt on the final hole Sunday and won the $20,000 Atlanta Open, surviving a closing eight-under-par 65 by Joanne Carner.

She played Sunday for a 72 and a 54-hole score of 214, one strike better than Mrs. Carner, the United States women's open golf champion.

Mrs. Carner sank nine birdies to tie a Ladies' Professional Golf Association record for 18 holes, set by Mickey Wright in 1964.

Miss Blalock's victory over the 6,333-yard par 37-36—73 Indian Hills Country Club course earned her $3,000.

Donna Caponi finished third at 216 with a closing 70 that included a hole-in-one on the par-three, 165-yard 11th.

McLarens Coast To Peewee Title

BURNABY — Ian Bridge scored four goals Sunday to lead undefeated McLaren Construction of Saanich to an 11-5 victory over Norburn and the British Columbia peewee "A" lacrosse "A" championship.

Randy Keller had one goal and three assists for the winners while goalie Steve Hanna turned back 36 Norburn shots.

In the "B" event, Fred Dorman's goal at the eight minute mark of the first overtime period provided Esquimalt Teamsters with an exciting 9-8 title victory over Richmond Dairymen.

Rick Chamberlain was top scorer for the Islanders "B" team with four goals and three assists.

New Westminster finished third in he "A" event, thanks to a sudden-death goal by Robby Dalzell which broke an 8-8 tie. Richmond finished fourth.

Saanich and Norburns now prepare for competition in the Peewee National Invitational tournament in New Westminster from Aug. 11 to 15.

Fraserview Tops Victoria In Colt Final

Fraserview-Victoria Drive powered its way to the Zone 3 Colt League baseball championship Sunday by scoring shutout victories in three consecutive games at Topaz Park.

The Vancouver team bombed North Surrey, 17-0, in the tournament semi-final and then went on to take successive 3-0 and 2-0 decisions from the Victoria Colt All-Stars in the final of the double-knockout affair.

All Stars, who advanced to the tourney final with a 4-0 win over North Surrey Saturday, could not overcome some strong pitching by Fraserview's Terry Sawada and Pat Slapinski in the Sunday contests.

Fraserview will enter the provincial finals starting in Vancouver on August 20.

Life Suspensions In Israeli Soccer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Spurred by a sensational inquiry into corruption in Israeli league soccer, the country's football association has barred three players for life because they allegedly fixed a match.

Five other players of the Maccabi Ramat Amidar team were barred from games for three years on the same charges.

A special court of inquiry for the past month has been probing charges of match-fixing, and has uncovered widespread corruption in the country's leagues.

NOTRE DAME DISINTEGRATES . . . . AT SEATTLE

Pride Wins It Twice

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Schumacher in the Pride of Pay'n Pak, forced by an accident to twice win a championship heat, blazed to a quarter-lap victory in $30,000 Seafair Trophy unlimited hydroplane race Sunday.

Schumacher had crossed the finish line in the original championship heat seconds after the Norte Dame disintegrated in the final lap of the three-mile Lake Washington course.

Norte Dame driver Billy Sterrett was listed in satisfactory condition with facial cuts after a coast guard helicopter plucked him from the water.

He had been trying to catch defending champion Miss Budweiser, running second, when his hydroplane nosed into the water, was flipped into the air and disintegrated.

Unlimited hydroplane rules specify that the final heat must be rerun if marred by an accident.

Forced to again beat the Miss Budweiser, Schumacher came charging down the straightaway to leave the Miss Budweiser in his rooster tail after the first lap.

The Pride of Pay'n Pak ran the course with an average speed of 105.386 m.p.h. to collect 1,300 total points.

Miss Budweiser finished with 1,050 points and a 98.369 m.p.h. average. The Valu Mart, piloted by Bob Gilliam, finished a steady third with Terry Sterrett, Billy's brother, bringing The Smyth Smoother Mover home fourth.

Victory moved The Pride up to third place in the national standings with 4,817 points. Miss Budweiser kept first place with 6,121 ppints. Miss Madison has 5,413 points.

Adanacs Psyche Rocks With Another Bombing

COQUITLAM — If Saturday's game here against the Adanacs is any indication, Victoria Shamrocks are going to need more than the luck of the Irish in the upcoming Western Lacrosse Association playoffs against Coquitlam.

Coquitlam bombed the Shamrocks, 22-7, and for the second time in less than a week gave a preview what might be in store for the Victoria squad when they face Adanacs in the semi-final round. The Adanacs downed Shamrocks, 17-8 last Wednesday.

The fourth-place Islanders will face the second-place Adanacs in the first round of the playoffs.

Coquitlam started strongly Saturday, grabbing a 5-1 lead after one period and 14-4 going into the third. Goaltender Doug Thompson in Victoria's nets was busy all night in a vain attempt to turn back 70 shots.

Wayne Shuttleworth led the barrage and moved seven points ahead of Wayne Goss for the individual point championship. He passed for four goals to tie Goss in assists, with 68, while scoring three times to pad his league-leading goals total to 56.

Bill Robinson counted five goals and two assists and Bill Bradley chipped in with one goal and six assists for the winners.

Ken Alexander, with two goals, was the only Shamrock to score more than once.

Shamrocks play their next game Friday in New Westminster, then close out their 1971 schedule by meeting the Salmonbellies in Memorial Arena next Saturday.

City Stars Sweep Two-Game Series

Victoria All-Stars swept a juvenile baseball double-header from Ladysmith Sunday in exhibition action at Windsor Park.

Pitchers Ray Andre and Andy Linn combined to stop Lady-Smith on just two hits in a 5-1 victory, while Derek Drinkwater and Glen Campbell duplicated the feat for a 5-1 second-game win.

Both Canadian Juvenile league teams will compete in the provincial playoffs, starting Aug. 18 in Vancouver.

Sandown Searching For Own Character

By BILL WALKER

"Sandown will have to develop its own character if it is to succeed in summer racing."

This is the opinion of Gerry Milburn, Director of Racing and Presiding Stewart of the mixed Quarter Horse and Thoroughbred race meeting currently being held at the suburban Sidney track.

"We can't relay on Vancouver fans any more," said Millburn of the first mid-summer meeting in many years and the first ever run concurrently with the Exhibition Park meeting in Vancouver.

VISITORS MISSED

"We didn't have the people here from the mainland on Saturday," he said of the fifth day of the 12-day event," and it was evident in the mutuel play.

"That's one reason why the handle isn't as big as when the thoroughbreds ran here.

"Sure there are other factors as well," he added, "because I have to admit that we have had our problems. But each day has been an improvement, and if things continue to improve, I think we can make it — if not completely this year, then in the future.

"But it will be up to Victorians, racing fans and owners, to put it across. That's what I mean by 'character'."

Meanwhile, Saturday's "handle" was up from the preceding week, $56,832 from $42,497, and the week-day play also has shown small but significant improvement, in the eyes of Millburn, and the Vancouver Island Quarter Horse Racing Association, which is operating the meeting.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Saturday's nine-race card also was noteworthy, split as it was between the quarter-horses and thoroughbreds, particularly in three areas.

First, and foremost perhaps, Danny Hajnal, general manager of the VIQHRA, got a fitting reward;

Secondly, George Harknett finally had to accept defeat;

And thirdly, an old favorite became a hero all over again.

A prime figure behind the move in getting the meet here, Hajnal saw his efforts partly rewarded with a victory in one the day's co-features, the Canadian Quarter Horse Futurity for two-year-olds.

His dark brown filly Miss Montana Moon made every yard a winning one in the 350-yard sprint and returned Hajnal $2,660.92, winner's share of the $5,217.50 purse.

Miss Montana Moon was ridden by Jack Palmer and paid $4.10 and $3.40.

Victory also made the filly a prime Favorite for future major events, the Capital City Futurity next Saturday and the Vancouver Island Futurity, Aug. 21.

FANCY PAYOFF

Besides, it was Hajnal's birthday. Sunday, the day after the victory.

For Harknett, a local breeder and owner, the string ran out in the co-featured Colonist Handicap. After four straight wins, his stable went down to defeat with Sea of Devon only third best to favored Jakshot and Miss Jay Note over seven and one-half furlongs.

Jakshot, ridden by Palmer, paid $4.90 and $3.80. Palmer took the three-year old bay gelding to the front early and won handily. Jakshot combined with Miss Jay Note for a healthy quinella of $77.90.

But it remained for the ninth race for the public to show it's true regard.

Cowardly Lion, a nine-year old bay gelding, who had won making his second start here five in a row here last fall, was this year, having failed the first, and he didn't disappoint his backers.

He charged from far back in the one-mile finale, and won easily, combining with Calenamore for a modest $7.00 quinella.

Actually, it was a milestone for Cowardly Lion. It was his 20th victory, which is pretty fair for a thoroughbred, who incidentally, was once owned by the wife of the racing secretary, Claude Berry.

"I bought him and another horse, a better one for $500," Berry recalled, "and gave Cowardly Lion to my wife. He was always a gentle horse and my wife often used to ride him in the desert, before we finally lost him on a claim. There were 14 shakes."

Cowardly Lion paid $3.60, shortest price of the day.

Racing resumes on Tuesday with eight races starting at 5 p.m., and with a new leader in the jockey department.

Ted Sampson toook over first place with three victories, Apple Lad ($8.00) in the fourth, Raz Bond ($6.90) in the fifth, and Birdie Jay ($7.00) in the sixth. Howard Gray and Palmer each had two wins. Sampson now has nine victories, Gray eight, and Kevin Furlong, the former leader, seven. Handicap is on page 2

INJURY-PRONE Joe Namath underwent surgery Sunday for torn ligaments in left knee, and doctor in charge said New York Jets' 28-year-old quarterback may be able to play football again, possibly as early as November. Namath was injured Saturday night during exhibition against Detroit Lions at Tampa, Fla.

Hard-Working Tiger Lefty Can't Escape Blue Shadow

By The Associated Press

Vida Blue, Oakland Athletics' pitching whiz, has been getting all the attention this season but the American League's dark horse is Detroit Tigers' Mickey Lolich, who can't escape the shadow cast by the spotlight-basking Blue.

The Detroit left-hander is the hardest worker in the League with 270 innings hurled and has compiled 226 strikeouts, a 2.93 earned run average and an 18-8 won-lost record, including Sunday's 8-2 victory over Boston Red Sox.

In the other American League games, Kansas City Royals clouted Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; Cleveland Indians trimmed Washington Senators 6-2; Minnesota Twins nipped California Angels 2-1; Chicago White Sox spilled Oakland 9-7 in the first game of a doubleheader and beat the Athletics in the nightcap 3-1.

But Lolich has had little chance to scene-steal from Blue, who nailed down No. 20 Saturday with a 1-0 conquest of Chicago White Sox.

Lolich's victory over Boston kept the Red Sox from gaining ground on pace setting, Baltimore in the East Division. The Orioles were beaten 2-1 by New York Yankees Sunday.

Five times this year, Lolich has lost leads in the last frame and also lost the victories.

Lolich, who was nicked for a first-inning run on Carl Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly, ran into familiar ninth-inning trouble when he gave up three hits, including Phil Gagliano's run scoring double.

But Lolich had more than enough working margin to wriggle out this time and moved closer to the prized 20-victory plateau, something consistently denied him in eight previous major league seasons.

'Goo-Goo' and Knuckler Chill Braves

Phil Niekro, whose elusive knuckleball has been baffling National League batters for the last few years, added the tantalizing "goo-goo" pitch to his repertoire this season.

Sunday, he used both to their full effectiveness, hurling Atlanta Braves to a 5-0 victory over New York Mets, the team that had bombarded Atlanta pitching for 20 runs and 21 hits Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco and Chicago split a doubleheader, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 and the Cubs taking the nightcap 8-0; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh also divided a twinbill, the Phils capturing the first game 3-2 and losing the second 4-0; Cincinnati Reds downed Montreal Expos 6-3; Los Angeles Dodgers defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-2, and San Diego Padres edged Houston Astros 3-2.

The veteran right-hander allowed only four hits—all singles, struck out seven, including Tommie Agee four times, and walked three in raising his record to 12-8.

The only Met to solve his mystifying "goo-goo" pitch was Duffy Dyer, who tapped a single into left centrefield in the third inning.

Niekro's delivery was given its name by his team-mate, pitcher Bob Priddy. It floats toward the plate, then breaks away from right-handed batters and in to left-handed swingers.

The Braves nicked Charlie Williams for a run in the first inning on Felix Millan's triple and Ralph Garr's sacrifice fly, and added four runs in the second, with Millan and Hank Aaron each rapping two-run singles. Aaron now has hit safely in 16 consecutive games.

Chicago's Billy Williams smashed three two-run homers, including two in the nightcap, and Glenn Beckert had seven hits in nine at-bats raising his batting average to a league-leading .357 in the Cubs' split with the Giants.

FIVE TEAMS . . . . . FOR SUMMER SOCCER

New Circuit Planned

The death knell of the Western Canada Soccer League has been sounded and British Columbia teams plan to find a substitute in a five-team semi-professional circuit next summer.

The handwrting showed on the wall at the weekend when Edmonton Eagles cancelled a WCSL visit to the west coast. Affected were a Saturday game at Royal Athletic Park against Victoria Royals and a Sunday match against Vancouver Spartans.

Saskatoon, Winnipeg Blues and Regina made up the rest of the WCSL, although Saskatoon did not participate in inter-division play.

Victoria owner Jim Irvine disclosed at the weekend that the proposed all-B.C. summer league will be composed of Victoria, Spartans, Richmond, Columbus, Croatia and Eintracht.

Richmond will be a new team while Columbus, Croatia and Eintracht have broken away from the Pacific Coast League.

Peter Mamardi, manager of Columbus, will serve as president of the summer circuit. Each team will be required to carry six amateurs before filling out the rest of the roster with professionals.

The term "professional" applies to former pros now living in B.C., professionals borrowed from Old Country teams, or local players who have signed pro contracts.

Although WCHL play was rated highly, it had been obvious teams could not continue to meet extensive travelling costs because of the lack of fan support.

Victoria, for example, averaged less than 1,000 fans a game despite crowd-pleasing performances that carried Royals to the top of the Coast Division.

Alcos' Poor Start Sets Up Incog Win

With Cowichan, Incogs and Albion all jockeying for position in a fight for first place in the Victoria and District Cricket Association; Incogs improved their position Sunday with an important win.

In a Windsor Park match against Alcos, Incogs were winners by 14 runs. When Alcos batted they had a disastrous start, with six men retired after scoring only 17 runs. However a great last wicket stand by Tony Armstrong (29 not but) and Les Clark (17 not out) brought the losers' score to 101.

Incogs scored 115 of which Tim Bale made 35, Jim Wenman, 34, and Scott Taylor, 14 not out.

Bowling for Alcos, Mike Dodd toppled five for 21 and Mike Natini took two wickets for 11 runs. For Incogs, Tom Walton captured—five wickets for 34 runs and Jim Wenman took four for 35.

League officials were not able to provide the results of a game between Cowichan and Oak Bay at Shawnigan Lake.

CASTAWAYS DRAW

At Beacon Hill Park on Saturday, Albion drew with Castaways, who defended desperately to earn a draw soon after realizing not enough runs could be scored in the two hours and ten minutes remaining. Albion had smashed 190 runs before declaring but didn't allow enough time to get Castaways out.

Castaways' Nick Walton took four wickets for 58 and Dave Clarke hit 82 runs but, with five wickets fallen, Dave Shaw (18 not out) and Walton (13 not out) played the time out. Mal Shanks and Dick Beale opened with 125 runs for Albion before Shanks' wicket fell with his total at 68 runs. Beale went out after scoring 67.

SMOKE WATCH

On Giving 'Em Up The Group Route

The very first thing you do is to write the letter — or, rather, you copy it out of the book since they have written it for you as part of the service — and you mail it or give it to your family members and friends.

"Dear Family Members and Friends:" it tells them. "I am about to embark on a campaign to free myself from the cigarette habit. The campaign is important to me, though I realize it may not seem so to you. My success or failure will depend in large part on the co-operation I get from those around me. To put it simply, directly and perhaps bluntly, I need only one thing from you: to be left alone . . ."

The writer of this recommended, ready-made break with society is on the staff of Smoke Watchers International, Inc., and if you think that's a drastic action, just wait until you hear the rest of it.

As for Smoke Watchers, you'll doubtless be hearing from them any day now since an advance party is in our town preparing to launch the venture commercially.

Like Alcoholics Anonymous or Weight Watchers, Smoke Watchers is a group, psycho-social membership deal calculated to have you shaking the filthy habit through the pressure and encouragement of togetherness. Or, as they put it, "Since social pressures made you start smoking, you must use social pressures to help you quit."

An advance look at the manual that's used in the exercise, The Smoke Watchers' How-to-Quit Book, makes it clear that they've little or no faith in the Cold Turkey Method which I had always thought to be the only possible way to kick the habit. Instead, they advocate a gradual, three-stage withdrawal program that could take up to 26 weeks before realizing the goal of being a non-smoker, saying a final farewell to your last cigarette and, of course, all your family members and friends. (Just joking, fellows.)

Being an essentially inspiration organization, Smoke Watchers sets a high moral, even fighting tone right from the beginning, especially in documenting the saga of Smoke Watchers who have made good.

★ ★ ★

Consider, for example, the 35-year-old woman member who had reached three packs a day, had tried and failed no less than 10 times to give them up. Then along came Smoke Watchers. And now? "She is tobacco's slave no longer. Her complexion has lost its yellowish pallor. Her day's-end fatigue is gone. Her chronic cough is gone. Her teeth are white. Her sex life has become an experience worth having. She has blossomed. She has abruptly come out into the sunshine like a big, beautiful butterfly that has spent two decades wrapped in a dingy cocoon. 'I'm living!' she keeps saying in tones of wonder. 'I'm living!'"

Now that you're all fired up, let's consider some of Smoke Watchers' methods and you'll notice right away that there's a considerable amount of paper work. For starters, you're urged to make a list of all the reasons why you want to quit smoking. "All right," the manual then advises. "Now read over your list. Have a cigarette. Go ahead. Enjoy it. Feel no guilt. You have taken your first step toward becoming a non-smoker."

Later on, as you get deeper into the program, you'll be keeping another list in which you "rate" the enjoyment of smokers under certain conditions. It must be noted, sadly, that this list may run every bit as long as the list you've made of reasons to hate them. Indeed the reasons for hating them — health fears, smell, clutter and mess, fire hazard, expense — only seem disconcertingly few when Smoke Watchers' manual gets around to listing those situational smokes that taste ever so good.

Well, never mind. You have this sort of form chart, you see. Now, every time you light a cigarette you write down the time you lit up, the activity in which you were engaged and the degree of desire ranging from one point to five. If it was a desperate need (i.e., the cigarette with the first coffee in the morning) you might give it five points; "very much" is four points; "moderate" is three; "very little" is two and "no real desire" gets a single point.

Smoke Watchers make the startling claim that fully half the cigarettes consumed by the average smoker would be classed as 1s or 2s — robot cigarettes, so to speak, that were barely wanted, not really enjoyed, that were lit only as part of a habit pattern. By simply giving up those, most smokers are automatically half way to their goal.

That turns our attention to the cigarettes which would rate anywhere from "moderate desire" to "desperate need," the threesies, the foursies and the fivesies.

★ ★ ★

Smoke Watchers' people will tell you that when a two-pack-a-day member has got himself down to — say — 20 cigarettes a day they will almost certainly include the cigarettes that can be categorized as the Wake-Up, After Breakfast, Drivers, Waiting, Mid-Morning, Pause-to-Think, Telephone, Bathroom, Before Lunch, After Lunch, Cocktail, Nightcap, After Sex and the Insomnia Cigarette. Each of these whether they rate as 1, 4 or 5, is then tackled one by one.

"Go at your own pace," the How-to-Quit-Book warns. "Don't pressure yourself too hard. Don't attack the Telephone Cigarette habit until you feel perfectly at ease without your former Pause-to-Think cigarette. As you attack and defeat each habit, simply cross it off the list and turn your attention to the habits that still remain."

"If here's one thing that Smoke Watchers want you to get into your thick head it is that you are losing nothing and gaining everything.

"Fix in your mind that you aren't about to 'quit' something pleasant and good," the manual warns. "You aren't about to test your will power or display stoicism or be a martyr. You are about to reach for a grand, new success. Don't be ashamed if you feel self-righteous and arrogant. You deserve to swagger a little. After all, you are a success."

As a many-time loser at the game of giving them up, trying once more the Cold Turkey Method, I find them stirring words — but, of course, any words are appreciated when family members and friends have left you.

Ask the Times

Q. Can you tell me the message or meaning of the signal flags that were hoisted by the royal yacht Britannia when she docked on May 3, and again on May 11?—D.J.M.

A. The Britannia did what is commonly known as "dress ship." To do this, signal flags are used in a rotation set down by international protocol. They do not spell out any specific message but are flown in this manner on gala occasions. Of particular interest to Canadians was the special Canadian standard of the Queen that was flown at one of the yacht's mastheads.

Q. Recently I found a Bank of Canada $2 bill dated January 1937. How much is it worth now?—H.C.

A. Although it is one of the last issue it is still worth only $2 because there are so many notes still in circulation.

Mount Douglas fire casts pall of smoke over skyline Sunday afternoon

Arson Suspected in Mount Doug Blaze

By BRIAN BUTTERS

Arson is suspected in a Sunday afternoon forest fire which blazed through 10 acres of the west slope of Mount Douglas.

"It certainly wasn't a natural phenomenon," Chief Joseph Sutherland said today.

He said that although the cause of the fire has not yet been pinpointed, there have been several occasions earlier this summer when the fire department extinguished several small fires in the same general area.

He said that on one occasion, four separate blazes had apparently been lit. Because the woods were damper at that time of the year, the fires did not spread to a dangerous extent.

'IT TOOK OFF'

"This time it took off," Sutherland said.

Fire crews today are standing guard after every available firemen Sunday worked on the blaze. They had it under control in about an hour.

Sutherland said the fire could have been caused by carelessness — perhaps a dropped cigarette — and that with the woods so dry — it wouldn't have taken much to get a fire going.

Assistant Fire Chief Harold Gaines said there was "fairly heavy" foot traffic on the mountain's hiking trails and paths.

Two five-man crews and three pumper trucks had been left on the mountain overnight, he said, to ensure that the fire did not break out again.

Inspector John Post of Saanich said police questioned area residents trying to find a cause.

The investigation had yielded "nothing concrete."

Fire department spokesmen said homes in the area were never in great danger, and that the closest building to the flames was the Sevenoaks Children's Treatment Centre, 4373 Blenkinsop Road.

Sutherland said that if there had been no available water supply on the top of the mountain. "It could have been a lot worse."

A 10,000-gallon water reservoir was built at the top of the mountain after a fire in September 1966 consumed 10 acres of forest, and came close to destroying some nearby houses.

IN BACKYARDS

"If we'd had the same problems with the water supply as we did in the 1966 fire, it would have been a different situation," Sutherland said.

The 1966 fire, which also covered about 10 acres, caused considerable concern to residents in the area. At one point flames were in the backyards of some of the homes.

Sutherland said, however, that although it appears dramatic when flames approach residential areas, there is no real problem.

"When it gets close to where we have a hydrant, we don't have any problem at all."

Spokesmen said that with the water reservoir on the top of the mountain, the fire was much easier to control.

"We were able to get one line from the top of the mountain as well as lines from trucks at the bottom and halfway up," one fireman said. "With the three lines, we were able to surround it."

The department's pumper trucks are capable of bringing in only about 1,500 gallons of water at a time, so the extra 10,000 gallons in the reservoir "saved the day," Gaines said.

Saanich firefighters earlier Sunday extinguished a half-acre blaze on Prospect Lake Road and West Burnside Road.

$133 IN THREE STAGES

Police Raise Really 18.2%

The monthly salary of a first-class constable in Victoria and Saanich will be raised by 18.2 per cent in the 15-month contract approved by policemen last Friday.

Earlier reports of the settlement, expected to be approved by Victoria and Saanich police commissions this week, put the percentage increase at 12.2 and 11.2.

The police will receive a total increase of $133 a month in three stages on the old rate of $778 a month. The stages: $782 Jan. 1, 1971; $830, July 1, 1971; $861 Jan. 1, 1972.

SOUGHT PARITY

They had been seeking parity with Vancouver and lower mainland police forces who earn $887 a month in a contract which runs to the end of this year. This was an increase of 16.4 per cent in a one-year contract.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt are extected to follow the Victoria-Saanich pattern.

E. E. Pearlman, spokesman for the city's negotiating committee, said "we look at the cost on payroll" and this was 10.5 per cent for this year.

PAYROLL COST

Saanich administrator John Tribe said the payroll cost for this year is the lower figure reported earlier.

"The end result, the increase to the men themselves, looks about 18 per cent all right," he said.

The payroll increase for this year is less because the second stage comes into effect in mid-year and the third stage is Jan. 1 of next year, he added.

The presidents of the police unions, Ken Horsman of Victoria and Ted Owens of Saanich, could not be reached for comment.

'WORKED LIKE TROJANS HELPING WITH FIRE'

Citizens who helped fight Sunday's Mount Douglas fire were praised today by Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland.

"The department is most appreciative of the volunteers who helped out," the chief said. "They worked like Trojans."

He said a large part of fighting the fire involved "laying in" the hoses from the bottom of the mountain and that the volunteers, especially groups of young teenagers, had contributed "tremendously."

Another department spokesman, who had worked on one side of the fire, said about 25 young boys had helped his crew drag the heavy hoses up the mountainside.

"Many people don't realize it, but that is a rugged mountain," he said. "The youngsters helped a great deal."

Sutherland also said the Victoria Citizen's Band Radio Club deserved praise for the way they were able to keep communication lines open between the various parts of the mountain.

Hospital Strike Story To Be Told in Alberta

The story of the Sandringham Private Hospital strike will be told to trade unionists in Alberta.

Jack Phillips, co-ordinator for Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said a tour by one of the strikers was requested by the provincial executive of CUPE in Alberta.

The idea proposed by Alberta CUPE executive is to have one striker speak at a number of union meetings and raise funds at the same time. The tour will include Edmonton, Red Deer, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. The striker making the tour will be named later this week.

Decision on College Site Expected by End of Month

The site for an $8 million international college, expected to open near Victoria in two years, may be decided at the end of August.

Bertram Butler, 513 Transit, chairman of the United World Colleges' site committee, said today a great many sites had been studied and the choice now lay "between three or four."

The college will be the third in a series established by the UCW. The first was formed in 1962 at St. Donat's in Wales and a second is being established in Singapore.

It has been speculated the college will be built on 150 acres west of Sooke at French Beach.

Pat Sinnott, solicitor for the French family, owners of the property, has received queries from UWC officials, as well as a federal government department that appeared interested in the beach area for under water research.

It has also been suggested that one of the Gulf Islands might be chosen as a college site.

Rear-Admiral Desmond Hoare, personal representative of Earl Mountbatten, a UCW founder, said that sea rescue training would be part of the college's curriculum.

When he visited Victoria this spring, Hoare said the college would include 100 North American students, 150 students from Pacific Rim countries and 50 more from Europe.

Entry will be open to both boys and girls and fees will be about $3,000 annually.

SCHOLARSHIPS

If the pattern of St. Donat's is followed, many of these will be on scholarships for the two years of tuition, which will be equivalent to Canadian grade 11 and 12 standards.

Canada currently provides six scholarships for the college in Wales, known as the Atlantic College.

To be call the the Pacific College, the one being proposed for this area will be headed by Jack Matthews, headmaster of Lakefield College, a boys' boarding school near Peterborough, Ont.

PNE DISPLAY FEATURES ARCTIC ROLE

Forces to Operate 'Hot Line'

A "hot line" to Canadian armed forces headquarters in Ottawa will be a feature of the forces' display at the Pacific National Exhibition, which runs from Aug. 21 to Sept. 6 in Vancouver.

Using the line, visitors will be able to receive immediate answers to queries about the forces.

Located near the PNE grandstand, the display will feature the forces' role in the Arctic. The highlight will be a "cool room" where parka-clad personnel will erect tents, cook and do other chores in a specially air-cooled enclosure. They will be able to be observed through glass panels.

There will also be a theatre where the film Arctic Frontier wil be shown.

AIR-DROP

Another feature will be the air-drop, where two parachute harnesses will be suspended in front of an aerial-scene backdrop. Complimentary photographs will be taken of visitors getting the feel of dropping from the sky.

Briefing officers will report on the status of Canadian forces around the world in a realistic operations room.

Major George Lilley of Ottawa heads the 12-strong exhibition team, drawn from units across Canada.

Sooke Sports Fishing Reserve to Be Retained

The sports fishing reserve from Sheringham Point to William Head will be retained at least for a year, it was reported today.

Area fisheries director Rod Hourston said today that Minister of the Environment Jack Davies has examined survey findings and briefs presented to the department by commercial and sports fishermen and saw no reason for change at this time.

"But," Hourston added, "he said he would be prepared to look at the problems of the commercial and sports fishermen next year."

At a recent Vancouver meeting with department officials representatives of the sports fishermen opposed a department proposal to cut the fishery reserve in half.

This proposal has now been shelved.

It would have reduced the reserve from an area eight miles offshore to a four-mile limit, allowing commercial fishermen to fish in the outer half.

At the meeting, commercial fishermen asked that the entire reserve be made available to them.

Howard English, southern Vancouver Island representative to the sport fishery advisory committee of the fisheries department drew attention to the declining stocks of summer coho in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

He warned that abandoning the reserve, set up in July 1967, would worsen an already critical situation.

A Cooler Summer for Students

Some students will do anything to get a job — even if it means going behind bars.

Although keys and bars are a part of the Regional Correctional Centre for Vancouver Island on Wilkinson Road, Victoria, George Fuller, 25, is not locked up.

He is one of 22 University of British Columbia law students hired for the summer by the provincial correctional institutes in B.C. Jim Piers, 24 works with Fuller as the first student staff members at the centre. They work with 54 permanent staff members, counselling and supervising 150 inmates.

"Uou don't know what to expect when you walk into a prison," Fuller said, explaining he had many preconceived ideas of prison life.

"All these ideas from the movies — James Cagney being rubber-hosed by the guards and especially the newspaper stores — they're not true. The public only hears about the things that are blown up out of proportion."

"Prison image is poor," he said. "But isn't a pleasant place to be and it's not supposed to be."

Fuller says he is among the inmates constantly and has a good rapport with them.

"The first thing people have to realize about people in correctional institutions is that they're human beings just like everybody else and they have the same problems."

Fuller outside jail

Often these problems are magnified in an institution, he said, but with a little counselling, they can be worked out. The staff uses what they term "reality therapy", which focuses on the future, Fuller said.

"You can give them ideas in here, but outside it's up to them."

Fuller, finds the inmates approachable and interesting.

"You have to give them new goals and a different way of looking at life," he said.

The inmates vary in age and are sent to the Vancouver Island centre for committing a criminal offence "of a lesser level."

Provincial institutions receive prisoners serving no more than two years less one day.

Some inmates are difficult to work with, said Fuller.

"But it's a reassuring experience to know that some are willing to be helped. I'm not a qualified counsellor, but they accept me and talking it out helps.

Con Artists

Fuller went through a two-week training program before going to the centre He finds the staff helpful, giving him "the same type of responsibility they give the inmates."

He said he didn't broadcast the fact he was a student at first and approached his job with some apprehension. He later found his age didn't matter.

"Some people are con artists They've been here a long time and you have to watch it," he said.

"Working here gives you a terrific insight. You have empathy for what they're going through

"I suppose after working here, criminal law would be the logical follow up, but I'm open-minded now. I'll start looking for a place to article next year."

Fuller is going into his final year at law school and will travel after graduation

"This has been the best summer job I've had," he said "I've got the feeling I've helped somebody."

Former Fatties Discover Joys of a Thin Majority

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — The world is made for thin people.

When weight losers of 100 pounds or more talk about what they've gained as they've lost, they talk about things most people take for granted.

They can wear panty hose and belts, choose clothes because they like them, not just because they'll go around them.

They can sit in theatre seats, fit comfortably behind the wheel of a car, climb into a boat as anyone else.

Anne Lorefice and Rose Dodge have lost 128 and 109 pounds respectively and both say it's a new world, free of constant embarassments and worries. They've lost their pounds working with Weight Watchers, a commercial dieters group.

Clothes have become a pleasure for them both.

Mrs. Joseph Lorefice says: "When you're heavy, your dresses are so plain, just two pieces of material with two darts in it and a hem.

"I had a fur coat and never wanted to wear it. If we went to a theatre, I could hardly get into the seat, and with the fur coat, it was impossible."

WANTS TO SWIM

She has given away the fur coat and thrown away a lot of shoes. She had her old dresses taken in over and over until she could begin to buy more interesting clothes.

She says she has a bathing suit now and is thinking of learning to swim.

Both women say their biggest problem now is that they still like to cook for the family and still like food, but their cooking habits have improved.

Mrs. Lorefice says: "When I used to put the chicken in the oven, I used to get the gallon of oil and go over it like it was going to go swimming. Now I put it on the rack."

Mrs. Charles Dodge says she has bought three pantsuits and now wears panty hose.

"I used to have to wear stockings and roll them at the knee because I coudn't get them big enough to pull up.

"The director at my office says I'm not the same girl. He said I do my work much quicker.

Mrs. Dodge took part in a recent walk for charity, a thing she would never have considered before. She walked the whole 20 miles, and at the half-way mark, her husband took her lunch to her. It was a salad.

Safer, Better Contraceptives

● Worry about the long-term safety of the pill has spurred scientists in their search for a risk-free contraceptive. On the horizon—minipills, morning-after pills; and operations to reverse sterilization. This report, the second of two articles details these new developments.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Population pressure is igniting an explosion of reasearch-fuelled by imagination and dollars — to develop new and completely safe and effective methods of birth control.

It promises new pills beyond the present pill, and improved devices, and it is prompting a volunteer army of men to undergo sterilization, with future promise of sterilization techniques for men and women, that could be reversed.

Totally unexpected discoveries may turn up.

"The research people are quite imaginative these days," says Dr. Philip A. Cofrman, director of the Centre for Population Research of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development here.

The centre spent $28.1 million this fiscal year to support population research.

SPUR FOR RESEARCH

Some spur to expanded research stems from worry about long-term safety of the pill, with authorities disagreeing whether the increased risk associated, for example, with blood clotting warrants giving it up.

Last year, funds were doubled for research in evaluating the effect of oral contraceptives, to $3.5 million, in a program directed by Dr. John Schrogie, a clinical pharmacologist.

This year, the program will spend about $4.3 million mostly for research on the pill.

The three main avenues of research into new methods of birth control involve drugs, sterilization and devices.

On new drugs: One is the minipill, containing only a small amount of the female hormone, progesterone, and free of the estrogen which is blamed for causing the clotting tendency in the current pill.

The experiements include putting a year's supply of progesterone in a Silastic capsule, which is implanted under the skin, there to release a tiny amount of hormone daily.

Another is the morning-after pill, a large dose of estrogen, or progestin which apparently acts to prevent a fertilized egg from becoming implanted in the wall of the uterus or womb.

It's been called effective even if taken a few days after insemination has occurred Undesired side effects are a hurdle to its general use.

Other researchers report high promise from injections of hormones once every three or six months

Sterilization: Last year, 750,000 men voluntarily underwent sterilization by vasectomy, the severing of tubes through which sperm travel, and about 75 per cent of people volunteering for surgical sterilization now are men, says the Association for Voluntary Sterilization.

A simplified operation for women, with instruments inserted through two tiny incisions in the abdomen, severs the fallopian tubes — pathways of eggs coming from the overies — and involves only a few hours time in a hospital.

Intrauterine devices: IUDs have found some increasing popularity, and improvements in design, with one major development, the discovery by Dr. Jaime Zipper of the University, of Chile that the element copper exerts an anti-fertility efect.

Not a Very Popular Choice

MALDON, England (UPI) — No one was annoyed at 15-month-old Nicholas Cooper for winning "the bonniest baby in town" prize. A number of women were upset with his mother.

Jennifer Cooper is unmarried and several mothers of runners-up asked her to hand back the cup and baby clothes Nicholas won for beating 112 other contestants.

One mother, Mrs. Joan Rhodes, said, "she should give the cup back. Allowing her to keep it condones that sort of thing."

Miss Cooper, 22, will have none of it. "I'm not handing it back and that's it," she said. "I'm proud of my baby and plan to enter him again next year."

The organizers let the decision stand. "We were running a baby show, not judging people's morals," one said.

Victoria Woman Wins CNE Prize

Mrs. Doris E. Watton, 2242 Sooke Road, has won second prize in the hobby crafts section of the women's division annual handicraft competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Amateur painters, sculptors, wood carvers, knitters, metal workers and for the first time this year, dressmakers competed for prizes totalling close to $6,000.

Pot Riot Probe Sought

HELPING FIGHT FIRE on west slope of Mount Douglas Sunday are young teen-age boys, who officials said contributed "tremendously" in extinguishing 10-acre blaze. All of Saanich's available crew worked on the fire for two hours. Indications are that it may have been started deliberately. See story Page 17. (John McKay photo.)

Police Action 'Excessive'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A marijuana smoke-in protesting recent police pressure on the illicit drug trade erupted into a bloody riot Saturday night as police arrested 79 and chased hundreds more for blocks through the old Gastown section.

Aldermen and eyewitnesses charged police Sunday with using excessive force in clearing the streets of several hundred demonstrators and more than 1,000 bystanders. They called for outside investigation of the incident by the attorney-general's department.

Obstruction, Assault Charged

Fifty-four persons were charged with offences ranging from obstruction of a police officer to assault and possession of a dangerous weapon. Bail ranged from $150 to $1,000, and eight persons were still in custody late Sunday on the dangerous weapon charges. Twenty-five of those arrested were released hours later without charge.

Thirty-eight of the adults charged were to appear in provincial court today. Three juveniles were to appear in juvenile court. Court appearances for 13 others were not set.

Ald. Ed Sweeney, who witnessed part of the riot after being telephoned at home, criticized the police for being too aggressive and said they were using special three-foot riot sticks "like you would use a stick to beat a dog."

More Restraint Necessary

He said both police and demonstrators appeared to provoke each other but said the police should have used more restraint and discrimination. Police Inspector Robert Abercrombie used a loud hailer and gave the crowd just two minutes to disperse, he said, then police "just charged into the group."

Photographers covering the disturbance were harassed by police.

Glenn Baglo, a photographer for The Sun, said a mounted policeman snatched a camera from him. Only the leather strap on the camera was broken, and no film was taken or destroyed.

Dave Looy, who was filming for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., said a sergeant told him to stop taking pictures and "get out of here." Mr. Looy said while filming earlier he had been hit several times by police from behind. Both photographers wore hard hats identifying their respective organizations.

Police Chief John Fisk was ordered by Mayor Tom Campbell to make a full report on the disturbance.

Chief Fisk said a number of allegations had been made suggesting abuse of police authority and improper police tactics in quelling the demonstration. Eyewitnesses were asked to give information to the four detectives and senior officer conducting the investigation.

Merchants Switch Sympathy

Meanwhile the Gastown Merchants Association, which had earlier given full support to the police in their efforts to clean the drug dealers out of the area, seemed to have swung 180 degrees in its attitude.

Larry Killam, president of Town Group Realty Ltd. and one of the largest property owners in Gastown, said Sunday at a meeting of the association that lawyers would be in his offices today to take affidavits from witnesses concerning the police action.

He and other merchants contributed $3,000 toward a bail fund for those arrested.

He said he saw police pull a girl in shorts by her hair and shoulders on her seat through broken glass toward a paddy wagon. Mr. Killam, who watched from his offices above Maple Tree Square where the riot began, said he saw a man taken to the door of a paddy wagon by four officers and beaten on the head with riot sticks.

Later Sunday, 18 eyewitnesses told an impromptu press conference in a Gastown coffee house about their experiences.

Stan Williams, who said he was a transient from St.

It's So Hot But Whom Do You Trust?

Who is a man to believe when it comes to Victoria's temperature on a given day?

Take today at 11:30 a.m.

The weather station at Gonzales Heights came up with a figure of 77 degrees; Pat Bay airport registered 79 degrees; but the winner, heat-wise, was the sign atop a downtown brewery which showed 81 degrees.

Gonzales can be affected by cooling from the Strait of Juan de Fuca and may lose a degree or two — one spokesman said as many as 20 some days — while the airport weather station is also subject to winds, being on the top of the Saanich peninsula.

So the brewery building may be the most accurate of all.

The weather forcaster at the airport said the heat wave will hold for the next few days.

On Sunday the highs were 82 at Pat Bay and 77 at Gonzales. No one recorded how hot it got downtown.

Driverless Car Eyed for Moon

HOUSTON (Reuter) — Engineers are studying the possibility of sending a moon-rover on a final driverless journey hundreds of miles across the moon's surface.

The scheme has not yet been formally proposed to NASA. But Boeing, RCA and Delco, who built the moon-buggy, see it as a way of squeezing the last ounce of benefit from the Apollo program before man ends this historic era of exploration.

A preliminary study has indicated that an automatic rover is technically feasible.

Boeing officials said this weekend that a remote-controlled rover could be produced for Apollo 17, scheduled to fly to the moon in December next year. But it would need major modifications on the model which made its debut on the moon with Apollo 15.

The major changes would include fitting it with controls that could be radio-commanded from earth; an earth-seeking antenna that would enable its color television camera to remain on as it travelled, surveying its path and taking in the surrounding moonscape; long-duration batteries or a small nuclear-power generator; and possibly heaters to protect the electronics from the intense cold of the lunar night.

Jail Without Trial As Irish Blood Flows

BELFAST (CP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland ordered internment without trial for guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today and banned the annual religious parades which for the last two years have inflamed the communal passions of Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Meanwhile, Ulster's worst wave of violence for two years continued unabated with at least five more people, one of them a young boy shot dead today.

Three other people were killed over the weekend and 300 suspected terrorists were arrested under the new emergency powers.

Police said the boy was believed to have been shot while trying to throw a gasoline bomb during a clash between rioters and British troops.

Another victim was a British soldier, but there were no details on his death, or the deaths of three civilian men killed during street gunbattles during the morning.

Shootings, arson and rioting also were reported in Londonderry and the border town of Newry. Army reinforcements were flown to Newry by helicopter after rioters set fire to stores and offices.

The bitter fighting was an apparent backlash to the internment measure announced earlier in the day by Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. He said he would sign orders for the detention without trial of all those who were thought to pose a serious and continuing threat to public order and safety.

The action was clearly aimed at militant factions of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, who have claimed responsibility for many of the slayings, raids and acts of sabotage that have brought a total of 12,000 British peace-keeping soldiers to Ulster.

Faulkner also slapped a six-month ban on sectarian pro-

Dollar Again Jolted; This Time by Swiss

FRANKFURT (AP) — The Sagging U.S. dollar got a new jolt from Europe today when the Swiss national bank acted to stop a speculative rush of dollars into Switzerland and dollar prices were driven to record lows in this West German city.

Dollar trading throughout Europe was light to moderate and marked by falling prices for a currency considered overvalued by many experts.

Dollar Crisis Background—Page 31

The latest pressure on the dollar probably was touched off by a congressional study issued in Washington Friday night urging a realignment of the U.S. dollar rate among industrial nations and arguing that the dollar is overvalued.

The Swiss bank acted to stop a new speculative flow of dollars by putting the Swiss frank equivalent of all dollars sold into a special frozen account for the time being.

The move came after the Swiss franc buying-selling price of the dollar plunged to 4.0565-4.0595, slightly below the voluntary intervention point of 4.0600 at which the national bank has been buying dollars for the last few days.

MAKES MARKET NERVOUS

"The dollar was already very weak," said one Frankfurt dealer. "Then we had this congressional report and the Swiss bank action so we have a hectic, nervous market."

The dollar opened at a record low 3.43 marks in Frankfurt.

GLASGOW (AP) — Scottish workers struggling to save their jobs with the virtually bankrupt Upper Clyde Shipbuilders consortium voted today to occupy the remaining three of the company's four shipyards.

Workers at the Scotstoun, Linthouse and Govan yards voted at mass meetings to occupy their divisions just as workers on the Clydebank did 10 days ago.

. . . GASTOWN

Thomas, Ont., told the coffee house crowd of 125 that "generally there was just a mass beating-up on everybody for no reason."

A policeman "told three or four others to get me," he said. He said he suffered a broken arm either in the chase or the beating by police that followed. It was four or five hours before he got to see a nurse at the police station and not until 9 a.m. that he was taken to hospital for treatment.

Richard Roth of New York City said he was picked up by four police in the same area. "They took me into a back alley and beat me up . . . and I can't hear too well as a result. They also broke my glasses."

Record store owner Charles Traynor said he saw police club to the ground a woman who was pushing a paraplegic in a wheelchair.

"They beat her senseless, then pushed her into the paddy wagon."

"We must look at both sides," Mr. Fisk said.

He said he feels that the public has supported police action in previous confrontations between officers and large crowds.

"I am anxious to ensure that support continues."

Mayor Campbell said he wanted the report no later than Tuesday and would probably seek a preliminary report today.

The mayor also said he wanted witnesses with complaints or comments on the actions of police and demonstrators to write his office.

"All I've heard so far is rumor and hearsay. We are going to need more than that if we are going to begin an investigation.

"If we decide to go ahead with one it will probably be this Thursday and I hope it will be public," Mr. Campbell said.

"I would like to hear testimony from anyone who would like to appear, but I wouldn't want it to turn into a circus. The only question is: Did the police go too far in Gastown Saturday night?"

He said he was referring to actions of individual policemen and was not questioning the use of riot gear. "I'm sure the police didn't go down there just for exercise."

If rocks and bottles were being thrown at them they were justified in using return force, "but they are not entitled to go around beating innocent citizens."

"We would inquire into the amount of force used and if we found it excessive, there could be reprimands, suspensions or firings of police."

BRANCH FALLS ON WOMAN

When the temperature creeps into the 80s too much sun can be dangerous.

It can also be dangerous in the shady comfort of a tree . . . when a branch falls on you.

This happened to Mrs. Patricia Taylor, 915 Lodge, who was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday from Hamsterly Beach on Elk Lake at 4:30 p.m.

She was treated for a shoulder injury and released.

Gold Will Fall To Low Mark

WASHINGTON (WP) — The United States gold stock will fall perilously close to the $10 billion mark today when France trades in $191 million for gold to pay off part of a $609 million debt to the International Monetary Fund.

The international financial community has been fearful that when the U.S. gold stock, once as high as $24 billion in 1957, drops to $10 billion, the treasury might close down the gold window — refuse to redeem dollars for gold at 35 dollars per ounce. The U.S. gold stock was $10,507 billion at the end of June.

Switzerland announced earlier it had purchased $50 million in gold from the United States last month. In the absence of other gold transactions, the U.S. gold stock will stand at about $10.266 billion today.

FROM IMF

In a complicated maneouvre announced by the treasury Friday, the United States will draw the equivalent of $862 million in Belgian francs and Dutch guilders from the IMF to buy back dollars from those nations' central banks.

Coupled with the gold sale, the IMF drawing will reduce U.S. foreign reserve assets — including gold, convertible foreign currencies, and IMF special drawing rights — to about $12.4 billion.

Treasury officials said the French repayment to the fund, and a $614 million British repayment, will be largely in Belgian and Dutch currencies.

PURCHASED GOLD

Both Belgium and the Netherlands tend to dispose of excess dollar holdings, usually by redeeming them at the treasury for gold. In May, Belgium purchased $80 million in gold from the treasury, using some of the dollars which flooded European money markets in the short-term capital crisis earlier in the year.

To obtain the francs and guilders for today's IMF repayments, France and Britian will have to purchase the currencies with dollars from the respective central banks. In turn, the United States will buy these dollars from Belgium and the Netherlands with the currencies it will withdraw from the IMF.

Rahman Faces In-Camera Trial

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Sheik Mujibur Rahman, whose Awami League followers led the rebellion against the Pakistan government, will go on trial Aug. 11 before a special military court for "waging war against Pakistan and other offences," it was announced today.

The announcement was issued by the headquarters of President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, in his capacity as chief martial law administrator.

Rahman, popular leader of the Awami League in East Pakistan, was arrested on the night of March 25-26 when West Pakistan troops moved into East Pakistan to put down a secessionist movement by the Awami League.

RUSSIANS LASH PEKING

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet news agency Tass accused Peking Sunday of pursuing a policy of "great-power chauvinism" towards its non-Chinese population and seeking to destroy its national traditions.

A Tass commentary, published in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya, says Peking treats scornfully the languages of non-Chinese peoples.

Fireman Injured

Alan Coleman, a Langford firetruck driver was injured Sunday when his truck rolled over on the way to a grass fire.

Coleman received head injuries and is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Colwood RCMP said the truck, a loaded tanker, rolled when making the sharp turn from Sooke Road to Jacklin. Police said the vehicle was set back on its wheels by a fork lift machine.

A spokesman for the volunteer department said the truck was one of several going to a fire at 777 Goldstream.

He said the fire involved about half an acre.

Mr. Gyurki edged three time winner John Mooring of Springhill, N.S., and 149 other entries for the title. Rudy Meeks of Orillia, Ont., was third.

cessions — frequently the cause of Roman Catholic-Protestant clashes.

A Belfast police spokesman confirmed that more than 300 persons had been picked up on internment orders.

The spokesman refused to disclose where the suspects were being held, but there have been reports of camps being readied to take detainees.

The weekend violence started with the slaying of the driver of a delivery truck, Harry Thornton, when his vehicle backfired outside an army post. Sentries apparently believed they were being attacked and fired a fusillade of shots which killed Thornton.

Patrick McAdorey, a 25-year-old IRA officer, was the latest to die. He was shot to death early today. His friends said a Protestant sniper did it, not the army.

IRA guerrillas hijacked the ambulance carrying McAdorey's body and placed the body in Holy Cross Catholic School. Hundreds of people filed by the coffin.

A British soldier on sentry duty in Belfast was shot dead by a sniper Sunday night—the 11th soldier to die in Northern Ireland in the last six months.

Later in the night a private security guard was killed by an exploding nail bomb planted by terrorists at a foundry in another part of the city.

SIX-MONTH BAN

Faulkner's ban on parades meant that the Protestant Apprentice Boys of Derry, scheduled to march Thursday in celebration of victory over Roman Catholics in 1689, would not be able to take to the streets.

Unofficial reports said those captured today included the entire executive council of the Civil Rights Association of Northern Ireland, all but one leader of the Leftist People's Democracy, the student group that launched Bernadette Devlin's successful campaign for Parliament, and members of republican clubs.

Arrested persons may be held 48 hours, and police may get extensions on this. Within 12 days an internment order has to be issued or the arrested person freed.

The internees are to be kept at Belfast prison on Crumlin Road.

AIMED AT IRA

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Republic of Ireland to the south opened army camps near the Northern Ireland border for the dependents of internees.

Although internment bore the approval of the British government, Lynch said it was "deplorable evidence of the political poverty of the policies pursued."

"The main target of the present operation," said Faulkner, "is the Irish Republican Army. They are the present threat."

Witnesses said today's renewed violence exploded mainly in Catholic areas as news of the army raids and internment measures spread like wildfire.

In Belfast, the worst trouble area during the morning, at least six double-decker buses were hijacked and later set on fire. Some streets were barricaded. Troops faced angry, stone-throwing crowds and some shots were heard. Several buildings were set on fire. Roaming gangs of youths attacked and overturned cars.

Public transportation services into the city were abandoned on many routes and long lines of people waited vainly to get into work.

In Londonderry a crowd attacked and set fire to a Protestant hall. Other rioters attacked a bus station and set some of the vehicles ablaze.

During the last internment period, from December, 1956, to February, 1962, a total of 335 people were held, although the highest figure detained at any one time was 187.

Rubber bullets and tear gas were used in the fighting today. The army was attacked with nail bombs and stones.

The soldier killed Sunday night, a private in the Green Howards Regiment, was the 29th person killed this year in the communal violence in Northern Ireland and the 11th British soldier. A total of 58 persons have been slain since Northern Ireland's ancient Catholic-Protestant feud erupted into new warfare during the annual parade of the Protestant Apprentice Boys in Londonderry on Aug. 12, 1969.

WON'T BAN PARADE

Despite the mounting violence, the Protestant government refused to ban the 1971 parade, scheduled for Thursday.

Snipers' bullets injured three soldiers slightly during rioting that followed Saturday night in protest against Thornton's death.

Mobs rampaged through Belfast again Sunday night, and "the city was in a hell of a state," an army spokesman said.

Shortly after dark a "brief but vicious" riot erupted in the Ardoyne Roman Catholic area, and it was during this clash between the army and stonethrowing demonstrators that a sniper killed the soldier. Snipers injured two other soldiers slightly.

Canoe Death To Be Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A formal inquiry will be made into the canoe capsizing at English Bay Saturday which left one man missing and presumed drowned.

A spokesman for city police said Sunday the investigation will be launched as soon as the body of Ralph Bettin, 23, of North Vancouver is found. Four others were rescued.

David Owen, 24, said the group was about 200 feet from a freighter in the bay when they switched positions and the canoe capsized.

"Then we saw a tug towing a barge of lumber coming toward us," he said.

"When the tug was about 500 feet away, we knew it wasn't going to stop so we swam off in different directions. The tug went right over top of us, but I couldn't see its name."

Rande Stevens, 20, managed to grab the tug's tow line and clamber on board. They later discovered Bettin was missing.

RENT A HEARING AID
. . . of course

Most ear Specialists would recommend that you do rent before you buy (any hearing aid)

IT MAKES SENSE FOR MANY REASONS:
★ You only pay a small rental charge for 30 days.
★ Avoid that big outlay of cash until you are sure.
★ It won't end up in your top drawer because you cannot get accustomed to it.
★ FREE Complete speech and puretone test given.
★ Each hearing aid is prescription fitted.
